...e suspicion that attached to the ...ctivity of Supervisors Hamil...and Norton was one of the chief ...ctors in the defeat of the county road bonds. The allied civic organizations that were fighting them were too powerful in their widespread influence for the proponents of the bonds to combat.

While the chief interest in the State yesterday centered in the anti-party laws, the defeat of which means the turning point in the political career of Gov. Johnson, those who braved the rigors of a perfect day to do their civic duty by making an expression on the ballot questions not only voted upon these two at the top of the ballot, but voted pretty generally upon all the other questions.

NO DOZEN-YEAR TERMS.

The proposed constitutional change extending the terms of judges to twelve years was decisively beaten. The early vote on that indicates that the voter searched out that particular "No" and stamped it with firmness and dispatch. In Los Angeles county, where the six-year term of some judges is regarded as an eternity, the amendment was beaten five to one. It was so elsewhere throughout the State.

The minor matter of killing off the freak candidate for the short term on the bench was pretty generally supported and is probably adopted.

The late arrival of returns from rural districts has left the question of rural credits in doubt. The favorable vote was slightly ahead of the adverse vote in the city precincts, but it is believed the back country will jump the proposal into the lead with a whoop.

Excess condemnation seems to have met the same fate this year as it met last fall. In Los Angeles this was apparently defeated by 4000 votes.

NO TAX GRAB.

One of the most encouraging signs of the election was the overwhelming defeat of the tax grab. This amendment by which the taxing of property would be placed at the mercy of each succeeding Legislature, and which would enrich the coffers of the State machine, was beaten by a vote of five or six to one. The people didn't even seem to be disposed to exempt church property from taxation, so eager were they to annihilate a majority of the propositions on the ballot.

Nor did the bit of political jobbery known as the "county charter amendment" escape the rebuff of the people. This proposal to extend the power of counties and make way for a shake-up in the county government was turned down.

An indication of the trend of the vote in Los Angeles country is seen in the following unofficial returns issued by Registrar of Voters McAleer at midnight. It shows the result on the twelve propositions in 260 of the 777 voting precincts in the county. Here is the result:

LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

Anti-party law — For, 15,087; Against, 18,313.
Form of ballot law—For, 13,914; Against, 17,142.
Long-term judges — For, 5413; Against, 26,620.
Vacancies of judges—For, 17,980, Against, 12,262.
Rural credits—For, 16,973; Against, 14,747.
Public moneys — For, 14,622; Against, 15,937.
Initiative and referendum change—For, 15,966; Against, 14,905.
Excess condemnation—For, 13,480; Against, 16,916.
Tax grab—For, 5899; Against, 23,281.
Exempting church property—For, 14,878; Against, 17,655.
County charters — For, 11,062; Against, 16,911.
Road bonds—For, 8725; Against, 24,040.

As the returns began to pour in the leads shown here increased in proportion.

An hour after the polls closed the election officials from No. 52, the voting booth at Third and Grand avenue, were in the Courthouse with the returns. The first precinct showed 18 votes for the Johnson anti-party measure and 29 against it.

From that on there came a perfect stream of returns, and bales of unused ballots were returned.

A force of men and women worked with Registrar McAleer until the small hours of the morning entertaining country guests.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 26.—All of the ...ions and amendments submitted to the voters of Redlands today were defeated with the exception of "term of judges filling vacancies," and the "taxation" amendments. The vote against the direct primary law was about three to one and the form of ballot law was defeated by a three to one vote. The voting was light there being less than 30 per cent. of the vote polled. The Johnson adherents admitted during the day that the measures were all defeated, but said it would be close. It is felt that it is a great victory for the people here. The total vote on the eleven propositions in Redlands was: No. 1—Yes, 267; No, 684. No. 2—Yes, 274;

MASKED BANDITS HOLD UP OKLAHOMA TRAIN POSSE ON THEIR TRAIL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] (30)

MUSKOGEE (Okla., Oct. 27.)—Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train No. 9, northbound, was held up by masked bandits at 2:20 o'clock this morning two miles south of Onapa. There are no telephone connections with Onapa.

The bloodhounds from the State penitentiary at McAlester are being taken to Onapa on No. 10, northbound, which left McAlester half an hour ago. A sheriff's posse is being formed at Eufaula and will leave for the scene of the hold-up at once.

A member of the train crew escaped and ran back to Checotah, seven miles, and gave the alarm. A special train to convey officers and bloodhounds will leave Muskogee for Onapa at 3 o'clock.

MEMBER OF CREW BOUND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] (30)

TULSA (Okla., Oct. 26.)—A member of the train crew who was bound hand and foot to a tree by the bandits was the first person to reach Eufaula giving the report of the robbery, according to the M. K. & T. agent at Eufaula over long distance telephone. There were several men in the gang, he said. The amount of the loot is not known. The escaped member of the crew said he heard many shots.

Two safes of the express company were blown open by the robbers, according to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas depot agent at Checotah, over long distance telephone. There were nine or ten members in the gang. None of the passengers or train crew were killed. The United States mail was not molested.

"For twenty days," the Premier says, "our common enemies have tried to annihilate us, and despite the heroism of our soldiers our resistance cannot be expected to be maintained indefinitely."

MISS CAVELL, IN CHICAGO, MADE NUMEROUS FRIENDS.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 26.—Twenty-two years ago a Chicagoan hurried home from England, where he had been traveling with his wife, in order to get a glimpse of the world's fair before it closed. His wife had been stricken with an illness while abroad and accompanying them on their return trip was a trained nurse, a pretty blonde English girl of 19 years, whose duty it was to care for the convalescing patient.

That girl was Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse, who, without a tremor, faced the rifles of a German firing squad on a charge of having aided Belgian prisoners to escape.

The two months' stay in Chicago of the woman whose tragic death has become a world-wide topic, was recalled by Mrs. G. N. Olson of No. 4332 North Kedvale avenue. The Miss Cavell whom Mrs. Olson met was a daughter of a minister and recent letters from England contained the information that she was doing valiant duty in the field hospitals for her country.

"Miss Cavell was a charming girl who made friends wherever she went," said Mrs. Olson. "She came to see me because my aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Blacklock, lived in the house adjoining that of the Cavells in Altrincham. Her father was a clergyman and at that time Miss Cavell was enrolled on the staff of St. Mary's Hospital in Manchester, Eng.

"I was impressed by her strong face, on which devotion and courage were stamped immutably, and for this reason I cannot help but believe she was the same woman who gave up her life so unflinchingly in Belgium.

"She told me that at one time she had attended the first wife of the late Marshall Field. At the end of two months Miss Cavell's patient returned to England for her health and the young nurse returned with her.

"I corresponded with Miss Cavell for a long time, but her letters came less frequently as her duties increased and then stopped altogether. I had not heard from her since the war broke out and wrote my aunt asking about her. She told me that Miss Cavell had gone to the front as a nurse."

OFFER TO GREECE HAS EXPIRED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Great Britain's offer of the island of Cyprus to Greece has lapsed because the condition under which the offer was made has not been fulfilled, Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, informed the House of Commons this afternoon. The Foreign Secretary told the House that in the very critical situation in which Servia found herself, the allies were bound to obtain, if possible, the only assistance immediately available. Accordingly Great Britain informed Greece that if she would give her full, immediate support to Servia against Bulgaria, Great Britain was prepared to give her Cyprus.

RUSSIA FORCES JEWISH LIBERTIES.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.] (30)

LONDON, Oct. 18.—During his recent visit in London M. Bark, the Russian Minister of Finance, gave a sympathetic audience to W. A. Appleton, honorary president of the Workers' League for Jewish Emancipation, who asked that the Jews in Russia be accorded the rights of citizens when they perform the duties of citizens.

In reply, M. Bark said an attempt to pass laws conferring additional rights on the Jews would have aroused controversy, and perhaps hostility among the Russian people, so that the Russian government had taken the matter in its own hands and conferred liberties and privileges by administrative action. The government in so acting proceeded on the assumption that closer contact with the Russians would break down prejudices and clear the way for greater liberties. Jews are now allowed to settle down and live among the rest of the people.

ASQUITH TO TELL TRUTH ABOUT WAR.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The answer to the question of how far, if at all, the government will meet the demand for fuller information regarding the war, will not be known until Thursday, when Premier Asquith returns to the House of Commons. A dozen queries, dealing with all phases of the war, appeared in today's question paper, but all were postponed in consequence of the Premier's absence, the only satisfaction vouchsafed being the promise of David Lloyd George, the Minister of Munitions, that Premier Asquith "intends shortly to make a full statement regarding the progress of the war."

NON-PARTY MEASURES, ALL AMENDMENTS LOST.

Decisive Defeat for Each of the Eleven Propositions is Indicated.

Small Vote Available at a Late Hour for Calculations Leaves Room for the Possibility that the Tide may be Turned, but as it Rolls it Brings Nothing but Bad News for the "Pay-roll Brigade."

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 26.—"All amendments, including the nonparty measures, are defeated."

For three hours tonight a sad-faced telephone operator in the Governor's office at the State Capitol sent this sorrowful message back to the expectant ears of the pay-roll brigade in all parts of the State while the first frost of the season withered the last roses and the first lilies in the Capitol park.

At the same time telegraph wires were carrying back to all the great news centers of the East word that the last trench of the "Progressive" party in the United States had been captured and that the carnage was something awful.

A GENERAL DEFEAT.

Each of the eleven proposals on the State ballot appear to have been decisively beaten. This statement is based on the returns received at midnight. The returns are slow coming in in spite of the fact the vote was light and the election is seemingly all one way. The small vote available at a late hour leaves room for the possibility, of course, that the tide may be turned. This holds true, friends of the Governor say, especially with reference to the nonparty measures for which the Governor made so vigorous a campaign. But nevertheless, as the tide now rolls, it appears that the magnificent State machine that has cost the taxpayers $40,000,000 in five years is a total wreck. Friends of good government are themselves surprised at the scope of the victory they have won, while the recrimination among the losers has already commenced.

Let Us Rejoice!

EVERY PROPOSITION OF GOV. JOHNSON DEFEATED.

Returns from About One-third of the Precincts in the State Leave Little Room for Doubt as to the Result. Executive Laments that the No-partyites Were Ahead of the Time.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—The proposition to make all State officers nonpartisan was rejected at a Statewide election today by more than 19,000 majority. There went to defeat with it all of the proposals submitted. Returns from 1584 of 4672 precincts in the State gave the following incomplete results, which were admitted by leaders on each side to be conclusive:

No. 1, direct primary, yes, 45,378; no, 64,974.
No 2, form of ballot, yes, 38,931; no, 57,146.
No. 3, term Superior judges, yes, 19,606; no, 76,831.
No. 4, term judges filling vacancies, yes, 42,427; no, 50,146.
No. 5, rural credits, yes, 38,534; no, 52,829.
No. 6, deposit of public moneys, yes, 31,310; no, 99,470.
No. 7, initiative and referendum, yes, 39,842; no, 48,109.
No. 8, condemnation for public purposes, yes, 31,427; no, 56,204.
No. 9, taxation, yes, 14,638; no, 72,992.
No. 10, exempting property, yes, 26,179; no, 64,977.
No. 11, county charters, yes, 28,669; no, 56,791.

In conceding defeat of the nonparty measure, Gov. Johnson issued a statement.

JOHNSON ADMITS DEFEAT.

Gov. Johnson's statement said:

"The results show that those who have advocated nonpartisanship are just a little ahead of the times.

"Nonpartisanship would have completed popular rule in California and would have lodged in the people the last remaining power as well as responsibility for their government. We have been unable to make this plain and nonpartisanship in State affairs has been defeated.

"When it shall be thoroughly understood, and this will be at no distant date, it is as certain to be adopted as that the people themselves will rule.

"Long ago the men who have been on the firing line in California learned not only how to give a punch but how to take one. We have given many punches, real body blows at privilege and special interests and crooked politics in the last four years and with equanimity and cheerfulness we accept this result.

"HIRAM W. JOHNSON."

SCHMITT'S STATEMENT.

Assemblyman Milton L. Schmitt, minority leader at the Forty-first Legislature and chairman of the platform committee of the last Republican State convention, said:

"The result of today's election proves that the people of California have resented the effort to deprive them of the right to organize along political party lines. Today's vote is a magnificent justification of the actions of the minority in the recent Legislature, who battled against the overwhelming force of the present administration machine in an effort to defeat these nonpartisan bills.

"It is likewise a complete repudiation of the action of those in

RESPITE FOR SCALPERS.
Judge Trippet in the United States District Court yesterday continued for one week the temporary injunction granted the Southern Pacific, the Salt Lake and the Santa Fe railroads against Kline and other alleged ticket scalpers. Other business interfered with the hearing of the petition on its merits. It is claimed that, since the court allowed the temporary order some time ago, it has been violated, one of the defendants selling a tourist a ticket over the Southern Pacific that was taken up at San Francisco. The traveler and an officer of the transportation association behind the prosecution in the local courts, brought the man back and compelled the scalper to refund the price of the transportation, about $40.

BECOMES CITIZEN.
John Joseph Krivanek, a subject of Austria, was admitted to citizenship yesterday by Judge Trippet, it appearing that the petitioner had concluded a term of service in the United States Navy as a member of the Marine Corps. Such cases are covered by a special statute, and no examination is necessary, it being the theory of the law that if a man is good enough to fight for the country he will measure up to the standard of good citizenship.

SEVEN NEW ATTORNEYS.
The District Court of Appeal opened its October term yesterday, with arguments and the submission of briefs in a dozen unimportant cases. SERBIAN ARMY DEFEATED, LORD LANSDOWNE ADMITS

But the Allies are Sending More Men to the Balkan Region.

"We will Give Them Blow for Blow," Marquis Declares to His Peers, "and We Accept the Challenge of the Central Powers to Fight it Out in the Near East." Reinforcements on the Way.

LONDON, Oct. 26, 7 p.m.—Replying to a question by Earl Loreburn in the House of Lords this afternoon as to the progress of the campaign in the Balkans, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, who holds a seat in the Cabinet without portfolio, said:

"I must say with great regret I am afraid we must admit that the progress of the campaign in Northern Servia has been such as to render it highly improbable that the Servian army will be able to withstand for any great length of time the attacks to which it is exposed from the Austro-German forces on the north, aided by the stab in the back which Servia is receiving at the hands of Bulgaria."

While there was no criticism of the conduct of the near-eastern campaign, there was a general demand, when the House of Lords met, for information and the suggestion of a smaller Cabinet to have charge of the war received support.

Lord Lansdowne, in his reply, gave a general review of the Saloniki operations, while Earl Curzon of Kedleston, Lord Privy Seal, made the statement that Premier Asquith had under consideration the matter of a smaller executive board.

Lord Lansdowne explained that the British force landed at Saloniki, which numbers about 13,000 men, was sent at the request of Servia and at the instance of Venizelos (then Premier) for the purpose of enabling Greece to fulfill her treaty obligations to Servia. A much stronger force had been placed under orders at the same time the Saloniki troops were dispatched, but its ultimate destination would depend on the situation and the report of Gen. Monro, the new commander-in-chief, who has already reached the Gallipoli peninsula.

Earl Loreburn had asked whether or not the dispatch of troops to Saloniki had been determined upon with the approval of the naval and military advisers and if the government could give assurance that full provision had been made for the communications of this force and for its supply of men and material to the satisfaction of the naval and military experts. Earl Loreburn said that he understood that the government's desire was that the matter should not be debated at the present time, but that there was a reason for asking the question.

"We are disappointed in the Dardanelles enterprise," the Earl continued, and he added that he did not know whether that enterprise had commenced with or without the advice of the naval and military authorities and one could not help asking whether this new venture would be a repetition of that. The greatest danger from which this country could suffer, the speaker said, was unpreparedness and indecision."

EXPLANATION.

The Marquis of Lansdowne explained that there were moments when it was not in the public interest that questions relating to the war should be freely discussed in Parliament as the effect on both the allies and their enemies had to be considered. He declared, however, that he could assure Earl Loreburn that neither in the present government nor in any government of which he had been a member had it been the practice of amateur strategists to impose their plans upon the professional advisers of the government.

With the present government, the Marquis of Lansdowne continued, it was unlikely that anything of the kind could occur. Earl Kitchener was present at every Cabinet meeting and it was impossible to suppose that he would allow himself to be deflected from his course by the pressure of his civilian colleagues.

Apart from that, the speaker added, the procedure by the committees and the councils had given a far greater opportunity to the military and naval experts to assert themselves and make their views known. The Cabinet as a whole considered both naval and military and political prospects of the case, the Ministers and their advisers took an account of both sides of the problem, but whatever particular views were given by the military and naval advisers the ultimate responsibility for a decision on them must rest on the government. As to the Saloniki expedition the Marquis said:

"I cannot enter into the apprehensions which possess Earl Loreburn. I can quite understand, having before him our commitment in the western theater of the war, the position in which we find ourselves on the Gallipoli Peninsula and our interests in Egypt and the other possessions of the empire which should be borne in mind, it is profoundly distasteful to him that the matter should be complicated by our entering into new entanglements in the new sphere of the war."

Earl Loreburn, interrupting himself:

"I did not say that. What I asked was if you had naval and military opinion to justify you in your decision."

The Marquis of Lansdowne: "I understand that Earl Loreburn should dislike the idea of what might be described as this further effort on our part at a time when we are making so many efforts in different parts of the world."

"Under what circumstances has a British force been sent to Saloniki? I should like to recall the position in the month of September. The central powers had made no progress in the western theater for a long time. They, indeed, had been successfully attacked and pushed back at several points. On the Russian front their advance, overwhelming at first, had received a serious check. The Italians were pressing their offensive and in the minor theaters of the war—Mesopotamia for example—success was resting with our arms.

"That being the situation, the central powers very naturally looked about to discover some new direction in which they might seek for a decision satisfactory to themselves. Their choice fell, as it was not likely to fail, on a great attempt to make good in Southeastern Europe and through Bulgaria to threaten ou frorisenc 12 Bulgaria to threaten our forces in Gallipoli and Constantinople and Egypt, to say nothing of the vaster aspirations which perhaps lay behind.

"That great project became doubly attractive from the moment when, most unfortunately, Bulgaria threw her influence on their side. There was one obstacle, and only one, to that project. The key of the situation lay in the eastern corner of Servia.

"We found Servia threatened by a formidable concentration of troops, and I cannot help here paying tribute to the wonderful gallantry with which they withstood two separate invasions and her struggles against a third. She will afford one of the most glorious chapters of this great war.

"Under these circumstances Servia made a direct appeal to us for help, but it was not only Servia that invoked our co-operation.

"Servia was bound to Greece by geographical propinquity, by common interests in this war and by treaty obligations. Moreover, it was only through Grecian territory that help could possibly reach Servia; it was only by the use of a great force that a base could be provided for it. In the circumstances the good will of Greece was of first importance to us, and we had at that time every reason to feel assured that we had that good will.

"Venizelos was still in power, and at his instance we undertook to provide a force for the purpose of enabling Greece to fulfill her treaty obligations to Servia. It was under such circumstances that we sent such troops as were available to Saloniki. It was a small force because only a small force could be collected at the time.

"The French government, on their side, dispatched a force which is now on the spot and which apparently at this moment is engaged with the Bulgarians on the eastern frontier of Servia. At the same time a larger force was preparing for service in Southeastern Europe, and transports were taken out for the purpose of conveying it to its destination.

"I suggest that these steps—incomplete, no doubt—were taken with great promptitude, and they were the only ones which could be taken to relieve the position of Servia. They were taken after full deliberation with the naval and military advisers.

"The British forces at Saloniki, 13,000 in round numbers, may be regarded as the precursor of a larger force which has been put under orders. At the same time the use to which that force will be put must depend upon the situation when it arrives at the scene.

"Events have moved very rapidly in that part of the world. There have been two quite recent developments which profoundly affected the military and political situation. The first was the deliberate decision of the Greek government that her treaty engagements did not require her to go to the rescue of Servia in the present momentous crisis, and the other is the progress of the campaign in Northern Servia."

Lord Lansdowne, after giving some details of the position of the Servian armies, expressed his opinion as to the outlook for Servia, as quoted in the beginning of this dispatch. Continuing, he said:

"The military plans must depend upon the military situation when reinforcements arrive, and upon this point the allies are of one mind. The military and naval advisers of Great Britain and France will consult, and until these consultations are concluded, I cannot say for what purpose the British force will be used.

"Discussions are now proceeding, and Gen. Munro, who arrived in that part of the world today, has been instructed to report as soon as possible his opinion of all the aspects of the case.

"Lord Loreburn need have no apprehension in this or in any other matter of the kind that the government is likely to be led into precipitate ac-

WAR FAVORS THE GERMANS, DECLARES MAJOR MORAHT.

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (via Tuckerton, N. J.)—The present military situation is eminently favorable to the central powers, in the view of Maj. Moraht, the military critic of the Berliner Tageblatt, whose review of the various campaigns is summarized thus by the Overseas News Agency:

"In the West the Anglo-French offensive is ebbing slowly, after the failure of the attempts to break the German lines. Political reasons are compelling the British and French to continue their offensive operations for a time, Maj. Moraht declares.

"Italy, he says, desires to make her own war, and all demands from the Anglo-French press that she send troops to the Balkans will be in vain. The true reason, he declares, is that Italy needs all her reserves in the Alps, since she has lost hundreds of thousands of men by senseless attacks upon the bravely-defended Austro-Hungarian positions. It cannot be doubted, he added, that all her future sacrifices will be equally useless and that finally the day will come when the Austro-Hungarians themselves will take the offensive.

"In the Balkans, says Maj. Moraht, the most difficult part of the task has been achieved by the forcing of the passage of the Danube and the storming of the principal fortifications south of Belgrade, while the Bulgarian troops, through the capture of Kumanovo, Nskup and Veles, have made it impossible from now on for the Entente allies to help the Servians."

FRANCE AFTER NEW WAR CREDIT.

PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR A LOAN OF FIFTEEN MILLIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Wall street heard today on seemingly good authority that preparations had been almost completed for the establishment of a French credit in this city of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

According to reports current in the financial section the sum was to be used solely for the payment of munitions shipped from this country for the account of France. What form the credit would take was not divulged, but it was thought that it would be in the form of acceptances. If so, such acceptances probably would run for ninety days, with privilege of renewal.

It was thought that announcement of details would be forthcoming in a few days.

"No further details have been received."

FRENCH AIRMAN DEFEATS GERMAN.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The official communication issued tonight reads as follows:

"One of our monoplane pilots gave chase north of Dormans to an enemy aeroplane, which he attacked at short range. The German aeroplane was hit in several places by bullets from the rapid-fire gun, but was able to make a landing near Jaulgonne, in the Valley of the Marne. The two officers were taken prisoners at the moment they were attempting to destroy their machine. This remains intact in our hands."

The Belgian official communication follows:

"After a quiet night the enemy artillery today bombarded quite violently the district to the south of Nieuport, Pervyse, Oostkerke, the neighborhood of Dixmude and our works to the north of Steenstraete. We repulsed vigorously, but there was no infantry action."

RULERS MEET ON WAR FRONT.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—President Poincare and Minister of War Millerand yesterday met King George on the Anglo-French front and reviewed the British troops. Today King George, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, returned the visit and also called on Gen. Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, and witnessed a march past by the French colonial troops and inspected the artillery observatories and the sites of the batteries.

President Poincare conferred the war cross on the Prince of Wales, who has been at the front since a short time after the commencement of hostilities.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Alexandre Millerand, the French Minister of War, today began an inquiry regarding the speech Canon Legardere is reported to have made to the Sixth Regiment of Dragoons on October 6. The Canon is said to have declared:

"France is tottering under the weight of its errors and national faults. It has need of new inoculation in order to make itself worthy of overcoming cruel punishment."

FIVE MEMBERS RESIGN FROM EPISCOPAL BOARD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Five members of the board of missions of the Episcopal Church tendered their resignations today when the quarterly meeting of the board refused by a vote of 26 to 13 to rescind the resolution adopted last May to participate in the Panama-Interdenominational Missionary Conference to be held in February. The meeting was declared to have been the most turbulent ever held by the board.

The Roman Catholic Church, through its missions several months ago, declined the invitation to participate in the Panama conference because it believed the plans of the conference were hostile to the Roman Catholic Church.

The five members who tendered their resignations were Bishop Reginald H. Weller, Fond du Lac, Wis.; Bishop G. Mott Williams, Marquette, Mich.; Bishop Alfred Harding, Washington, D. C.; Rev. Dr. Selden P. Delany, Milwaukee, and Rev. Dr. William T. Manning of Trinity Church, New York City.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd of New York, president of the board, suggested that the resignations would not be acted upon until tomorrow, when "the strain of our five-hour struggle will have cooled." The meeting accepted this suggestion and adjourned.

CAUSE OF ROW.

The controversy at today's meeting, at which the members opposing participation in the Panama conference were led by Bishop Weller and Dr. Manning, disclosed the fact that the midwestern synod, which met in Chicago recently, also opposed the Panama conference by a vote of approximately 10 to 1, a considerable proportion of the low church members voting against participation.

The Panama conference proposed, according to the first announcements, to be a continuation of general missionary plans developed at the Edinburgh, Scotland, missionary conference held several years ago. Later bulletins and notices concerning the coming conference, read at today's meeting of the Episcopal board, indicated that the Panama conference would deal largely with co-operative plans for extension of missionary work in Central and South America. Bishop William Rojas of the Roman Catholic diocese of Panama, issued a strong attack on the objects of the conference and shortly after this the first open opposition developed in the Protestant Episcopal church.

Bishop Weller caused a tense feeling in the meeting when he declared that to participate in the conference, under present proposed conditions, would be a direct attack at the Roman Catholic church and that no denomination could attack another denomination and reconcile its ideals of Christianity.

The Rev. Reese F. Alsop of Brooklyn stoutly defended the sending of delegates, declaring that the meeting at Panama would be solely a conference, not a co-operative congress. He also took the ground that the board having gone on record as favoring the Panama conference, could not now revoke its former attitude. Bishop Weller arose again and intimated that the feeling over the Panama conference was so keen in his diocese that it might cause a break in the church. A few minutes later the vote was taken and Bishop Weller was the first to tender his resignation.

The discussion will be resumed at the second session tomorrow, when the question of instructing the ten or twelve delegates to be elected will come before the board.

Four Men Now Held by the Federal Officials.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—What part, if any, the delaying of vessels laden with copper for the allies was to have taken in the alleged conspiracy of German agents to prevent war munitions from reaching Europe from this country was under investigation by Federal authorities today, following an additional confession made to secret service officials by Robert Fay, said to be a former lieutenant in the German army.

Fay, who is one of the five men charged with conspiracy to delay or prevent the sailing of war munitions ships from this country, gave a detailed confession to William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service. In it, according to the Federal authorities, he repeated his former confession made to the police at Weehawken, N. J., but stated in addition that his mission, besides placing bombs on the propellers or rudder of ships, was to endeavor to bribe the commanders of Russian vessels. He said the plan he was to endeavor to carry through, was to induce a Russian commander to run a cargo of copper into a German port, at which place a large sum of money was to be paid to the Russian.

Government officials said they were inclined to give little credence to this phase of Fay's story, but it was made a part of the evidence upon which the men were held over for further hearing.

FOUR MEN HELD.

Four of the men charged with conspiracy were locked up under Federal custody tonight. These included Fay and Walter L. Scholz, his brother-in-law, who after being released in a police court at Weehawken, were rearrested on Federal warrants and brought to New York. They were taken before United States Commissioner Houghton. Both Fay and Scholz said they had no funds with which to employ counsel. Commissioner Houghton postponed their hearing until November 4, held them each under $25,000 bond and said that in the meantime he would provide them with counsel.

Paul Daeche, another of the alleged conspirators, when arrested on a Federal warrant in the Weehawken police court, elected to be taken before the nearest United States Commissioner, at Jersey City, N. J. He, too, was held in $25,000 bond, but his hearing was set for November 3. Dr. Herbert Kienzle, who was arrested yesterday in New York, up to tonight had been unable to furnish bond for his release from the Tombs prison.

Chief Flynn said that so far he had been unable to locate Max Breitung, the fifth man charged with complicity in the conspiracy. Breitung is a cousin of E. N. Breitung of New York and Marquette, Mich., a wealthy mining man. In a dispatch from Marquette, E. N. Breitung was quoted as saying his cousin would provide legal defense, which was taken as indicating that the man named in the complaint here would appear later. It was said he left Chicago today for New York.

DOUBT CONVICTIONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Officials of the Department of Justice expressed doubt today whether the Federal government can make out a case against the men implicated in the plot to blow up munitions ships sailing from the United States. Detailed information as to what evidence has been collected by the New York police or the secret service was still lacking today.

LOS ANGELES TOT ENDS LONG TRIP.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD YOUNGSTER WEARING A TAG REACHES CONNECTICUT.

HARTFORD (Ct.) Oct. 26.—After traveling 3000 miles alone, little 5-year-old Elmer Gardiner, Jr., late of Los Angeles, arrived here today, bearing a tag "Please be good to me and deliver me to my grandmother, Mrs. Anna Ammann, Hartford, Ct." The youngster is precocious and loquacious and today was a busy time for him telling his grandmother and many others who called to see him all he had observed on the long trip.

Apparently little escaped him from "Canoeing Injuns" to "The funny beds in the train." He reports a bully time en route, making special mention of the candy given him at many points and a special reception by the Loyal Order of Moose at El Paso.

The lad's mother died suddenly four weeks ago and a California lawyer, receiving a check for $125, about the price of a transcontinental railroad fare, misunderstood that the money was for Elmer's maintenance and started the lad on his journey East.

GERMANS ADVANCE ON ALL FRONTS.

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (via Sayville, N. Y.)—German advances on all fronts are reported in today's official statement.

German positions over a front of 250 meters in the Champagne north of Le Mesnil, which the French captured on Sunday, are said to have been retaken. Five officers and 150 French soldiers were captured. Only one small trench northeast of Le Mesnil remains in the hands of the French.

On the northern part of the Russian front Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's army has again crossed the Illoukst district and reconquered Kasimirshtki farm.

Further south the army of Prince Leopold repulsed Russian attacks east of Baranovichi and south of Vygonovskoye Lake.

The army of Gen. Von Linsingen has stormed the Russian position east of Kolki and west of Czartorysk and repulsed a Russian counter-attack. Four officers, 1450 men and ten machine guns were captured.

A further advance was made yesterday by the German forces in Servia. East of Viserrad, Bosnia, further progress was made and several positions were occupied. South of Palanka ground was gained on the northern slope of the Raca Valley. Further east the Germans captured Markovatah, Laopa and Kutahevo. During the last three days 960 Servians have been captured.

FIVE MILLION MEN LOST BY GERMANICS

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant, as quoted by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent, gives German losses from October 11 to 20, at 57,42[illegible] in dead, wounded and missing. The total Prussian losses are given as 2,021,078.

The newspaper says there also have been issued 228 Bavarian, 209 Saxon, 236 Wurttemberg and fifty-three naval casualty lists, as well as lists of officers and under-officers with the Turkish army. The Courant figures the total losses to the central powers as 5,000,000.

TRYING TO OBTAIN GERMAN GOODS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—With the object of facilitating the release of the American-owned goods of German and Belgian origin now held in Holland, the British Embassy and State Department officials are considering the feasibility of having some person or persons designated to pass upon and guarantee invoices. Under some such arrangement permission might be obtained for the British Embassy here to accept as final and sufficient the decision of such an arbitrator working in the United States and thereby save all the time now occupied in referring to London for approval the cases completed in Washington by the Embassy officials in conjunction with the State Department trade advisers.

Sir Cecil Spring Rice was in conference today with Counselor Polk on this subject, but so far no conclusion has been reached.

The State Department today made representations seeking to extend from November 1 to December 1, the limit within which applications may be filed for the release of goods now held up abroad by the British order in council. Under the arrangement now in force, applications must be filed before November 1.

Hundreds of applications for permits have been filed with the foreign trade advisers and many now are before the British Embassy. Delay in disposing of the applications at the embassy has resulted in the request for an extension of time.

Representations were made unofficially through the foreign trade advisers here and through Ambassador Page at London, urging that all American importers would be unable to file applications prior to November 1.

NO SUCCESSOR TO DELCASSE.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The expected decision in regard to the successor to Theophile Delcasse as Foreign Minister was not reached at the Cabinet meeting this afternoon. It is possible, however, that the decision will not be long delayed.

During the conferences recently held by Premier Viviani with representatives of the various political parties, a number of proposals have been advanced. This has given rise to reports that the Premier contemplates important changes in the Cabinet. There has even been discussion of a complete change. It is expected a final decision will be reached prior to the meeting of the Cabinet Thursday.

PEACE TALK IS REVIVED; SLAVS MAY QUIT ALLIES

Kaiser Said to Have Offered Constantinople as Reward to Russia.

Reports are Again Current in Diplomatic Circles that German Emperor has Renewed His Offer to Detach Russia from the Entente—Sir Edward Grey Approached by Emissary from Berlin.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 26.—Rumors of impending peace in Europe again fill the air. This time the reports have been received with slightly more credence in diplomatic circles here, where there is a general expectancy of decisive developments in the Balkan theater of war before snow flies.

The report that has been received from abroad by more than one embassy here is that Emperor Wilhelm of Germany within the last week has renewed his overtures to Russia for the conclusion of a separate peace. According to this story he has promised the Czar possession of Constantinople as a reward for deserting the Quadruple Entente.

Further particulars are to the effect that Germany is willing to relinquish all the Russian territory it now holds, with the exception of Poland, which Berlin plans to constitute an independent kingdom, and would induce Austria-Hungary to present Russia with a portion of Galicia inhabited mainly by Slavs.

That the Kaiser has been endeavoring for some time to detach Russia from her allies is well known here. In German official circles it is admitted that this is the keynote of the Kaiser's military policy. It was only last summer that German proposals for a separate peace were submitted to Petrograd through the medium of the King of Denmark.

RUSSIA STANDS PAT.

Russia rejected the German proposal, although it was [illegible] offers of rewards fully as [illegible] those now reported to have been [illegible] out to the Czar. EMISSARY FROM BERLIN GIVES TERMS TO LOND[illegible]

BY HERMAN BERNSTEIN.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 26.—In the course of a European trip I obtained information from a most reliable source that Germany and England have already exchanged views with regard to terms of peace. According to this information, which I have every reason to regard as authentic, a neutral residing in Berlin was authorized to bear in writing Germany's terms of peace to England. On August 10, 1915, this man carrying documents from the Imperial German Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, was received by Sir Edward Grey, who knew in advance the purpose of his mission.

I understand that the terms proposed by Germany were very much like those outlined to me by Prof. Hans Delbrueck, the famous historian, editor and friend of the Kaiser. According to Delbrueck, peace could be secured by ceding to Germany such colonies as Uganda and Nigeria by England and the French and Belgian Congoes, as a ransom for the evacuation by Germany of Northern France and Belgium. The question of an indemnity to the amount of the cost of one year of war was also laid before Sir Edward Grey. These [illegible] course, unsatisfactory to [illegible] Sir Edward Grey, it is [illegible] then outlined his terms of [illegible]

Democratic Leader is A[illegible] Defense Programm[illegible]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 26.—With a sudden [illegible] that threw the administration [illegible] state of consternation, Claude [illegible] n of North Carolina, the new [illegible] cratic leader of the House, toda[illegible] nounced that he will not support [illegible] dent Wilson's programme for n[illegible] of defense.

This means that some other [illegible] will have to be found in the r[illegible] of Democracy to carry the progra[illegible] through the House. If any effort is made to bind Kitc[illegible] to a caucus verdict on the arm[illegible] and navy bills it is likely that he w[illegible] insist upon exemption. It is now pro[illegible] able that if the caucus is held as t[illegible] President and other leaders desi[illegible] that it should be, there will be co[illegible] siderable bolting by the followers [illegible] Kitchin as well as of followers of Wi[illegible] liam Jennings Bryan.

Kitchin said today that he was op[illegible] posed to a bond issue for military de[illegible] fenses; that he favored strict economy [illegible] in the appropriations for public build[illegible] ings and rivers and harbors, but tha[illegible] he feels that this country should no[illegible] enter upon an area of military pre[illegible] paredness.

Chairman Hay of the Military Af[illegible] fairs Committee of the House has ad[illegible] vised the President of his support, [illegible] although previously he had been op[illegible] posed to increased expenditures for [illegible] the army or navy. He will have charge [illegible] of the army bill, and Representative [illegible] Padgett of Tennessee, chairman of the [illegible] Naval Affairs Committee, will have [illegible] charge of the navy bill.

It is evident now that with the fol[illegible]lowing that Kitchin and former Sec[illegible] retary Bryan will be able to com[illegible] mand for the unpreparedness policy, [illegible] the President will have to rely large[illegible]ly upon Republican votes to put [illegible] through his programme.

Among the Democratic members of [illegible] the House, especially among those [illegible] who, for political reasons, are nomi[illegible]nally supporting the President, there [illegible] is being organized a movement to [illegible] make a cry for economy and against [illegible] the issue of bonds. Inasmuch as the [illegible] Treasury is facing a deficit, there can [illegible] be no increased appropriations for [illegible] the army and navy unless bonds are [illegible] issued. The administration favors an [illegible] issue of bonds, but has not yet made [illegible] a formal announcement, fearing the [illegible] political effect. A stand will have to [illegible] be taken on this issue shortly after [illegible] Congress convenes.

There is little doubt that with the [illegible] aid of the Republicans the army and [illegible] navy programme can be put through [illegible] the Senate and House, but so far as [illegible] its own party is concerned, insurgency [illegible] is now in full swing as a result of [illegible] Kitchin's unexpected statement today, [illegible] and with a scant majority of thirty [illegible] in the House, the President is likely [illegible] to have his hands full in preserving a [illegible] united party.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Suspension of postal money-order exchanges between the United States and Greece has been ordered by Postmaster-General Burleson, pending the negotiation of a new postal convention between the two countries. More orders are drawn in the United States for payment in Greece than are received in the United States for payment, and the balance is paid Greece monthly. The war has made it impossible to make these payments in gold through Paris exchange, as required by the present convention.

American postal authorities said today they have had no intimation from Germany of a discontinuance of the parcel post with the United States.

CLAUDE KITCHIN DEFIES WILSON.

Democratic Leader is Against Defense Programme.

Will Fight Plan to Enlarge the Army and Navy.

Administration may Have to Ask Republican Aid.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 26.—With a suddenness that threw the administration into a state of consternation, Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, the new Democratic leader of the House, today announced that he will not support President Wilson's programme for national defense.

This means that some other man will have to be found in the ranks of Democracy to carry the programme through the House. The administration had been depending on Kitchin. While he had made several discouraging statements, it was hoped that he could be won over as Chairman Hay of the Military Affairs Committee of the House was won over, in a personal interview with the President.

Announcement was made at the White House today that Kitchin would see the President tomorrow morning. The Democratic leader of the House left Washington this afternoon on the 3 o'clock train for his home in North Carolina. And he will not see President Wilson.

PLANS OF KITCHIN.

While Kitchin said that he would back the programme of the President as an individual member of the House, relinquishing the floor speaking while the fight is on, it will be hard for him to disassociate himself from his position as director of the Democratic forces, and his opposition will be felt in the secret Democratic caucus that will be held.

If any effort is made to bind Kitchin to a caucus verdict on the army and navy bills it is likely that he will stand upon exemption. It is now probable that if the caucus is held as the President and other leaders desire it should be, there will be considerable bolting by the followers of Kitchin as well of followers of William Jennings Bryan.

Kitchin said today that he was opposed to a bond issue for military defense; that he favored strict economy in appropriations for public buildings and rivers and harbors, but that it was his that this country should not rely upon an area of military preparedness.

Chairman Hay of the Military Affairs Committee of the House has asked the President of his support, which previously he had been opposed to increased expenditures for army or navy. He will have charge of the army bill, and Representative Padgett of Tennessee, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, will have charge of the navy bill.

It is evident now that with the following that Kitchin and former Secretary Bryan will be able to command for the unpreparedness policy, the President will have to rely largely upon Republican votes to put through its programme.

Among the Democratic members of the House, especially among those who, for political reasons, are nominally supporting the President, there is being organized a movement to make a cry for economy and against issue of bonds. Inasmuch as the country is facing a deficit, there can be increased appropriations for army and navy unless bonds are had. The administration favors an issue of bonds, but has not yet made formal announcement, fearing the political effect. A stand will have to be taken on this issue shortly after congress convenes.

There is little doubt that with the aid of the Republicans the army and navy programme can be put through the Senate and House, but so far as the Democratic party is concerned, insurgency is now in full swing as a result of Kitchin's unexpected statement today, which, with a scant majority of thirty in the House, the President is likely to have his hands full in preserving a united party.

POSTAL ROBBERIES VERY NUMEROUS.

POSTMASTERS ARE TOLD TO BE MORE CAREFUL AND CARRY FEWER STAMPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Postoffice burglaries have been so numerous of late that an order went forth today to all postmasters except of the first-class throughout the country to keep on hand a smaller number of stamps and other papers of a commercial value and to guard them more carefully.

Reports to the Postoffice Department accounting for last year's business show that 1400 claims, aggregating a loss of $190,000, resulted from burglary of postoffices.

Inspectors were unable in most cases to find any trace of the stolen goods because of the lack of identification marks. Their investigations, however, have led department officials to believe that stamp brokers in a number of the larger cities make it their business to dispose of stolen goods. The department is endeavoring to develop some means for identifying stamps and other papers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The United States assay office here has notified bankers interested in the recent heavy importation of gold that large shipments of that metal cannot be handled at the assay office for some time. The foreign coin has to be melted and moulded into bars, and the task has overtaxed the resources of the government institution.

The $25,000,000 shipment, which was to come here from Ottawa this week, will be split into smaller parts in order to facilitate the assay office operations.

There was a wound, evidently made with a hatchet, in the head and a heavy cord tied about the neck. From the clothing of the victim $11.75 was recovered. The police believe the man was murdered, the body sealed in the barrel and the cask taken to the lonely spot on the outskirts of the city where it was found.

SHIPPING BOARD IS RECOMMENDED

Suspension of Seamen's Act is Asked of Wilson.

Foreign Trade Council Calls it an Unjust Measure.

Declares Capital Fears to Engage in Enterprise.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Suspension by President Wilson, under authority to be granted by Congress, of the Seamen's Act, in whole or part, until a government shipping board of five members can be organized and recommend measures necessary to maintain American shipping on a competitive basis with other nations, is advocated by the National Foreign Trade Council, in a report adopted recently and made public today.

Problems relating to American shipping under the Seamen's Act were given long study on behalf of the council, which represents mammoth American interests identified with almost every phase of foreign trade, by a committee composed of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation; R. A. S. Franklin, vice-president of the International Mercantile Marine Company, and Capt. Robert Dollar of San Francisco. The committee's report was adopted by the council as correctly setting forth its views.

CREW REQUIREMENTS.

The requirement that 75 per cent. of the crews of vessels calling at American ports must be able to understand any order given by the officers is said by the report to place American ships at enormous disadvantage as compared with Japanese vessels, whose crews are the only low-priced labor understanding the language of their officers.

"It is not strange," the report continues, "that American capital has displayed little inclination to embark upon shipping ventures, which the government promised immediately to oppose with uneconomic competition. This alone was sufficient deterrent, but in the midst of the agitation, another unfavorable policy was introduced by the enactment of the seamen's law, which in its present shape places virtually upon American ships alone in foreign trade, burdens in excess to those found in the maritime legislation of any nation with which American ships are expected to compete."

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS.

Among its recommendations the council submits the following:

"That Congress establish a permanent shipping board, composed of five members, who shall be men experienced in shipping and foreign trade. This board shall recommend to Congress such revision and modernization of all United States laws relating to shipping as it deems necessary and shall permanently discharge all the functions of the Federal government relating thereto. The board shall be directed to ascertain the cost of construction and operation, rates of interest on shipping mortgages, insurance rates, etc., of American shipping as compared with that of other nations, and it should be its duty to determine what line of ocean carrying trade shall be permanently developed under the American flag for the benefit of the foreign commerce of the United States and to recommend methods whereby such lines may be rendered possible, in the event of the cost of their operation preventing effective competition with foreign services in the same zone."

Harvard Boys Misled by Cheap Politicians Into Illegal Registrations, but Escape Punishment.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Oct. 26.—"Harvard undergraduates have been misled by cheap politicians into illegal registration for the coming State election," Dist.-Atty. Corcoran said today, in announcing that the students would not be prosecuted. The grand jury has been investigating alleged wholesale registrations of students who claimed to be self-supporting. Conferences between the District Attorney and Prof. Felix Frankfurter, representing President Lowell of the university, resulted in the announcement that there would be no grand jury action in the cases.

Persons said to have been responsible for the student registrations, however, are under investigation by the grand jury, the District Attorney said.

Kansas City (Kan.) Police Seize Beer Trucks, Imprison Drivers and Destroy the Drinkables.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 26.—Drastic action by officials of Kansas City, Kan., to prohibit illegal sale of beer by breweries was taken today when three drivers were arrested, sentenced to jail and the beer and trucks confiscated. The drivers were fined $500 each and given six months in jail. More than 100 cases of beer were destroyed.

The action was taken, it was said, because of numerous court delays in the city's effort to get a decision from the Supreme Court on the validity of the delivery of beer in Kansas City, Kan.

Dr. Charles P. Painter Says Germ is Usually Carried Through the System by the Blood Until it Finally Lodges, Generally Choosing Joint as a Resting Place.

BOSTON (Mass.) Oct. 26.—One of the most important discourses yet given in connection with the clinical congress of surgeons in session here was that by Dr. Charles P. Painter of Boston today.

He explained to several hundred surgeons how that great bugaboo, rheumatism, is usually the result of ailing teeth, of the cold that would not stay cured, or from disordered tonsils, ears and other organs. The poison germ, he explained, is carried by the blood through the body until it lodges, usually choosing the joints as a resting place.

Dr. E. P. Richardson and Dr. R. H. Miller of Boston, demonstrated an operation requiring blood transfusion in which glass tubes were employed. Those tubes, which are wax lined, are one of the new things in surgery and are the invention of a Boston physician, Dr. A. R. Kimpton.

New York Coroner's Jury Fails to Hold Anyone Responsible for the Subway Collapse.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A Coroner's jury failed tonight to hold anyone criminally responsible for the subway accident in which eight persons lost their lives at Seventieth avenue and Twenty-fourth street last September 22. The accident resulted from a cave-in following what the jury held to be an excessive blast of explosive in an excavation.

While criminal negligence was not shown, the jury held the City Bureau of Combustibles was "severely censured" for not inspecting the work in accordance with the city code.

AFTER YOU ARE FORTY

Forty is the age of greatest effort with most people. Vitality is used up at the most rapid pace. The struggle to secure a competence for old age produces nerve strain. The failure to succeed causes worry, nervous breakdown, neurasthenia.

Middle-aged people find that they cannot run as fast, nor are they as agile as in youth. The internal organs also feel the effect of age. The digestion resents things that it accepted before, the heart palpitates on slight exertion, the muscles of the back ache after a day's work. Your blood is thinner and not so bright a red as formerly.

When these things occur, whether you are fourteen or forty, you need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people's need because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. They are certainly worthy of a trial in every case of weak nerves and thin blood.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklets on the blood and nerves.

Fear that Hungry Strikers may Loot the Stores.

Inquiry into Conditions is Promised by Wilson.

An Insufficiency of Food is Worrying Agitators.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 26.—One hundred militiamen, under command of Maj. E. P. Grimstead, of Phoenix, left Mesa and Tempe tonight for Clifton, to reinforce the troops already in that district, where several thousand copper miners are on strike. Officials stated that the additional troops were being sent as it was feared hungry strikers may attempt to loot stores.

Reports from the Clifton-Morenci district today said that quiet prevailed, but that contributions of food thus far received were not sufficient to meet the needs of the miners and their families.

Gov. George W. P. Hunt received today a letter from W. B. Wilson, United States Secretary of Labor, saying that a thorough investigation by Federal officials would be made into conditions at Clifton.

An inquiry will be conducted into wage and housing conditions, and all matters included in charges of the strikers against the mine owners, the letter said.

Secretary Wilson promised that he would send as many officials of his department as necessary to Arizona, to assist J. S. Myers, representative of the department, who has been here for three weeks investigating the situation.

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 26.—An avocation of an unusual character was confessed to today in the municipal court, when Charles J. Babineau, self-styled civil engineer and California mining man, testified that he was corresponding with a large number of women as a pastime.

FACTORY OFFICIALS UNDER ARREST.

FOUR MEN ARE HELD PENDING INQUIRY INTO DEATHS OF THIRTEEN PERSONS.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Three officials of the Union Paper Box Company and the executor of the James Brown estate, owner of the building in which the company's factory was located, were arrested here today in connection with the fire yesterday which resulted in the deaths of thirteen persons and injury to twenty others.

H. H. Woods, executor of the Brown estate, was released on $10,000 bail, and Henry E. Weiskopf, president; William C. Kimbel, secretary and treasurer, and Henry C. Shaefer, foreman of the factory of the box company, were released on $5000 bail to appear at the Coroner's inquest, which will probably be held next Tuesday.

The warrants were issued by Coroner Samuel C. Jamison, who said that the men are wanted for charges that may result regarding the deaths of Colletta Sellman and others.

Five investigations, three by the Coroner, one by the State and one by the city, are under way here in an effort to fix the blame for the fire.

County Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr in a statement tonight said he believed the fire was caused by a careless smoker. He said the flames started near an elevator shaft which served as an unobstructed flue and which was enclosed by wood. He said the only fire escape was at the rear of the building and the pulley to this would not work because of rust.

The City Council tonight adopted a resolution appropriating sufficient money to pay the funeral costs of the victims and the expenses of the injured.

FAVOR CHINESE MONARCHY.

Foreigners Believe it would Solve the Problem, but Native Press Strongly Opposes Move.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

SHANGHAI (China) Oct. 26. — Opinion among foreigners seems to be largely in favor of a return by China to the monarchical form of government. One of the principal reasons advanced is that the question of President Yuan Shi Kai's successor, to which great importance is attached, would thus be settled.

Some feeling has been aroused however, by the pressure which the monarchical party is exerting on the vernacular newspapers. Several Canton newspapers have been obliged to cease adverse criticism of the plan to restore the monarchy, and proprietors of other papers have been arrested.

Washington Attorney Testifies He Agreed to Pay $4000 to have Schneider Killed.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26. — Thomas C. Forney, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., who yesterday pleaded guilty to conspiracy and to assaulting his father-in-law, T. C. Carlisle if they would kill Schneider.

Forney said that the agreement was in writing and it passed into the hands of McHenry, who Forney said refused to return it to him when he gave up the idea of "putting Schneider out of the way." "I was through with it. I was tired of being blackmailed; I was almost driven crazy," said Forney.

"SIT TIGHT AND DRAW PAY."

Col. Reber's Advice to Head of Aviation School.

Several Sensational Letters Brought Out at Trial.

Number of Airmen are Paid Who had Little Skill.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Letters purporting to show that there was an understanding between Capt. Arthur S. Cowan, commanding the North Island aviation school, near San Diego, and Col. Samuel Reber, head of the aviation section at Washington, regarding the promotion of certain officers of the aviation corps were introduced at today's hearing of the court-martial of Lieut.-Col. Lewis E. Goodier, Judge Advocate of the Western Department.

Col. Goodier is accused of having improperly advised younger officers to prefer charges against their superior officer, Capt. Cowan, who had called "drawing flying pay" two years. Lieut. T. F. Dodd, one of the San Diego aviators who preferred charges against Capt. Cowan, previously testified that the school commander was incompetent. The hearing adjourned last night to await the correspondence of Col. Reber and Capt. Cowan during the last year and a half.

COWAN ON STAND.

Capt. Cowan spent the entire day on the stand, having been called by the prosecution. Several of the letters, he said, were purely personal. "Some one must have gotten access to my personal letter file," Capt. Cowan told the court. "I had no knowledge of certain letters were to be brought out. Neither did I give my consent." Regarding this statement the court conducted a long question behind closed doors. Capt. Cowan, T. Geary, trial judge-advocate, said that letters had been sent from San Diego after his formal request through the War Department for the Reber-Cowan correspondence.

In a letter written July 21, 1915, by Col. Reber to Capt. Cowan, the commander was urged to have certain aviators qualify as soon as possible in order so they would be eligible to "draw pay." All you have to do," the letter read, "is to sit tight and draw your pay."

It was brought out during the trial that Lieut. William L. Patterson had been recommended as a junior military aviator early in 1914 and that his appointment soon afterward, though he had never made a flight alone. He had been drawing $400 a month since September last year as extra pay, it was developed. Asked by counsel of the defense why Lieut. Patterson had been retained long Lieut. Patterson had been retained alone, Capt. Cowan answered that he was about a month.

A letter written in January 1915 was introduced from Col. Reber to Capt. Cowan, in which Col. Reber stated that Lieut. Patterson had never appeared on the ways and reports. "I am afraid some day," he wrote, "one is going to question me as to whether he is qualified as an aviator."

According to the correspondence Col. Reber wrote to Capt. Cowan in December last, saying: "I am getting embarrassing to me Lieut. Patterson has not spent enough time in the air. Nobody has noticed it and no questions have been asked. Let me have no matter alone."

It was also brought out that a memorandum, a copy of which was in the Reber-Cowan correspondence, was found before going to Europe in the summer of 1914, Col. Reber left word with Capt. C. S. Wallace, disbursing officer of the Signal Corps, that when Capt. Cowan made recommendations for promotion they should be acted upon without delay.

In response to a question by Attorney Allen J. Geer, of counsel for the defendant, Capt. Cowan said that Patterson had spent but fifteen minutes in the air at the time he was graduated junior military aviator.

Capt. Cowan said his first flight alone was in July, 1914. It was a straightaway flight, he said, only about eight miles in the air. About the middle of the following year, he said, he made a cross-country flight, this in a hydroaeroplane. Capt. Cowan said he had made five or six flights or more.

MORE TROOPS FOR FUNSTON

Another Artillery Regiment may go to Douglas.

Thousands of Refugees are Going into Arizona.

Needed Munitions Shipped to the Carranza Army.

DOUGLAS, Oct. 26.—United States military officers here have recommended to Maj.-Gen. Funston that an additional regiment of artillery be sent to Douglas to preserve American neutrality, in the event of an attack upon Agua Prieta by Villa forces, it became known tonight. At present two batteries of field artillery are stationed here.

Arrivals from Sonora stated that an American, named Kemp, had taken charge of Cananea with a part of the Yaqui Indians, commanded by Colonel Kemp, of Villa's army. Kemp was said to be causing much trouble to foreigners desiring to leave the district.

Two American iron workers, who left Cananea without obtaining passports, were halted by Villa soldiers and robbed of $450, according to reports. When a second detachment attempted to stop them, they made their escape in their automobile amid a volley of shots.

Thousands of refugees, traveling on foot, on horseback and in all manner of vehicles, are making their way toward the Arizona border from the interior of Sonora, arrivals said.

SOLDIERS DIG TRENCHES.

Trenches facing Douglas, and only about 300 feet south of the boundary, were being dug today by soldiers of the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta. The explanation was that the trenches were designed as defense against Villa troops, who might slip around to the east and west of Agua Prieta and attack from the American side.

Rodolfo Garduna, Carranza consul, has made recommendations regarding motion they should be acted upon without delay.

In response to a question by Attorney Allen J. Geer, of counsel for the defendant, Capt. Cowan said that Patterson had spent but fifteen minutes in the air at the time he was graduated junior military aviator.

Col. Reber's Advice to Head of Aviation School.

Several Sensational Letters Brought Out at Trial.

Number of Airmen are Paid Who had Little Skill.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Letters purporting to show that there was an understanding between Capt. Arthur S. Cowan, commanding the North Island aviation school, near San Diego, and Col. Samuel Reber, head of the aviation section at Washington, regarding the promotion of certain officers of the aviation corps were introduced at today's hearing of the court-martial of Lieut.-Col. Lewis E. Goodier, Judge-Advocate of the Western Department.

Col. Goodier is accused of having improperly advised younger officers to prefer charges against their superior officer, Capt. Cowan, who has been "drawing flying pay" two years. Lieut. T. P. Dodd, one of the San Diego army aviators who preferred charges against Capt. Cowan, previously testified that the school commander was incompetent. The hearing adjourned last week to await the correspondence of Col. Reber and Capt. Cowan during the last year and a half.

COWAN ON STAND.

Capt. Cowan spent the entire day on the stand, having been called by the prosecution. Several of the letters, he said, were purely personal. "Some one must have gotten access to my personal ette file." Capt. Cowan told the court. "I had no knowledge that certain letters were to be brought here. Neither did I give my consent." After this statement the court considered the question behind closed doors. Capt. T. Geary, trial judge-advocate, said the letters had been sent from San Diego after his formal request, through the War Department for the Reber-Cowan correspondence.

In a letter written July 21, 1914, by Col. Reber to Capt. Cowan, the commander was urged to have certain aviators qualify as soon as possible in order as they would be eligible to "fly pay." All you have to do," the letter read, "is to sit tight and draw your pay."

It was brought out during the day that Lieut. William L. Patterson had been recommended as a junior military aviator early in 1914 and received his appointment soon afterward, although he had never made a flight alone. He had been drawing nearly $400 a month since September of last year as extra pay, it was developed. Asked by counsel of the defense how long Lieut. Patterson had been flying alone, Capt. Cowan answered that it was about a month.

A letter written in January this year was introduced from Col. Reber to Capt. Cowan, in which Col. Reber stated that Lieut. Patterson's name never appeared on the weekly flight reports. "I am afraid some day some one is going to question as to just how he is qualified as an aviator."

According to the correspondence, Col. Reber wrote to Capt. Cowan in December last, saying: "It is most embarrassing to me because Lieut. Patterson has not spent an hour in the air. Nobody has noticed it yet, and no questions have been asked."

May 14 this year, in a letter to Col. Reber to Capt. Cowan, the former wrote with reference to the charges against Capt. Cowan that "all you have to do is to keep quiet. I did not get one or two scalps before I got through with this. Let me handle the matter alone."

It was also brought out by a memorandum, a copy of which was in the Reber-Cowan correspondence, that before going to Europe in the summer of 1914, Col. Reber left word with Maj. C. S. Wallace, disbursing officer of the Signal Corps, that when Capt. Cowan made recommendations regarding promotion they should be acted upon without delay.

In response to a question by Capt. Allen J. Geer, of counsel for the defendant, Capt. Cowan said Lieut. Patterson had spent but fifty-four hours in the air at the time he qualified as junior military aviator.

Capt. Cowan said his first solo flight alone was in July, 1913. He said it was a straightaway flight, taking but he said, only about eighty feet in the air. About the middle of August of that year, he said, he made a cross-country flight, this in a hydroaeroplane, and then Capt. Cowan said he had made five or six flights or more alone.

OUGLAS, Oct. 26.—United States ry officers here have recommended to Maj.-Gen. Funston that additional regiment of artillery be sent to Douglas to preserve American neutrality, in the event of an attack upon Agua Prieta by Villa forces, some known tonight. At present batteries of field artillery are stationed here.

Refugees from Sonora stated that an officer, named Kemp, had taken command of Cananea with a part of the Yaqui Indians, commanded by Col. Ortega, of Villa's army. Kemp was reported to be causing much trouble to Americans desiring to leave the district.

Two hundred American iron workers, who had left Cananea without obtaining passports, were halted by Villa soldiers and robbed of $450, according to reports. When a second detachment attempted to stop them, they made their escape in their automobile amid a volley of shots.

Thousands of refugees, traveling on foot, on horseback and in all manner of conveyances, are making their way toward the Arizona border from the interior of Sonora, arrivals said.

SOLDIERS DIG TRENCHES.

Trenches facing Douglas, and only 1,000 feet south of the boundary, are being dug today by soldiers of the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta. The explanation was that the trenches were designed as defense against Villa forces who might slip around to the east and west of Agua Prieta and attack from the American side.

Adolfo Garduna, Carranza consul, has filed bills of lading for sixteen carloads, which were shipped via freight from Piedras Negras. With these Colles will have twenty guns at Agua Prieta. Small arms are coming also.

Gen. Benjamin Hill, who with his staff and troops was accorded permission to pass over American territory from Laredo to Douglas, will arrive Thursday, about twenty-four hours ahead of the soldiers.

Among these reinforcements arrive, Gen. P. Elias Calles, Carranza commander in Sonora, expects to take the field against the invading Villa army.

Small detachments were reported today to be at Fronteras, at Colonia Morelos and at a point on the border, thirty-five miles east. Yaqui Indians under Ortega now hold Anavacachi Pass, fifty miles southwest, while Gen. Obregon, with approximately 1500 men, is at Santa Cruz under Nogales advices.

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) Oct. 26.—The United States cavalry patrol was ordered to cover a section of the Texas coast today, following advices that Mexican bandits were seeking refuge there. The new patrol covers the coast from near the mouth of the Rio Grande northward for nearly fifty miles.

Sheriff's department is holding seven prisoners in connection with the bandits' activities. Ten have been taken in and around Brownsville. Two of these are believed guilty of complicity in raids, and others are thought to have valuable information. Reports from along the border today indicate that there have been no further raids. Two Mexicans who fought with each other near Mercedes are not connected with the border affairs.

Denver City Attorney Asks Supreme Court to Rule on the Statutes to Avoid Confusion.

DENVER (Colo.) Oct. 26.—James H. Marshall, City Attorney, late today filed in the State Supreme Court the brief of the city and county of Denver, arguing that the city charter amendment regulating liquor licenses should stand, in spite of the State-wide prohibition amendment adopted in 1914.

The brief was filed in the case in which the city and State authorities agreed to test the validity of State-wide prohibition laws to secure a judicial basis for administration when the State laws become effective January 1, next. The brief argues that the constitutional amendment is prospective and not retrospective; that if the State amendment overrules the city charter on prohibition then "every provision of Denver's charter would be overruled by some previous constitutional provision."

TWO DIRECTORS QUIT NEW HAVEN

H. K. McHarg, F. F. Brewster Send Resignations.

Missouri Freight Decision is Quoted in the Trial.

Power of Late J. P. Morgan Feature of Testimony.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Henry K. McHarg and Frederick F. Brewster, directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, now on trial with nine former directors of the road under the Sherman anti-trust law, have resigned from the New Haven directorate.

Their resignations became known after today's session of the trial, now concluding its second week, had adjourned. They will be formally presented to the New Haven stockholders at their annual meeting to be held in New Haven tomorrow, it was learned.

While no formal statement as to the reason for their retirement was obtainable tonight, it was said on behalf of the New Haven Company that their action undoubtedly was due to a desire not to embarrass the present New Haven management on account of their status as alleged violators of the law.

Messrs. McHarg and Brewster entered the board together May 31, 1907. They figure in the case at a time when the New Haven was busy taking over steamship lines and trolley properties.

MISSOURI DECISION.

The specter of the oft-quoted Missouri freight-rate decision, by which the United States Supreme Court in 1897 first applied the Sherman anti-trust law to railroads, arose in the trial today, to plague the minds of the jury.

The question put before them to decide was whether the decision absolved the directors of the New Haven from knowing that they were committing illegal acts prior to that date and therefore could not have intended the conspiracy with which they are charged, that of monopolizing the traffic of New England; or whether, knowing they had been committing illegal acts, they then continued to commit them in spite of the decision.

MINUTES BROUGHT IN.

The question came up when the government proposed to introduce minutes of the New Haven board dated May 1, 1897, in which it was stated that the directors "had been called together to consider what policy would be pursued by this company and what advice should be given the New Haven and New England railroad companies in regard to freight matters in view of the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the trans-Missouri freight association case."

No action was taken by the directors in regard to the question, the minutes stated, and after they were in the record Attorney Swacker for the government began the introduction of testimony intended to show that, no action having been taken, the alleged conspiracy further to monopolize the transportation traffic of New England was continued.

This included a memorandum written by Charles S. Mellen, then second vice-president of the New Haven, in which he suggested, in respect to the relations between the New Haven and the New England that neither should be allowed to make rates lower than the other, but that their competition should be "through facilities rather than rates."

LETTERS IDENTIFIED.

Prior testimony today, which took the form of a score or more of letters identified by Mr. Mellen, completed the testimony of the government up to the year 1897. The New Haven at that time had virtually acquired all the railroads south of the Boston and Albany, and had fought that road to a standstill, forcing it into an agreement, the testimony was intended to show, for division of traffic in westbound business.

The masterful power of the late J. P. Morgan was emphasized as a harmonizing factor in the history of the trouble between the two roads, as presented by the government's testimony. Mr. Morgan was then a director of both the New Haven and the New York Central, which controlled the Boston and Albany. The New Haven and the Central had been at odds over the New England traffic for two or three years, and Mr. Mellen testified today that Mr. Morgan thought that he (Mellen) had fomented the trouble and ought to be retired. Mr. Mellen said he went to Mr. Morgan and explained the situation, and as a result kept his job. Subsequently, there was a meeting on board Mr. Morgan's yacht, the Corsair, as the result of which the New York Central and the New Haven came to an agreement to work in harmony, and the traffic arrangement between the New Haven and the Boston and Albany was entered into.

tion owing to some hurried impulse or some vague sentiment to achieve its object. At every step the government will take the best military and naval advice obtainable, and that advice will have reference not only to the new enterprise but to all subsidiary questions, with regard to safeguarding communications and the supply of men and material."

Lord Lansdowne said that an endeavor would be made to use the present force at Saloniki to counter the movements of the central powers to cross Bulgaria, but the precise method of countering and attack must obviously be left for further very careful consideration.

The Earl of Cromer, who was for many years plenipotentiary and Consul-General at Cairo, added his voice to that of Earl Loreburn for more information. He suggested that the government make some statement showing, at all events, what he believed to be the case, that the center of gravity of the war had been transferred from the west to the east, and give some general indication of how they intended to meet the situation.

"Lord Kitchener," said Lord Cromer, "has been singularly parsimonious in his utterances in the House of Lords and, speaking candidly, his statements have never contained much more than what we have already read in the daily papers. We want something which will show that there is a real grasp of the situation and to be told in general outline what is to be done about it."

The Earl of Cromer disassociated himself from those who wished a change in the government, but strongly advocated a smaller Cabinet.

Lord Loreburn, who expressed dissatisfaction with the Marquis of Lansdowne's answer, supported, as did other members of the House, the suggestion of a smaller executive body, and in reply Lord Curzon said that Premier Asquith had this matter under consideration. Lord Lansdowne said that he personally favored a change.

ITALIANS WIN IN LEDRO VALLEY.

ROME (via Paris) Oct. 26.—The official statement issued tonight reads as follows:

"In the Ledro Valley we completed the conquest of the left bank of the Ponale River by occupying on October 25 the districts of Mezzolago, Molino and Bezzeca, taking a number of prisoners.

"The enemy directed an intense artillery fire from Monte Creino and the river defense yesterday against Dosso Casina and Dosso Remit, south of the depression of the Loppio, conquered on the 24th without shaking the resistance of our troops who were well established in these positions.

"On the upper Cordevole and upper Rienz we continue to exert pressure on the enemy's lines. In the valley of the Pontebbana torrent one of our raids reached the crest of Rauchkofel, damaging the enemy's defenses.

"Along the Isonzo front an intense artillery duel continues, while our infantry is establishing itself firmly in newly-gained positions. We repulsed several small counter-attacks yesterday in the Piava zone and on the Carso, taking thirty-nine prisoners.

"Our aeroplanes on October 24 effectively bombarded the enemy's camps on the Bainsizza plateau and the Carso. An enemy aeroplane was put to flight by the machine gun fire of one of our aeroplanes. All our aeroplanes returned to our lines undamaged."

POPE POWERLESS IN GREAT WAR.

ROME (via Paris) Oct. 26.—Pope Benedict, in an interview published in the Avvenire d'Italia, expressed his deep affliction by the tragic events ravishing Europe and his suffering at being obliged to look powerless upon such a spectacle.

But in his father's heart, which cherished alike all his children, the Pope said, he thought only of the day when the rulers of warring peoples shall understand the necessity and duty of ending the carnage which is overthrowing all human and divine laws.

The Holy Father abstained, he said, from passing judgments which have no practical result, but would on the contrary cause fresh recriminations and sow fresh discords. He deplored the violence and the barbarities practiced in a war wherein the conquests of science were placed at the service of murder.

In conclusion the Pope declared that his appeal for peace having been unheard, he would continue his charitable work for the benefit of the wounded.

PLANT IS CONFISCATED BY VILLA GOVERNMENT.

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 26.—Confiscation of the Chihuahua plant of the American Smelting and Refining Company by the Villa State government of Chihuahua was announced today by C. L. Baker, legal representative of the corporation.

"There are 2000 tons of fuel at the plant," said Baker. "My advices are that the Villa government is or is about to operate the plant."

Recently Gen. Villa denied that he had ordered the smelter or any other foreign-owned property confiscated. Gov.-Gen. Avila of Chihuahua State later announced that the smelter plant had not been confiscated.

WORD IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—At the main office of the American Smelting and Refining Company in this city it was said that word had been received that the Villa faction had taken possession of the smelting plants owned by the company in Chihuahua for the purpose of reducing the gold and silver ores acquired by that faction. It is not believed the Villa faction intends to confiscate the American smelting company's property, it was said.

DEPARTMENT NOT ADVISED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The State Department had not been officially advised today of the confiscation of the Chihuahua plant of the American Smelting and Refining Company, but the news was not surprising.

Representations recently were made to both Carranza and Villa. Carranza informed that department he was extending his zone of protection as rapidly as possible and that he would do all within his power to protect American property.

If officially advised of the confiscation of the Chihuahua plant, additional representations, it was said, might be made to the recognized de facto government. No official representations can be made to Villa, all relations with him having been severed. However, there was said to be a possibility of making unofficial representations or of warning Villa to refrain from confiscating American-owned property.

Parents Should Know this Splendid Remedy

Simple Laxative Compound Helps to Correct Constipation in Children.

With all children there are times when the bowels fail to act naturally and it becomes necessary for the parents to administer a remedy. Cathartics and purgatives should never be used as these agents afford only temporary relief while their violent action shocks the system unduly. Mrs. Eva. F. Gaff, 517 10th St., Washington, D. C., says that her little girl, Marie, had been subject to constipation, and that she found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the best remedy because of its mildness, and now always keeps a bottle of it in the house.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from opiates or narcotic drugs of any kind, and is an ideal remedy for children because of its mild action and positive effect. Its tends to strengthen the impaired bowel action and restore normal regularity.

It is important that parents should know of a dependable remedy with no unpleasant after effects, griping or control, to inflict a useless special election upon the people at this time with an attendant waste of several hundred thousand dollars of the people's money."

RALSTON'S STATEMENT.

William C. Ralston, chairman of the Joint Parties' State Committee said: "The result of this special election in California shows that the people of the State are still wedded to principles and are not willing to follow individuals.

"The Governor of the State, along with nearly all the office holders, have ridiculed and abused the Joint Party Committee for attempting to present to the people the other side of the question but the answer to this villification has been given in no unmeasured terms by the result of the vote.

"California is looked upon as a freak State in its legislation and I have always contended that the continued regulation of business by laws and commissions is what is holding back this State from advancing as it should.

"We have too much law and too many demagogues who, under the name of reform, harass the business interests by legislation.

"The result of this election shows that the people of the State of California have finally awakened to what has increased taxation."

H. H. McPike, secretary of the Joint Party State Committee, said: "The early returns show that the administration's nonpartisan bills were snowed under. As all the other administration measures were also defeated, the election shows that the people are through with freak legislation.

"The administration called into the service in the campaign nearly every person on the State pay roll and many of them argued that the bills should be approved because they had been passed by the 'Progressive' Legislature and signed by the Governor, and this may be the real reason why they were so overwhelmingly rejected.

"The Joint Parties' Committee refused to accept the administration's invitation to make the campaign on personalities and throughout the campaign we centered our arguments on the merits of the bills. We were unable to send out speakers by reason of lack of funds for necessary expenses, but we were ably assisted by the press, and the people owe a debt of gratitude to all the newspapers which aided in preserving the time-honored privilege of selecting candidates according to their principles."

The result of the election, it was generally agreed, will necessitate a special session of the Legislature in order to readjust the primary election law. The referendum was invoked against only part of the amendments to this law and the defeat of this part leaves the measure in a hopeless tangle.

BUT TWO WOMEN VOTE AT HALL.

Two women voted yesterday at the City Hall, out of seventy-one registered. This is an average of less than three in 100, with ideal conditions for exercise of the suffrage. None needed to walk more than two blocks, on perfect sidewalks and pavements, in entrancing weather.

In the same precinct, seventy-one men out of 622 registered cast their ballots, or an average of a little more than 11 per cent. Of 693 entitled to vote in the precinct, men and women, seventy-three performed the duty—a percentage of 10½.

Non-Party Measures.

In the city of Sacramento alone more voters were carried to the polls today in State machines than the total vote cast here for the nonpartisan bills.

RURAL CREDITS.

Rural credits seem to have received the largest vote in the northern and central parts of the State, while the malodorous tax amendment was the worst beaten. But the repudiation of the Johnson machine is the most thorough and decisive defeat ever given to a political organization in the State. The non-party bills themselves are beaten thoroughly in the northern counties outside Sacramento by a vote that may equal two to one.

One of the tragedies of the night is the fleet of automobiles and two brass bands that waited almost until morning for marching orders from the pay roll brigade. They were to lead the non-party parade that was arranged for a week ago to celebrate the machine victory.

FACTORS.

Extravagance and broken promises are the chief factors in the defeat of the State machine. The enormous increase of both State and county expenditures during five years of "Progressive" rule spoke louder to the taxpayers than the most fervid orators of the pay roll crew. Coupled with this was the deep-seated feeling that the anti-party bills were proposed for the purpose of perpetrating one party in office and that their adoption would open the way for political anarchy within the State and seriously injure the credit and influence of California in the East.

A general sigh of relief is going up from all sections of the State; the taxpayers have found that a little united effort on their part can rid them of even the most cleverly organized gang of tax feeders. A highly pleasing feature of the result is the refusal of the working classes in Sacramento and about San Francisco Bay to follow blindly the lead of their walking delegates. The anti-party bills were indorsed by the State Federation of Labor and every member of the organizations affiliated with that body received written instructions to work for the bills.

THE UNION VOTE.

The combined efforts of Tom Finn, Andy Gallager and McCarthy failed to keep the union vote of San Francisco in line, while Boss Kelly of Alameda county lost complete control of his machine. Returns received here at midnight indicated that Alameda county has given the largest majority against the administration bills. Just one year ago the "Progressive" registration in this county was the heaviest in the State.

A special session of the Legislature will probably be held in January to repeal the antiregistration law passed by the Johnson Legislature last April. This is held to be necessary to harmonize the present election laws. But it is already apparent that it will not be a Johnson Legislature. There were but twenty-three "Progressives" in the last Assembly. The decisive defeat of the Johnson machine will be pretty certain to send the deserting Republicans and Democrats back to their old parties.

BETRAYAL CHARGED.

Members of the State Tax Commission are charging tonight that Atty.-Gen. Webb betrayed them to the enemy in his decision that the referendum could not be invoked against the tax amendment. They charge that he was influenced by certain interests that he sought to propitiate. They say that when they were compelled to admit at the eleventh hour that there was a bug in the tax amendment the electorate of the State became afraid that there would be bugs in the others as well.

But the general opinion expressed here is that the Governor made the political mistake of his career in overestimating the effect of the last State election. To this they add that it was a serious blunder to think that a legislative majority which was secured through trading and giving high offices to members of the Legislature should be held to represent the sentiment of the electorate of the State.

ROYAL ARCH JOLTED

Influential members of the Royal Arch went about Sacramento yesterday afternoon notifying their lieutenants that word had been received from the Governor to have them all get in and work, that they would be needed. The same is said to have taken place through the north. But the support of the Royal Arch, which was so effective last fall was decidedly weak today. The liquor men themselves have been suspicious of the sincerity of the Governor ever since they discovered that he polled almost the whole of the Prohibition vote of Southern California last fall. At the same time it appears that the Prohibition voters became suspicious when they discovered that he polled the whole liquor vote of the north when he ran for Governor. It is the old story of the pitcher that went to the well too often.

Speculation is rife here tonight as to who will represent the "Progressives" in next year's campaign for U. S. Senator. Even the Governor's friends here say that he will not risk running for Senator, after the awful walloping that he received in the State today.

EFFECT IN THE EAST.

The eastern press manifested more interest in today's nonpartisan election than in any election held in California in recent years. The big dailies in all the eastern cities had orders placed for special dispatches telling how nonpartisanship fared. The word "Waterloo" was badly overworked on all the eastern wires.

Despite the frantic efforts of the pay-roll brigade, Sacramento city has apparently beaten the nonpartisan bills. But returns at midnight indicated that they had carried in the county by about 1000 majority.

Uninterested.

SMALL VOTE POLLED IN COUNTY ELECTION.

IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY, where Gov. Johnson had expected to get a large majority in his favor, the returns appeared to show that the czar of Sacramento had met with just as decisive a defeat as he has apparently elsewhere in the State. Here are some of the results:

MONROVIA.

MONROVIA, Oct. 26. — Less than 25 per cent. of the registered vote, 2350, was polled in today's election. Propositions 4, 5, 7, and 10 were carried. The bonds were decisively defeated. Following is the complete vote for Monrovia's seven precincts: No. 1—Yes, 195; No, 250. No. 2—Yes, 186; No, 258. No. 3—Yes, 89; No, 317. No. 4—Yes, 235; No, 143. No. 5—Yes, 207; No, 190. No. 6—Yes, 171; No, 225. No. 7—Yes, 210; No, 174. No. 8—Yes, 148; No, 225. No. 9—Yes, 76; No, 292. No. 10—Yes, 229; No, 179. No. 11—Yes, 134; No, 208. Bonds—Yes, 189; No, 238.

LONG BEACH.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 26.—Though taking slight interest in the election, it being the lightest compared to registration ever polled here, local voters apparently voted down Hiram Johnson's pet measures. Time was when Long Beach was considered one of the Governor's best towns, but no more.

The road bond issue was overwhelmingly defeated. Voters here could not see how Long Beach could be benefited by any of the roads. Propositions Nos. 4, 7 and 10 probably carried, with No. 6 about even at the 11 o'clock count. The registration was 17,011.

Returns from eighteen precincts complete out of thirty-five in the city of Long Beach give the following totals:

Proposition No. 1—Yes, 927; No, 913. No. 2—Yes, 676; No, 916. No. 3—Yes, 252; No, 854. No. 4—Yes, 697; No, 211. No. 5—Yes, 321; No, 607. No. 6—Yes, 657; No, 572. No. 7—Yes, 712; No, 769. No. 8—Yes, 542; No, 617. No. 9—Yes, 211; No, 875. No. 10—Yes, 958; No, 420. No. 11—Yes, 488; No, 780. Road bond issue—Yes, 453; No, 1010.

SAN FERNANDO.

SAN FERNANDO, Oct. 26.—Complete returns from San Fernando city: No 1—Yes, 60; No, 56. No. 2—Yes, 59; No, 79. No. 3—Yes, 32; No, 109. No. 4—Yes, 81; No, 59. No. 5—Yes, 85; No, 59. HUNTINGTON PARK.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. 26.—The three precincts here, complete, show a vote of 116 and 100 against the county road bonds proposition. The total vote on the State propositions in the three precincts was: No. 1—Yes, 188; No, 153; No. 2—Yes, 138; No, 138. No. 3—Yes, 51; No, 823. No. 4—Yes, 164; No, 99. No. 5—Yes, 134; No, 121. LORDSBURG.

LORDSBURG, Oct. 26.—A very light vote was polled in Lordsburg and LaVerne precincts partial returns as follows: No. 1—Yes, 27; No, 90. No. 2—Yes, 26; No, 59. No. 3—Yes, 14; No, 97. No. 4—Yes, 54; No, 46. No. 5—Yes, 47; No, 54. No. 6—Yes, 28; No, 70. No. 7—Yes, 39; No, 63. No. 8—Yes, 34; No, 66. No. 9—Yes, 14; No, 94. No. 10—Yes, 0; No, 48. No. 11—Yes, 30; No, 0. Bonds—Yes, 40; No, 44.

POMONA, Oct. 26.—Every proposition on the ballot was rejected here today, with only about 25 per cent. of the vote registered. The [illegible] bill was defeated by a vote of 210 to 1131 no, and the vote on [illegible] bonds was 266 yes and 1003 against proposition.

PASADENA.

PASADENA, Oct. 26.—Crowds of voters fell on the pet measures of the Johnson machine with three cheers and a yell today. When the fight was over there was hardly enough of "nonpartisanship" to make it worth while to call in an undertaker.

Also, the good roads bond issue, given a little critical attention by knowing ones with the result that of a total vote of 2,226 in twenty precincts, this proposition got about 1300 votes of getting the required two-thirds majority.

Had the full strength of the electorate been polled, the "nonpartisanship" and good roads bonds would have been invisible because of the mountain of ballots burying them.

The vote on the various issues, twenty-nine of the forty-eight now complete is as follows: No. 1, for, 1348 against; No. 2, 963 for, [illegible] against; No. 3, 479 for, 1040 against; No. 4, 1295 for, 631 against; No. 5, 1[illegible] for, 555 against; No. 6, 644 for, [illegible] against; No. 7, 1154 for, 782 against; No. 8, 907 for, 972 against; No. 9, 434 for, 1270 against; No. 10, 1[illegible] for, 810 against; No. 11, 787 for, [illegible] against.

Bonds, 1353 for, 1127 against. The registration of votes, 6873. Total vote cast, 1433.

LANCASTER.

LANCASTER, Oct. 26.—Antelope precinct, No. 1—Yes, 62; No, 60. No. 2—Yes, 54; No, 44. No. 3—Yes, 41; No, 73. No. 4—Yes, 73; No, 34. No. 5—Yes, 81; No, 31. No. 6—Yes, 60; No, 44. No. 7—Yes, 65; No, 39. No. 8—Yes, 51; No, 52. No. 9—Yes, 36; No, 70. No. 10—Yes, 78; No, 47. No. 11—Yes, 50; No, 41. 104; No, 46. Complete.

POMONA, Oct. 26.—All of the constitutional amendments and the road-bond issue were defeated today by an overwhelming vote in many instances the count is against. Total returns from 15 of fifteen precincts show 855 against and 93 for the road bonds. The precincts show 555 against amendment No. 2 and 86 for the same, and the vote on the [illegible] bill shows about the same ratio.

WHITTIER.

PASADENA.

PASADENA, Oct. 26.—Crown City voters fell on the pet measures of the Johnson machine with three whoops and a yell today. When the field day was over there was hardly enough left of "nonpartisanship" to make it worth while to call in an undertaker.

Also, the good roads bond issue was given a little critical attention by the knowing ones with the result that out of a total vote of 2280 in twenty-two precincts, this proposition failed by about 1300 votes of getting the required two-thirds majority.

Had the full strength of the incoming electorate been polled, the "nonpartisanship" and good roads bonds would have been invisible because of the mountain of ballots burying them.

The vote on the various issues from twenty-nine of the forty-eight precincts complete is as follows: No. 1, 1021 yes, 1249 against; No. 2, 953 yes, 1543 against; No. 3, 479 for, 1543 against; No. 4, 1295 for, 631 against; No. 5, 1154 for, 855 against; No. 6, 868 for, 1154 against; No. 7, 1154 for, 762 against; No. 8, 907 for, 972 against; No. 9, 1354 for, 1270 against; No. 10, 1021 for, 810 against; No. 11, 787 for, 1283 against.

Bonds, 1283 for, 1127 against. The registration of votes, 6673. Total votes cast, 1432.

THE BELMONT APTS., (Formerly the Irina.) Corner Figueroa, at 10th. Easy walking distance.

The very satisfactory business done at the Belmont during the dull summer months, since the new management came in control, demonstrates the wisdom of our constant and unceasing endeavor to make the Belmont

"The place like home."

No reasonable request is ever refused. If we cannot and do not make reasonable guests comfortable and satisfied, we look for the cause in our system of operation, believing it to be our fault, not the guest's.

Our amusement programme we believe to be unexcelled by any similar institution in the city. There is "something doing" all the time, the programme being replete with pleasing, unique and novel features.

Our service is exceptionally liberal, and our prices, while not the lowest, return the most for the money. Rooms or apartments by the day, week, month or year. Just a few single apartments at $30 a month; other singles at $35 and $40; doubles, $60 and up.

If you are not perfectly satisfied where you are, call and see what the Belmont can offer you. Talk with our guests and learn how they feel.

How to Look Less Than Your Age.

There are three golden rules that every woman who would ward off signs of advancing age should follow:

1. Cultivate cheerfulness. Those who understand the physiological effect of worrying know this advice should be taken more seriously than it usually is.

2. Whenever the complexion begins to look worn or withered, use ordinary mercolized wax for a week or two. Apply nightly like cold cream, erasing it mornings with warm water. This gradually absorbs the thin film of surface skin, revealing the fresher and younger skin underneath. An ounce of the wax, obtainable at any drug store, is enough to rejuvenate any complexion.

3. When the tell-tale wrinkles appear, or cheek and chin muscles begin to sag, bathe the face once a day for awhile in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint of witch hazel. This has a remarkable effect in "firming up" and smoothing out the skin.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—An area of low barometer over the northwestern portion of the country, and the pressure is relatively low over Southern Arizona. Aside from this the entire country is under the influence of an area of high pressure extending from Northern California to the New England States. Fair weather and moderate temperatures prevail throughout, except that the temperature has risen over the Atlantic States and fallen over the Rocky Mountains, with freezing temperature over the plateau region. Rain has fallen in Western Washington, at Winnipeg, New Orleans and Montreal during the last twenty-four hours. The influence of the high-pressure area will give Los Angeles and vicinity continued fair weather during the next thirty-six hours.

SHIP BUILDER GLADDENS CITY.

LONG BEACH HEARS GOOD NEWS ABOUT SUBMARINES.

Details of Transferring Plant Being Worked Out Ready for Construction to be Begun—Former Iowa Supreme Court Justice Dies of Pneumonia.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 26.—John F. Craig, head of the big shipbuilding plant here, is home with more good news for Long Beach's port. Besides being successful in landing contracts, which mean vastly more than their face value to the port, he brings impressions that this section of the great harbor system will become one of two United States submarine bases, and that a great submarine repair station will be erected here.

In his stay in Washington he conversed with many men in official life who led him to believe that Long Beach will be thus favored. As Mr. Craig is entirely conservative, his utterances regarding his interviews with naval officials and others have filled local boosters with enthusiasm for the future of this city.

Mr. Craig and other directors of the new California Shipbuilding Company are now working out the details of the transfer of the plant to the concern from the Craig Shipbuilding Company. The transfer has already practically been made, however. Work on the two submarines now building is being rushed. Lieut. Calhoun, now commander of the H-2 submarine, is to take command of the L-7, and Leo F. Welch, U.S.N., who has been stationed at the Craig yards as an inspector for the government, will be put in command of the L-6, the other undersea boat now building.

So many naval officers and lighthouse service men are stationed at the plant—there are a dozen other officers, chief petty officers, electricians and master mechanics on Uncle Sam's payroll—that a building has been specially erected for them on the grounds. A big sign "Navy Office," tops this.

SUPREME JUSTICE DIES.

Judge Charles T. Granger, aged 82, one of the most prominent citizens of Iowa, and once justice of the Supreme Court of his State and Past Grand Master of the Iowa Grand Lodge of Masons, passed away at an Ocean Front apartment house this afternoon. He has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia contracted while playing croquet at the public grounds on Ocean and Cedar avenues.

Judge Granger's old home is in Waukeon, Iowa. He has been spending his time here for four years, returning to Long Beach for the last time last summer. His son, an Arkansas attorney, and his sister-in-law were here with him when he died.

Crowther, a former missionary, said that in Africa within twenty years there will be the greatest holy war conflict the world has ever seen, and Africa will be Mohammedan or Christian within fifteen years. The only chance Christianity has to win is in the crystallization of Christian centers now existing on that continent, he said. The convention will end tomorrow.

SAYS GERMANY TO TALK PEACE

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A dispatch reached here today that Prince von Buelow, former German Chancellor, will shortly submit to President Wilson and King Alfonso of Spain an outline of the conditions on which Germany might be disposed to make terms of peace.

The report is contained in a Madrid dispatch from Madrid and has been corroborated from another source. The dispatch gives as authority Prince Camporeale, an Italian nobleman who is a brother-in-law of Prince von Buelow. The report was first published in Madrid, the correspondent says, in the form of a message from Rome.

At last reports Prince von Buelow was ill. A message from Berlin on Sunday said he was confined to his room in Cologne as the result of a slight indisposition. The Prince was on the way to Baden Baden.

FORM FOR FAST, HOT CAMPAIGN

Committeemen Hard at Wor for Southern Fair.

Thousand Dollars Given b Insurance Company.

Ad Club is Put Definitely in Good Fight.

Determined that the enlarged and continued Southern California Exposition shall be a New Year's gift to the world, the San Diego Exposition Committee completed plans yesterday for a whirlwind money-raising campaign. Encouraged by an early-morning subscription for $1000 from the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company and the definite placing of the Advertising Club behind the movement by resolutions, Chairman Vernon Goodwin and Secretary C. S. Hutson mapped up their forces for a cumulative assault that will begin today.

Every chairman of every committee was not only seen, but every committeeman, so far as possible, was notified over the telephone that Los Angeles expects every man to do his duty in the work of assuring the exposition of 1916.

It was also announced that the San Diego delegation has arranged for a luncheon at the Alexandria at noon tomorrow for members of the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is composed of the chairmen of the subcommittees. This luncheon will be prefatory to a general conference of notes and the injection of much fresh enthusiasm into the campaign as seems desirable.

In addition to the other telephone calls on the interested, Secretary Hutchings, disregarding the counter pull of politics, arranged by wire for a number of campaigners to appear before clubs and other organizations this week with the proposition of "Raise $1,000 for the Southern California exposition and $75,000 for a guarantee fund, and assure prosperity and peace in 1916."

The subscription from the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company was solicited and was transmitted to President Bulla of the Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by a letter from George I. Cochran, the president of the big concern.

"We are very much interested," said President Cochran in his letter, "in seeing the fair at San Diego continued for another year, as we feel that it will be of material advantage to Los Angeles and Southern Californ-

TO EXTEND FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Dr. Crowther Says Herculean Efforts Will be Necessary to Save Africa from Mohammedanism.

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Oct. 26.—Extension of foreign missions was the keynote of addresses at the convention of the laymen's missionary movement here today. Dr. J. E. Crowther, a former missionary, declared that in Africa within twenty years there will be the greatest industrial conflict the world has ever seen and Africa will be Mohammedan or Christian within fifteen years. The only chance Christianity has to win it by the crystallization of Christian centers now existing on that continent, he said. The convention will close tomorrow.

SAYS GERMANY TO TALK PEACE.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A report reached here today that Prince von Buelow, former German Chancellor, will shortly submit to President Wilson and King Alfonso of Spain an outline of the conditions on which Germany might be disposed to discuss terms of peace.

The report is contained in a Rome dispatch from Madrid and has not been corroborated from any official source. The dispatch gives as authority Prince Camporeale, an Italian nobleman who is a brother-in-law of Prince von Buelow. The report was first published in Madrid, the correspondent says, in the form of a message from Rome.

At last reports Prince von Buelow was ill. A message from Berlin on Sunday said he was confined to his room in Cologne as the result of a slight indisposition. The Prince was on the way to Baden Baden.

FORM FOR FAST, HOT CAMPAIGN.

Committeemen Hard at Work for Southern Fair.

Thousand Dollars Given by Insurance Company.

Club is Put Definitely in Good Fight.

Determined that the enlarged and refined Southern California Exposition shall be a New Year's gift to the world, the San Diego Exposition Committee completed plans yesterday for a whirlwind money-raising campaign. Encouraged by an early-morning subscription for $1000 from the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of the definite placing of the Advertising Club behind the movement and resolutions, Chairman Vernon Treat and Secretary C. S. Hutson mapped up their forces for a cumulative push that will begin today.

Every chairman of every committee was not only seen, but every committeeman, so far as possible, was called over the telephone that Los Angeles expects every man to do his share in the work of assuring the exposition of 1916.

It was also announced that the San Diego delegation has arranged for a reception at the Alexandria at noon tomorrow for members of the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is composed of the chairmen of the subcommittees. This luncheon is to be prefatory to a general coming of notes and the injection of fresh enthusiasm into the campaign as seems desirable.

In addition to the other telephone calls on the interested, Secretary Hutson, disregarding the counter pull of business, arranged by wire for a number of campaigners to appear before clubs and other organizations this week with the proposition of "Raise $75,000 for the Southern California Exposition and $75,000 for a guarantee fund, and assure prosperity and success in 1916."

A subscription from the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company was received and was transmitted to Vernon Treat Bulla of the Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by a letter from George I. Cochran, the president of the big concern.

"We are very much interested," President Cochran in his letter, "and along the fair at San Diego continued for another year, as we feel sure it will be of material advantage to Los Angeles and Southern California."

WILD DENY ALLEGATIONS.

Attorney Will File Today Answer to His Wife's Suit for Divorce. Friends Not Surprised.

Judson R. Rush, attorney, will file an answer to the divorce suit of his wife this morning. He will deny the allegations made by Mrs. Rush, particularly those having to do with another woman.

Friends of the couple are not surprised at the action of Mrs. Rush, as she left her husband, according to his statements, about a year ago. This came as the aftermath of several years of unhappiness.

No agreement as to property division has been made, nor will it be made out of court, according to the business associate of Mr. Rush.

LAD POLICEMAN SHOT MAY LIVE.

CONDITION OF YOUNG WARD IS UNEXPECTEDLY BETTER.

Pulse Lower and High Temperature Abated—One of Two Officers Accused of Murdering Injured Boy's Companion Collapses, Worn by Worry—Preliminary Today.

Frank Ward may live. The boy who was shot by a policeman while riding on a motorcycle with the dead Chester Nolen, has more than an even chance to recover. His pulse had lowered yesterday and his temperature was a grade cooler.

Police Surgeon Wiley examined Ward yesterday afternoon, and reported his patient has a good chance to get well. It is the boy's wonderful vitality that is saving him. The operation performed on him to repair his tattered vitals was one of the most difficult and involved ever performed on a patient in the Receiving Hospital, and his present condition is a surgical triumph.

Samuel Shammo, who, with Sergt. Cahill, is under arrest charged with murder in connection with the killing of Chester Nolen, collapsed Monday when taken to the County Jail. He was unable to walk out of the City Jail because of excessive nervousness, until he was treated in the Receiving Hospital. Long worry over the tragedy has kept him from sleeping, and he is physically exhausted. The cheeriest comment of his advisers, Attorneys Dominguez and Ford, did not lift the pall from him yesterday.

A determined effort will be made to admit Sergt. Cahill and Shammo to bail when they are brought before Justice Hinshaw this morning for their preliminary hearing. The District Attorney's office was busy yesterday issuing subpoenas to witnesses in the case, and it is probable no continuance will be asked by either side.

SWIFT END TO USEFUL LIFE.

Frank M. Coulter, Merchant, Expires Suddenly.

Stricken on Way to Vote, He Seeks Help in Vain.

Long Career Here Marked by His Public Spirit.

Stricken suddenly while on his way to vote late yesterday afternoon by the attack of heart failure he had been fighting off for months, Frank Middleton Coulter, president of the Coulter Dry Goods Company, public-spirited citizen, and head of one of the most prominent families of this city, died at 5:45 o'clock yesterday evening. Death came on the doorstep of Dr. C. A. Kuns's residence, No. 265 South Ardmore avenue, where Mr. Coulter had staggered for assistance. He expired just as Dr. Kuns, his friend of twenty-five years, went to meet him at the door.

Almost a year ago Mr. Coulter had begun to suffer from depressions and heart trouble. His friend and physician, Dr. Kuns, took care of the merchant, often taking him home from the office when the attacks came too strongly.

Whenever the depressions abated, Mr. Coulter would appear strong and healthy, and would take up his work again with added vigor. Yesterday morning he ate breakfast with his family at their residence, at Wilshire boulevard and Vermont avenue, and appeared in the best of health. At his accustomed hour, Mr. Coulter departed for his office, remarking that he might be a little late coming home, as he intended to cast his vote following the close of the day's business at the big store.

ILL ON STREET CAR.

Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Coulter closed his office desk, and remarking to his secretary that he had a slight headache, started home. It was during the ride on the crowded street car that he began to feel a depression.

Remembering that Dr. Kuns lived in the vicinity of his polling booth, Mr. Coulter decided to carry out his intention of voting before returning home, so when the car passed Vermont avenue, his usual point for getting off, and although he was feeling worse, the merchant remained in his seat.

At Ardmore he got off. By this time, the depression about his heart must have been terrific, for passengers on the car and a few pedestrians noticed he staggered as he moved toward Dr. Kuns's house. His face was noticeably pale.

Stumbling up the steps, his one thought to get the aid of his friend, Mr. Coulter leaned against the doorbell. Mrs. Kuns answered the ring. Startled, she turned and called for her husband.

"I was taken sick on the car—wanted to vote—awful bad here," the stricken man mumbled, indicating the region of his heart. "Whenever I'm in trouble, must get Charlie —," and he fell forward dead. Dr. Kuns came into the hallway at the same moment.

Mr. Coulter leaves a widow and three children—Wright Coulter, Mrs. J. V. G. Posey and Mrs. Rolland Seeley. His father, Benjamin F. Coulter, founder of the dry goods company, died about three years ago. His mother lives with his half-sister, Mrs. Robert McReynolds, No. 20 Berkeley square. He was 58 years old.

Born in Clarksville, Tenn., he was educated in private schools and graduated from the Southwest University at Clarksville in 1876. Immediately following his graduation he entered the dry goods firm of B. F. Coulter & Bros., in Clarksville.

COMES TO LOS ANGELES.

A year later, his father, B. F. Coulter, decided to come West, and in 1877 the firm of Coulter & Harper was started in Los Angeles. Frank Coulter was accepted as a junior partner, and when, two years later, the firm name was changed to Coulter Dry Goods Company, Frank Coulter was elected vice-president.

This position he held until the death of his father, whereupon he became president of the company.

Mr. Coulter was married in 1880 to Miss Lelia Elizabeth Lockhart. When the firm of B. F. Coulter Dry Goods Company was incorporated in 1892, and was known as the B. F. Coulter Association, Frank Coulter was elected vice-president and general manager. In addition he was secretary of the Arrowhead Hot Springs Hotel Company, and was identified with almost every civic movement.

Mr. Coulter was a clubman of prominence, as a member of the New York Athletic Club, Union League Club of this city, Academy of Sciences, Arrowhead Mountain Club, San Bernardino County Club and other organizations. He spent much time in church and civic work and was a member of the Christian Church.

The body was removed to the Bresee mortuary. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

PURPLE CROSS BENEFIT.

Annual Affair in Aid of Relief and Hospital Work Done by Foresters Occurs this Week.

An event of much interest to the Independent Order of Foresters in Southern California occurs this week in Los Angeles. It is the annual Purple Cross relief and hospital benefit fair, which will be held tomorrow, Friday and Saturday in the Foresters' Building, No. 246 South Hill street.

More than 4000 Foresters residing in Los Angeles will participate in this fair, and it is expected that fully as many from other points in Southern California will be present during the three days of activity for the aid of relief work.

Many booths are being arranged and entertaining programmes are provided for each day. The fair will have many interesting features for the general public and for all members of fraternal organizations.

Death Strikes Him at a Friend's Door.

Frank Middleton Coulter,

Head of the great dry goods company which bears his name, clubman and public-spirited citizen, who passed away suddenly early last night.

Big Deal.

MILLION-DOLLAR LEASE IS MADE.

BRONSON BUILDING RENTED FOR UNIQUE PLAN.

West Seventh-street Structure to be Converted into "Above-the-street" Shops Equivalent to a Great Department Store Under Different Heads.

One of the most important leases concluded in downtown Los Angeles in many months was closed yesterday, when E. R. Brackett, recently of St. Louis, secured from the Standard Fireproof Building Company of this city a twenty-year tenure on the Bronson Block, on the north side of West Seventh street, near the corner of Grand. The deal was made directly between the owners and the lessee and it is understood that the latter will pay a total rental consideration of about $1,000,000.

The Bronson Building was completed about two years ago and has stood practically empty during most of that time. The structure was built for loft purposes and is thirteen stories high. The front is faced with terra cotta and is one of the handsomest in the city. The building is of steel and concrete construction and absolutely fireproof. John C. Austin was the architect.

The owners and Mr. Brackett have commissioned the Milwaukee Building Company of this city to plan and install partitions throughout the structure and to design numerous ornamental features. The lessee expects to divide each of the twelve upper stories into six "above-the-street" shops, converting the building into what will be practically equivalent to a great department store under many heads. A different line, it is announced, will be placed on each story.

The walls throughout will be decorated. Many of the partitions will be of glass and both mirror and French doors will be used. It is the purpose of the lessee to appoint the place with all the elegance of the high-class department stores. An attractive feature will be provided in the form of flower boxes at all outside windows.

Work on the alterations is to be started at once, and it is understood that negotiations are now under way with prospective subtenants.

MISSION LESSONS TOLD BY DRAMA.

FOUR SCENES FROM TEXT-BOOK TO BE PRESENTED AT TEMPLE CHURCH.

Four dramatic representations of scenes from "The King's Highway," a new text-book in mission study, will be given on the platform of the Temple Baptist Church by representatives of the societies of Christian Endeavor and classes in the Bible school.

Of the scenes to be presented one is called "India's Advocates," and shows a Buddhist priest, a Tamil coolie and other persons of India pleading with "America" to continue good work she has begun.

The second scene is "India's Justification of Missions." A perplexed American disciple wonders if missions are worth while. Natives who have been uplifted bring their testimony—the leprous, the blind, the lame, the outcasts who have been helped.

"China and her Schoolmasters" shows inquiries how Confucius and Europe and England and America have desired to be her teachers, but how "Christianity" has better offers than all others.

The marvelous Christian awakening and progress in Korea is illustrated by "Miss Kim," who gives a keen insight into the life and destiny of the "Land of the Morning Calm."

Mission study classes to run six weeks are to be started next Sunday. The members of the young people's societies will assemble at 5 o'clock, an hour ahead of the customary time, and study "The King's Highway." Members of the Bible school of the same ages will assemble with the Endeavorers. A mission study lecture will be given to adults by Rev. L. A. Gould each Sunday night from 6:15 to 6:45 o'clock and each Wednesday night from 7:10 to 7:45 o'clock in Berean Hall. The classes are open to the public.

THRILLING COURT SCENE.

A battle for the heritage of $1,000,000, centering around a beautiful little girl, occupied an exciting special session in Superior Judge Myer's courtroom yesterday. Spectacular proceedings, including a fist fight, mysterious disappearance of the girl and a spirited police hunt, developed in rapid-fire fashion while a movie camera clicked in the staging of a realistic motion picture company by the Kolb and Dill company.

NEW BEAUTY AT FLOWER SHOW.

Famous Exhibitor of 'Mums Brings His Finest.

Amazing Display is Fresher than at Opening.

Tomorrow is Van Nuys Day; Great Crowd Expected.

A noted horticulturist paused in front of a palm at the Boardway Automobile and Flower Show yesterday afternoon. It is one of a large number of beautiful palms at this exquisite display. To the many thousands of men and women who entered the doors it told its own tale of delicate nurturing, but to the horticulturist it represented years of care and watching, of scientific culture and in the fulfillment of its growth, the pride of a loving parent.

"That palm," said the horticulturist, "is worth $200."

His comment spread, and soon the palm was surrounded by scores who now noted what they had overlooked in a cursory glance. It stood a prince among the nodding dahlias and blushing roses, dainty and delicate and silkily green. The horticulturist moved to other plants, and his expert eye noted with what love and care famous private nurseries had been looted of their choice blooms and plants to make the show one of the finest and most enjoyable ever attempted in Southern California.

As the days pass the show develops in beauty. To the wonderment of the spectators, who, not content with one glimpse, repeat their visits, the amazing display is fresher and more beautiful than on the first day. Exhibits have been replenished and added to Each day brings its own surprise.

ELITE OF POSY LAND.

The deep blue of the sky and the golden sunshine have been robbed that the delicate flowers may bloom, and teach to the visitors their story of beauty and simplicity. The very artistocracy of exclusive private greenhouses has been taken to grace the exhibit. Some of the exhibits are priceless; many are rare. They have been garnered from every corner of the globe. It would almost seem that these delicate and costly blooms recognize the presence of the famous gardeners who have tended them with such loving care.

A riot of bloom, the average visitor is inclined to exclaim, but the real flower lovers differentiate. They see new wonders at each visit. It is Thirty-six Hours Pass Without Single Auto Accident Case Reported to Receiving Hospital.

For the first time since motor cars have been abundant, the Receiving Hospital passed thirty-six hours ending at noon yesterday without one case of a person injured by an automobile. An examination of the records for five years back, showed no such drought in the blood of motor car victims.

The statisticians in the hospital also compiled proof that the most violent month in motor traffic was July of this year, when fourteen deaths and 311 injuries was the toll of automomiles. The most rapid harvest of injuries was in the afternoon of September 29, when fourteen victims were brought to the hospital in four hours, and no three hurt in the same accident.

At El Paso.

BANK MESSENGER CAUGHT; ADMITS THEFT OF GOLD.

IN THE custody of Detective Shannon of the local Pinkerton force, Howard Main, 18-year-old bank messenger who ran away with $4000 in $5 and $10 gold pieces last Thursday, will arrive tonight over the Southern Pacific from El Paso. He was apprehended by Mr. Shannon as he was leaving the Sheldon Hotel in the Texas city and made no resistance when the officer quietly arrested him.

In the five days which elapsed before he was overtaken, the boy managed to spend $970, according to advices received yesterday by C. V. Hatter, local Pinkerton chief. The remaining $3030 was placed in a safety deposit by the youth on his arrival at El Paso. Mr. Hatter stated the boy admitted his guilt at once and readily told where he had put the money. He waived extradition and expressed his willingness to return and "take his medicine."

Mr. Hatter detailed Mr. Shannon to find the boy as soon as the matter was reported. The detective found a second-hand motorcycle dealer who had sold a machine to a boy answering Main's description. The next clew was picked up at Redlands Junction, where the motorcycle was deserted and the boy purchased a ticket for Nilands. At Nilands he eluded the officers, spent the day in a hotel and that night, after partially destroying several letters and the identification marks on his clothing, took a train for El Paso.

He carried no baggage and paid with gold for everything he purchased. After reaching El Paso he outfitted himself and proceeded to have a good time.

Main lived with his mother, Mrs. W. L. Lyman, at No. 1326½ Myrtle avenue. Last Thursday he was sent by Assistant Cashier P. R. Williams of the Commercial National Bank to the United States National Bank for $4000 in gold. According to the bank officials, he was instructed to take a bank officer with him as guard. He slipped away alone, got the money and fled. His father is said to be employed as a bookkeeper in a local bank.

OWNER OF WIDE ACRES PASSES.

End Comes Without Warning to F. C. Paulin.

Was a Pioneer Spirit of the Imperial Valley.

Land He Held is Valued at About a Million.

Fredrick Charlesworth Paulin, millionaire land owner of the Imperial Valley, died suddenly early yesterday morning at his home in Brentwood Park, a suburb of Santa Monica.

Mr. Paulin was one of the pioneer spirits of the Imperial Valley and among the first to see the wonderful possibilities of that section. He came to California in 1900 and shortly afterward became interested in Imperial Valley. He was one of the organizers of the Imperial Land Company, and afterward became its president, a position he held at the time of his death. He was one of the original promoters of the cities of Imperial, Brawley, Calexico, Silsbee and Heber, and was active in the establishment of several banks in the valley.

Mr. Paulin was also identified with the organization of the Imperial Valley Improvement Company and the Imperial Comoress Company, holding offices in both of these companies at the time of his death. He was a promoter and, at the time of his death, president of the Homeland Realty Company of Kings county. It is estimated that Mr. Paulin's holdings in Imperial Valley and the San Joaquin Valley are close to the million mark. Besides these properties he owned industrial property in Los Angeles and a palatial residence in Brentwood Park, the first to be built in that section.

Mr. Paulin was born at Woodstock, Ontario, Canada. He engaged in mercantile business at St. Thomas, Ontario and later moved to Chicago. There he engaged in the real estate business. Learning of the possibilities for development of land in Southern California he came to Los Angeles, where he learned of the fertile lands in Imperial Valley.

Mr. Paulin was 54 years old. While no physician attended him at the time of death, which was very sudden, it is believed to have been due to valvular heart trouble, superinduced by gastritis. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Mary Paulin; three sons, H. D. Paulin and G. W. Paulin of Imperial, H. M. Paulin of Brentwood Park, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Soward of San Bernardino and Miss Olive Paulin of Brentwood Park.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Brentwood Park residence. Interment will be at Inglewood.

LACKS FUNDS.

Government will Pay for Witnesses for Monterey Attorney in Smuggling Conspiracy Case.

J. Sherman Woolf, the principal defendant in the smuggling conspiracy case before United States District Judge Farrington, went on the stand yesterday and told why he is not financially able to pay the expenses for thirteen witnesses he desired to summon in his defense.

Woolf said he has only an equity of about $250 in a house at Monterey for which he has agreed to pay $3750; a small law library in his office, a second-hand typewriter, and about $50 worth of furniture in his home. He said he had about $600 on his books, accumulated in a career of about six years practicing law, and none of it was good, as he had scraped up every cent he could get on these accounts in order to prepare for his defense.

In reply to queries by the court, Woolf said he had three lawyers, but only two were paid, Judge J. V. Sargent of San Francisco, who appeared in his behalf, having only a friendly interest in the case: "Luckily, I have paid two of the attorneys," said Woolf.

Judge Farrington made an order providing for the payment of the expenses for five of the required witnesses.

It was stipulated that Woolf was the attorney of the Hop Sing Tong, a Chinese organization. That body secured bond for several of the defendants at the time of their arrest. The government claims that the Hop Sing Tong has paid all of the bills in behalf of the defendants, including the attorney fees for Woolf's lawyers.

The conspiracy case, sidetracked by other business in Judge Farrington's court yesterday, will be resumed this morning.

MAINTAIN OIL DISCOVERY.

Kern County Land Holders Testify That Development of Gas Preceded Taft Withdrawal Orders.

With no session of Judge Trippet's court yesterday, Judge Bledsoe moved his hearing of the McCutcheon oil case from the room formerly occupied by the Federal grand jury down to the fourth floor of the Federal Building.

The room was crowded with oil men from all parts of Kern county, and with the taking up of the Kinsey case the latter part of the week, the attendance will be further augmented.

F. J. Burns, a director of the Obispo Oil Company, one of the corporations defendant, testified to finding gas on the land exploited by his company before the withdrawal order of President Taft in September, 1909. On a big blackboard Mr. Burns made a map of the gas belt that would have done credit to an engineer.

Another witness was W. W. Olcott, a geologist, who described the formation in the land involved in the controversy, tending to show that both oil and gas were to be had in paying commercial quantities.

It is the contention of the government that neither gas, oil nor any other mineral was discovered in the land withdrawn by executive order until after the date mentioned in the proclamation of the President.

Novelties at the Auto and Flower Show.

The biggest goldenrod and the finest water lilies.

At the top is Mrs. Frank Lewin and one of her treasures—goldenrod ten feet high. Below is the remarkable exhibit of water lilies belonging to Edmund D. Sturtevant. He has the finest collection in the United States and this is the best exhibit he has ever made. Over twenty varieties are shown, some of them so new as to be unnamed. See them at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show.

Flower Show.

a privilege not often vouchsafed, for in the privacy of their own greenhouses only the elect may approach the aristocrats of the floral kingdom.

A fortune is represented in the acre of colors. How many thousands of dollars would be an idle guess. But there they are, and the eye never tires. The exhibit is not heterogeneous. The artistic enters into the combinations of rich colors.

Yesterday the show was brighter and more extensive than on the opening day. Today it will receive several important and beautiful accessions.

FAMOUS EXHIBITORS.

From the famous Wattles gardens of Hollywood will come this morning 125 or more choice chrysanthemum blooms. They were grown by Alex Urquhart, whose reputation as a gardener, horticulturist and landscape architect has spread far and wide.

Mr. Urquhart has made gardening and horticulture a life study. In Scotland, his home, he learned much and achieved much as gardener for big estates. He has been in Southern California more than twelve years. For five years he entered in competition in the Pasadena shows and captured scores of cups and other prizes. For the past seven years he has acted as judge at the Pasadena show and consequently has not exhibited there in competition.

Chrysanthemums have no secrets from Mr. Urquhart. They tell him all they know. The blooms he will bring in today have not been groomed for exhibition purposes. They were produced in the ordinary course of gardening. Returning from a trip north, Mr. Urquhart was urged by his friends yesterday to show some of the 'mums. They will be shown on the Hill-street side of the building near the beautiful exhibit of the city park department, and they will be worth seeing.

NEW ENTRIES TOMORROW.

Tomorrow entries will be received in two new rose classes and eight new chrysanthemum classes, open to amateurs only. Roses may be entered in groups of twenty-four and twelve blossoms, not necessarily of one color or variety. Each 'mum class calls for three blooms. Cups will be awarded in every class. Exhibitors will be admitted with their flowers tomorrow morning up to 11 o'clock. Each exhibitor is entitled to a pass for the remainder of the show.

The display by Arthur Letts is remarkable for its versatility and beauty. Starting in Saturday with fifty different varieties of rare, tropical flowering, shrubs and plants, he added roses and cannas Sunday and Monday, and yesterday staged a gorgeous display of roses and other cut flowers. Mr. Letts's rose garden is famous. Visitors carry away a memory of the rare and beautiful that lives with them. But all the world cannot make the pilgrimage to the rose garden; a considerable part of the world may rave over them at the show, and it is.

The exhibit of H. E. Huntington represents a great portion of the blue sky and the golden sunshine. It represents the most expensive collection of plants in the world. If one notes only the tall, graceful palms the visit to this exhibit leaves a grateful sense of something exquisite and priceless. William Hertrich, Mr. Huntington's gardener, has brought to the show flowers and plants that are the apple of his eye.

EXHIBITORS EAGER.

So great is the enthusiasm of exhibitors that it would seem they have taken their private nurseries and transplanted them bodily to the show. One of these enthusiasts is Mrs. Rose Emmett Whitley, who came down from Van Nuys yesterday with her automobile loaded with roses to replenish her beautiful display of the prides of the valley.

Dahlias in such profusion and beauty were never seen before here. The Angelus Gardens have the largest and most attractive display possible to get together. There are more than 120 varieties, and these, it might be well to say in passing, have never before been shown in Los Angeles. New varieties shown for the first time are the Liberty and Copper dahlia. Z. H. Sherart, the owner, has been collecting these dahlias for five years and they have reached the acme of perfection.

The Eagle Rock Dahlia Farm has 700 varieties, which, as can be imagined, make a beautiful display. A reproduction of the famous Eagle Rock, familiar to so many thousands, is not only a work of art, but of love as well.

Amateur gardeners have been stirred by the competitive prizes offered. These exhibits will be judged tomorrow. Ten new classes opened Monday, and there is the great enthusiasm among exhibitors who have learned to love the dainty flowers they cultivate. A wonderful and brilliant display the amateur gardeners have made. Amid the profusion of gems brought in by experts, the amateur exhibits make a splendid showing.

FERNS LIKE LACE.

Fernery nooks are not rare, but that nook made by the Sunnyside Fernery is a dream. The delicacy of these ferns might be compared to old lace. Fred G. Mundwiler, proprietor of the fernery, has put in the exhibit the love of the true horticulturist. Cool, refreshing, delightful is the way the ladies sum up the attraction.

Arthur E. Simpson, landscape architect, has a unique display. It is one that appeals to the man or woman who seeks to beautify the home. The exhibit shows how some homes have been beautified in the laying out of the lawns.

Tomorrow will be Van Nuys day, and that means the youth and beauty of the San Fernando Valley will be there, bringing the choicest blooms grown. The Pioneer Club of Van Nuys is coming, and hundreds of Van Nuys men and women. There will be dancing in the evening, and it is noted how some of the Van Nuys girls can dance.

Yesterday fifty maids and matrons of Van Nuys came down with fresh roses to replenish the handsome booth, so it fairly scintillates with beauty for the big day tomorrow.

Southern California is known the world over as flowerland, but until this beautiful show opened it was hardly dreamed that such exquisite flowers and plants existed. It was surely not dreamed that so many private greenhouses would contribute their best beloved blooms to add to the display sent in by gardeners from near and far. But they are all in the big building on Broadway, shedding their fragrance on the air. The wonder is that the big, insensate automobiles which seem to lie in wait among the fragrant flowers on the lower floors do not spring out in the proud knowledge of their strength and rush roaring up and down the aisles with the pure joy of being among such loveliness.

The black and white and blue and yellow and purple and gray of the motor cars form a fine background for the flowers. The colors of the blooms are accentuated. But on the third floor only the flowers are seen. It is like entering fairyland. The eye must recover from the first blaze of color, and as one wanders from group to group and the delicacy of the famous plants is noted, a restfulness steals over the visitor. The Flower Show is not a riot of color, but an orderly scheme where one flower has the same chance of being admired as another.

THE BEST YET.

The show has attracted many amateur experts who have acquired a fine sense of discrimination by travel. Their opinion is that this show has been the most successful ever attempted, and that each day, instead of lessening the desire, adds to it. Freshness is the keynote. The word wilt has been expunged.

It is believed the flower show could not be duplicated any other place on earth. For, while Europe, Asia, Africa and even Australia have contributed to the display, the blooms brought from those lands have, it would seem, acquired added beauty and luster. And it is true that Southern California has contributed its own blooms, than which none sweeter grow.

As the horticulturist learned from the beautiful palm the history of its careful and scientific nurturing and named a value that made visitors gasp, so other horticulturists have unerringly picked out other rare and expensive plants and blooms and related some portion of their history which the careful grooming betrayed.

In the profusion of rich things the orchids are not forgotten. Orchids are rarely seen out of greenhouses. There are orchids at the show which would cost a fortune if offered for sale in the East. Then there are the lilies, fair and delicate, and strange plants which only experts may name. But the roses! They are everywhere, and they tell their own story to whoever cares to bend near and listen.

SELLING LOCAL PRODUCT.

Ad Club Hears of Methods Used in Establishing National Demand for These Goods.

An interesting history of the development of a market, now nation-wide, for a Los Angeles product was set forth before the Ad Club at its luncheon yesterday at the Clark. This was the story of the creation of a market for Sop-O-Zon, a liquid soap made here, and for the dispensers used in the handling of this soap in homes and public places.

The speakers were A. L. Bobrick of the Bobrick Chemical Company, manufacturers of this liquid soap; Carmen Smith, who handled the national advertising for the product, and A. P. Stickler, in charge of the sales campaigns.

Mr. Bobrick stated that when he took up the subject of advertising with the Curtis Publishing Company, he even had his copy already prepared, but he was advised that he was far from ready for a national advertising campaign, and must first thoroughly organize his distribution system. For two years this was worked upon, before the advertising nationally was begun. A year ago a page advertisement in the Saturday Evening Post was started, and these advertisements were followed by "broadsides" sent to every dealer. The first list of 10,0[illegible] of these broadsides brought, on an average, twenty-five or thirty orders, but this was simply seed-sowing, and these orders after each brought big responses. The first page advertisement brought about 2500 inquiries, but the final result of this advertising was the establishment of distribution centers in 327 cities of the United States, equipments of [illegible] buildings at both expositions, all the new buildings at the Panama-Pacific, New York's new municipal building, and thousands of great public buildings with the Sop-O-Zon dispensers in service.

The initial campaign required an outlay of about $18,000, but [illegible] tablished distribution centers brought orders from every State in the Union, from Honolulu, Australia, England and India.

Title Insurance and Trust Company is an institution of many services, each one filling a distinct want in the daily practice of business or in the financial problems of the average man or woman.

The idea behind this company is embodied in one word —SERVICE.

—where is that Will you made ten years ago?

Thousands of Wills are buried in old desks, trunks, and a score of other unsafe places. Is your Will absolutely safe where it rests today? Would it be possible for any interested person to have unauthorized access to it today, or immediately following your death—even though the document were in some safe deposit or other strong-box?

When Title Insurance and Trust Company prepares a Will and is named as executor under it—the document is sealed in the presence of witnesses and deposited in our own vault. The testator is given a copy of his Will, and a receipt for the original. It can never be lost, stolen or tampered with. It is guarded night and day by a strong State supervised institution possessing assets of over $2,000,000.

We guard the Wills of the most conservative people in the Southwest. Bring your Will to us and secure trust company protection. Special booklets upon request.

MODERNIZE OUR OLDEST STREE

Asphalt Paving for Ro Around the Plaza.

Transformation Wrought City Landmarks.

Earliest Historical Eve Occurred Here.

After use for more than a cent and a quarter as a public highw for very many years simply an ear en road and later having attained dignity of being graded and gravel the oldest street in Los Angeles is n receiving down-to-date improvemen

Modernism, in the guise of co crete base and asphalt surface for t roadways, cement curbs and sidewal now reigns in the streets around t old Plaza and the Church of Our La Queen of the Angels. Ancient buil ings that have looked down on t very earliest history of Los Angel that have been the center of the city activities, commercial and social, an that have then been pushed aside more progressive sections, now placi ly look out upon the progress of t newest sort of street improvement —and possibly there is a wonder as to whether this presages a return t former importance.

Strange as it may seem, althoug hundreds of miles of paved stree grace Los Angeles, many of them reaching to the far-out boundaries the section around the Plaza has re mained year after year without th improvement.

Some time ago a plan was evolve whereby there should be a cutting through of San Pedro street into Los Angeles street, and a decided change of grades from Alisо street north to intersections beyond the Plaza. This would have left the east side of the ancient little park about six feet higher than the street level, and would have required retaining walls in various portions of the street. The cost, when the assessment rolls were completed, was considered prohibitive and the proceedings were protested out.

Then the proceedings under which the present work is being done were started. Because of the elimination of plans for a great change in grade, heavy expense was cut out of the estimates and it was possible to have the work done under the bond provisions of the Vrooman Act.

The present work completely surrounds the Plaza and extends along Los Angeles street from Arcadia to Alameda streets, so that it completely transforms the appearances of the streets in that section of the city. This work includes the paving with concrete base and asphalt cement curbs and sidewalks, storm drain and sewer work. It covers Plaza street, from Los Angeles to Main street; Marchessault street, from Los Angeles street to Main street; Los Angeles street from Alameda street to Arcadia street.

The contract was awarded on August 7 to the Fairchild-Gilmore-Wilson Company, the price being $22,172.80. Work on the improvement was started on August 21 and ninety days were allowed within which to complete the entire contract. It is probable that the paving will be completed today or tomorrow, and the very oldest section of Los Angeles will present a most modern aspect in so far as its streets are concerned.

It is interesting to note that fronting on this improvement stand the old Mission Church, one of the chain established by the Franciscan padres, and the initial point for the starting of Los Angeles. Then there is the old adobe building opposite the northeast corner of the Plaza that is known as the residence of Gen. Fremont when he was in Los Angeles. On the easterly side, in the midst of one of the picturesque street alignments of Chinatown, stands the original building in which St. Vincent's College was started, a generation ago. It is now used as a Chinese house of entertainment. At the southerly side of the Plaza and the modernizing that is now in progress stands the old Pico House, once the very center of social life in Southern California and the scene of many a historical event. It was here that statesmen and men of military affairs assembled to discuss matters of weight; and here the belles and beaux of the picturesque early days enjoyed the brilliant balls and banquets and the most notable of social affairs.

Easterly from this, at the next corner, stands the building that for years was used as the city terminus of the stage line that was operated between Los Angeles and San Pedro and also the line between the city and San Bernardino.

Edison to Visit Schools.

mittee of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Edison will visit a number of the schools of the city, leaving the Alex-andria at 9:30 o'clock and returning at noon. The children will be lined up in front of the buildings so that they may see the wizard of electricity as he passes in his automobile.

The itinerary of schools, in the or-der to be visited, follows: Grand, Sixteenth, Polytechnic High, Thirtieth, West Vernon, Manual Arts High, Ver-mont, Berendo, Sentous, Los Feliz, Hollywood High, Selma, Grant, Custer, Los Angeles High, Castelar, Lincoln, Boyle Heights intermediate, and Seventh. Between the stop at the Manual Arts High and at the Ver-mont-avenue school, the party will visit the Museum of History, Science and Art at Exposition Park.

Mr. Edison and party, probably ac-companied by Mr. Ford, will leave for San Diego by automobile almost im-mediately following the return from this trip. Both Mr. Edison and Mr. Ford and parties are scheduled to leave here November 5 in their private car for the East over the Santa Fe.

ANOTHER PARTY OFF TO FAIR.

SIXTH "TIMES SPECIAL" GOES NORTH WITH GAY CROWD.

One Hundred and Twenty-five Joyous Excursionists Take Ad-vantage of Exceptional Oppor-tunity to Visit Exposition and See Beauty Spots of State.

With 125 happy members comprising it, the sixth Times Special party formed during the past year left at 6:30 o'clock last evening on a special train de luxe for San Francisco and the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The trip is made over the Coast Line, via Santa Cruz and the giant redwood trees in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

A stopover will be made this morn-ing for a short visit to the big trees, and the entire party will be given the opportunity to spend a few hours view-ing the surrounding country. Accord-ing to schedule, the train will arrive at San Francisco at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Automobiles will be waiting at the depot to convey the visitors imme-diately to the Inside Inn, where lunch-eon will be served.

As usual, the response from persons wishing to take advantage of the con-veniences and privileges accorded to The Times special parties far ex-ceeded the accommodations reserved, with the result that a number of ap-plicants were forced to await the next trip. The surprising cheapness, com-bined with the quality of equipment and thoroughness of detail, has made these exposition trips famous throughout the State.

Degeneration.

VAGRANT WRECK OF RARE CHARM.

ONCE BEAUTIFUD WOMAN FOUND RAVING FOR DRUGS.

Came Here Four Years Ago with Money and Abounding Life—Un-happy Marriage, Sickness, Poverty, Then Degradation Steps that Lead Her to City Jail.

She was arrested last night. To the police she gave the name of Nina Wilson. Her friends wouldn't rec-ognize that name, nor her.

They would recall her as she came to Los Angeles from the East four years ago, a girl in her early twen-ties, tall, rounded, with a frank face almost boyish and a ready smile that made her never a stranger. Even un-friendly critics would admit she was beautiful.

She came with a maid, and a vast wardrobe, and a splendid dog which alone was worth a ransom of more than ten of her now. In her furs and with her full figure and abounding vivacity, she was a striking person as she strolled, holding her dog in leash. And in the cafes, her appearance was such that strangers called the head waiter and asked, with an answer in-vited by a tip, "Can you tell me the name of that young woman with the dark hair and the diamonds?"

Then she married and the union was unhappy. She moved from her splendid apartment to a bungalow in one of the fashionable suburbs. Ill-ness came and to relieve her suffering she was given opiates, and because the doctors thought she was going to die, they gave her as much as she de-sired, and introduced her to an era of glorious haze.

But she amazed them by recover-ing. It was proof of her splendid young strength. And then her hus-band left her and she moved back into the city, to an apartment not so luxurious.

Her allowance ebbed. Financial conditions attacked the fountain of supply that had seemed inexhaustible. That brought retrenchment and un-happiness, and though she had been to a sanatorium, she continued to use opiates.

At last her relatives investigated her mode of living and her habits, and the result was a severing of her remittance. Vague rumors came to her friends, but they only missed her. She had gone somewhere.

The somewhere was on the east side of Main street. She was where none knew her, her beauty fading, her health going. All her clothes, jewelry and, at last, her personal honor were pawned to purchase the drugs at an increasing figure.

She went to the haunts of her kind, miserable lodging-houses, where crip-ples, petty thieves and the wretches of the night streets abode. Haggard became her face and emaciated the lines of her body, and her clothes fit-ted her illy. And she no longer was of any attraction save to the most abandoned, or those of other races. No practice was too horrible to raise money for her precious drugs.

So they found her last night, a skulking figure in a nasty alley, with only a loose wrapper about her body, no hat, untied shoes. Her crippled mate had kicked her out because she had no money. She was whining and crying.

The police arrested her and took her to the Central Station. When she passed behind the bars, her vileness broke out into screams and curses. She passed out of hearing, screaming: "Give me a shot; give me just one shot, and you can take me to hell, but give me a shot before you take me into jail. Just one shot; a sniff of "coc" or anything, but something, my God, something!"

When the matron asked her age she said "25," looked up dazed, thought for a moment, and then said: "This is my birthday. I'm 26 today," and then she continued her whine for "one little shot, just one shot," and went to a cell.

MAINE PEOPLE MEET.

Members of the Maine State So-ciety of Los Angeles met last night in The Times assembly rooms for their first fall entertainment. A saxaphone solo by Miss Merril and musical selec-tions by Mrs. Dietz, Mrs. Budamer and Mr. Peralta were features of the programme. Light refreshments were served.

If You Love Your Children

Select the Food That Will Make Them Sturdiest.

The time to lay the foundation for good health and long life is during childhood. It is what you digest, not what you eat, that makes muscle, bone and brain. All parents should exercise the utmost care, therefore, in selecting food for their little ones that is not only easily digestible, but which contains the proper elements for building up sturdy bodies, and keen, receptive brains.

Authorities agree that Oatmeal is the ideal food for this purpose. But ordinary oatmeal does not appeal to many children because of its lack of flavor. Besides it is not easily pre-pared in a digestible form.

It remained, therefore, for the dis-covery of a process of cooking oat-meal at a very high temperature, un-der steam pressure, to produce a food that is not only deliciously palatable, but highly nutritious and easily di-gestible as well.

The oatmeal prepared by this ex-clusive process is known as the H-O brand. Your children will thrive up-on H-O Oatmeal—and call for more. It is also good for grown folks, and you cannot do better than to make it a regular part of the daily break-fast. Your grocer sells H-O. Insist upon it.

Brentwood Park

Nature has especially favored this homesite park.
Its natural advantages stamp it as a subdivision different and interesting.
When it is all sold you will have to pay someone else a handsome profit—the reward of his foresight—but if you act now you can make that increase yourself.

GRADER DECISION.

Federal Judge Affirms Finding of Damages for Original Patentee of Orange-sorting Machine.

Judge Bledsoe has filed his decision affirming the report of Lynn Helm, as special master, finding that the two new forms of graders manufactured and sold by George D. Parker of Riverside are infringements of the Robert Strain patent owned by Fred Stebler of Riverside, and granting judgment against Mr. Parker for the sum of $11,470.20, the damages found by the special master, and for $2340.20 additional punitive damages on ac-count of the wilful infringement. The order of the court carries with it a judgment of about $600 against the Riverside Heights Orange Growers' Association for damages.

Involved in this same decision are some forty odd suits pending against users of the Parker machines, all of which have been held to be infringe-ments. This suit has been pending for some five or six years and has al-ready twice been carried to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and once to the Supreme Court of the United States. It involves the stand-ard orange sizer or grader in general use in citrus packing-houses.

Frederick S. Lyon of Los Angeles appeared for Mr. Stebler, and N. A. Acker of San Francisco for defend-ants.

AUTO SMASHES CYCLIST.

Japanese, Riding Bicycle Without Any Lights, is Painfully Injured in a Collision.

Run down by an automobile driven by C. L. Miller of No. 727 West First street, just as he was turning from Highland avenue into Hollywood boulevard on his bicycle early last night, S. Kawahaia, a Japanese of No. 1641 Casmo street, was painfully in-jured and his bicycle wrecked.

According to the police Kawahaia was riding his bicycle home from work. He had failed to light his lamp, the police say and Mr. Miller was unable to see the bicycle until too late to avoid the collision. The injured man was treated by a passing surgeon and then taken to his home. He was suffering from concussion of the brain and many lacerations about the head and face.

DRAMA STUDY CLUB.

The Drama Study Club, recently or-ganized for the purpose of delving in-to the motifs of the modern drama, will hold its initial class session for the season of 1915-16 in the lecture-room on the tenth floor at the public library this evening. It is the pur-pose of the club to meet in this hall each Wednesday evening during the fall and winter to hear an interpreta-tive reading of one of the great dramas and to discuss the ideas sought to be conveyed by the author. At the meeting this evening Henrik Ibsen's social drama, "Hedda Gab-ler," will be read and discussed, and all who are interested are invited to attend.

All the beautiful "movie" actresses will be at the Broad-way Automobile and Flower Show this evening, Boston Store Building, opposite City Hall.

THE FRIEND IN NEED.

Clothes do not Make the Man or Woman, as the British Grocer Learned at the Beginning of the War

[Manchester Guardian:] Circum-stances compelled me to enter the shop of an unfamiliar grocer the other day, writes a corespondent, where I wit-nessed what would technically be termed "a scene." A shabby old lady was haranguing the grocer on the sub-ject of some ham, which she plainly referred to as "stinking stuff," and or-dered him to send and take it away, on the peril of the emmediate withdrawal of her account. She had much more to say of an uncomplimentary nature, to all of which the proprietor listened with the utmost courtesy and attention, ac-companying her to the door with signs of the deepest consideration. I thought him a poor-spirited fellow, yet I could not refrain from sympathetic congrat-ulations on his preservation of good temper. "Ah," said he, in a tone of enthusiasm, 'there's nothing I wouldn't do for that old girl. She's always been like that, and I used to feel it a bit, but she's welcome to call my old mother names now if it pleases her.

"First week of the war here in Eng-land," continued the grocer, "when the wholesale houses wouldn't send any-thing except for spot cash, and our customers all wanted tea and sugar by the ton and tinned goods by the mile, I had the shop full of women, clam-oring like suffragettes. One morning in walks Miss X. She chucked something on the counetr in front of me, and said: 'Here, you may need that with so many fools about.' It was a bundle of bank notes, and the amount would surprise you. I tell you I fairly broke out crying before the whole shop. Miss X whisked round, and gave the folk a bit of her mind, same as she'd often done to me. Then, when she'd told them that she'd report anybody to the police that ordered more than a week's provisions, she turns round to me. 'Well,' she said, 'finished, babby? Same order as usual; and if your boy's en-listed, as he should have done, I'll carry it myself.'"

MURDER APPEAL HEARD.

In the District Court of Appeal yes-terday, the appeal of the State in the case of Leonard C. Canfield, on two charges involving forgery, and that of Irene Murphy from a judgment of murder, in the killing of her husband, were argued and submitted. The court will clear up the October calen-dar today.

Radium in Sea Water.

[Indianapolis News:] Prof. Stew-art J. Lloyd of the University of Ala-bama has recently published the re-sults of an examination for radium of a sample of water obtained in the Gulf of Mexico, about 200 miles south of Mobile, and has given in this con-nection a resume of the results ob-tained by other investigators in meas-uring the radium content of sea water. The writer explains that the growing recognition of radium as an important factor in geological processes has led to many analyses of rocks, soils, springs and river waters for that ele-ment, while our greatest reservoir of radium, the ocean, has received but little attention. Joly, who examined samples from several oceans and seas, obtained a value for the radium con-tent so high that it cannot be recon-ciled with the values obtained by Eve and Satterly for the North Atlantic and Lloyd for the Gulf of Mexico. Excluding Joly's results, the author finds an average which would make the total radium content of the ocean about 1400 tons.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) The declaration of the usual dividend by a large steel concern, with earnings much greater than for years past, was a stimulant to general financial conditions, and a general upward tendency resulted. One large firm received an order for 8500 steel cars from the Russian government. New records were scored by exporters, the past week's balance being the largest in our history, at $70,609,402.

(Abroad:) Egypt has suspended all money-order business with the United States.

(For details see financial pages.)

HIS FATAL HANDICAP.

A man in Italy looked so much like Theodore Roosevelt that he committed suicide. He should not have felt so bad; he didn't have to be as bad as he looked.

CLASSIC YET UNDERSTANDABLE.

Whenever we are tempted to doubt the fairness of the world's judgment we remember that the Barcarole has been accepted as a classic, and our faith is restored. To think that a piece of music could be popular and classical at the same time! Truly this is comforting.

MAKING FAITH RELIABLE.

Oh, to have the hearty acceptance of each moment's sufficiency! That is not merely to know that you shall not want, but to realize that you can never be found wanting; that you will always be adequate to the last test and equal to every legitimate demand that is made upon you.

WHERE DOES IT GO?

When you know that you knew something yesterday and cannot think of it today, it makes you wonder whether all of these forgotten items are stored up or they have completely escaped. If a man is a reservoir, there is some satisfaction in the intake, and if he isn't, he doesn't amount to as much as he hoped he did.

JUST GETTING RIGHT.

A man at Los Angeles Harbor, in denying the fact that he had married, said he wouldn't think of such a thing at his age, which is 63. Pshaw! He is nothing but a boy. It was only this week that the papers announced that the widow of the late President Harrison had enrolled herself as a student at one of the eastern universities.

BAD POLITICS.

The Italians have little to gain by their stubborn insistence on their own offensive where selfish interests will be served and their refusal to help against the central powers in the Balkans. If the allies win they will have little use for Italy, and if the Teutons are ever free to turn back upon Italy, that nation will be given a taste of war at its worst.

WORD RATES.

There are words enough in all languages, but there are not many people who put words in their place. All occasions have their tempo, and a man's verbiage ought to strike exactly the stride of the event. One does not require fastidious diction to describe an act of rashness, nor should our speech be harsh when talking of something deliberate.

END OF HUDSON BAY ROAD.

The scheme of the Hudson Bay Railroad, which is intended to provide a new outlet for the foodstuff exports of the western provinces of Canada and also a much shortened route to Europe, has come to a standstill for the present. The money that is required for railroad construction is more urgently needed for the purchase of munitions with which to kill Germans.

NOT QUITE READY.

We have been amused to notice in a current magazine the following well-meaning, yet hardly clear, sentence: "Over in Newfoundland a Catholic priest cried to the legislators, 'To close the saloons of Newfoundland is to close the gates of hell,' and all the Catholic members voted in favor of the partial closing law." The magazine contributor thus leaves us to believe that the members thought the time not yet ripe to entirely close up the devil's own home town.

MAKE IT PERMANENT.

From the general verdict passed upon the beautiful exposition at San Diego no dissentient voice has yet been heard. The symmetry, grace, completeness, art and appropriateness of the whole enterprise have marked it as the gem of all expositions held in so many world cities since the movement was inaugurated by the great Hyde Park show in London half a century ago.

The San Diego exposition is a poem in architecture, as the "Midsummer Night's Dream" is a poem of the stage, and Corot's landscapes poems on canvas. Small in dimensions as compared with many of the expositions of other American cities that have come and gone, San Diego has made an offering distinctive and unique; it breathes the spirit of old California, presents the romantic side of the sensuous Southwest harmoniously created at the silver gateway where the mission fathers first landed in the cause of Christian civilization. As a study and a picture of California it is illuminating and historical. It is a stanza that endures, because it has a vital message, where more elaborate compositions are heard and pass away. The world cannot afford to lose one of its few perfect poems.

GRATIFYING ELECTION RETURNS.

The California election returns were of necessity incomplete as this page went to press this morning. Only a part of the State had been heard from, but the vote in Southern California and in San Francisco and Alameda counties and in the cities of Central California indicated a decisive defeat for the Johnson machine. There can be little doubt of it.

The anti-party bills, the tax amendment, rural credits and all the pet Johnson measures are apparently beaten—although it is barely possible that the complete returns from the whole State will alter the complexion of these things somewhat.

The small vote throughout the State is significant. The Times does not recall an election in which so small a percentage of the total vote of the State was cast. The people are a-weary of these sickening elections after elections and on top of elections, and they stayed away from the polls. It was their way of protesting against the burdensome and frightfully expensive abuse. It would appear from the dispatches that they put the stamp of their disapproval and disgust on Hiram Johnson and all his works.

It is certain that the good-roads bond issue in Los Angeles county went down to defeat. The groaning taxpayers put the quietus on it. The attempt to put across this $3,000,000 job, merely to gratify a little coterie of land speculators, was an affront which the people resented. When almost every citizen, almost every household, was feeling the pinch of hard times, when every business man was scratching almost desperately to meet his obligations, it was a mad thing to seek to pile three millions onto the county's debt.

All told, it was a good day's work. It can be discussed more fully and perhaps with more joyousness when the returns from the whole State are at hand. The Times, at any rate, has a very comfortable feeling as it locks up its forms this morning, and already begins to feel pangs of commiseration for the Earl newspapers and the wrong-guessing Examiner and Herald.

The most encouraging aspect of the election results, as they now appear, is the symptom of a return to sanity on the part of California voters; the indication that they are tired of fads and faddists, freaks and doctrinaires; the promise of a changed attitude which will encourage investments, stimulate industry and bring back prosperity in the State of California. Old "General Prosperity" will certainly respond to the call of level-headed voting and sound legislation.

The Times does not blow its horn very much until it is well out of the woods; but if the returns look as satisfactory this evening as they do this morning, it is possible that The Times will play a few tunes on its deservedly-celebrated whistle for the benefit of its friends and sympathizers and its newspaper contemporaries in the southerly part of the town.

LLOYD GEORGE'S RIGHT-ABOUT-FACE

One of the most scathing indictments of trades-unionism as practiced in England is found in the masterly address of David Lloyd George, delivered before the Trades Union Congress at Bristol. The arraignment is all the more telling because the little Welshman has always been an acclaimed champion of labor and an exponent of Socialist theories.

The exigency of a war which has brought his countrymen into deadly competition with a nation where every laborer places his country's needs before the bylaws of a petty local labor lodge has caused the former Radical British Chancellor to execute a right-about-movement and to bring unanswerable accusations against the very men he once supported and encouraged.

He told the labor leaders plainly that Britain, to avoid the advent of still darker days, must learn a lesson from the workmen of Germany—"they worked and worked persistently, conscientiously, without stint or strike, without restrictions, through the winter, through the spring, through the summer." And because of their faithful labors the armies in the field were able to sweep back the Russian forces almost to the gates of Petrograd.

This sort of labor the tied-and-bound British unionite has refused to attempt. Worse than this, he has throttled the efforts of the volunteers anxious to respond to the country's cry of "Speed up." The conscription he fights against for national purposes he enforces despotically in his own little local labor lodge.

Lloyd George, during the long tenure of office of the Liberal government, has done his share to burden employers with fad legislation supposed to be of benefit to the mechanics and laborers of the country. The war burden has fallen most heavily on these same employers and they shoulder it unflinchingly. But the pampered proteges of the Liberal government hold sullenly back, block all attempts to brace up the people and are wrecking the government that too easily acceded to their extravagant demands.

British union labor has always clamored for nationalization of the country's industries. The government, as a war measure, has done this; and the trades-unionists are no more loyal to state Socialism than they were to private ownership. They abate none of their petty restrictions or two-by-four bylaws; they resist the infusion of any fine spirit into the life-or-death contract on which their country is engaged. They have proved the hypocrisy of their assertion that they would rest contented under state Socialism—their one programme has at last come out—to get more than their efforts are worth, no matter who suffers for it.

When a man with Lloyd George's record has at last to tell the British trade-unionists that the skilled worker has a right to sell his work to whom he wishes for whatever he chooses to take for it we can appreciate how an honest man, when confronted with the proof of his past foolish claims, can execute a startling right-about-face. For the little fighting Welshman is honest and sincere, not a place-seeker, as his late actions have fully demonstrated, and a staunch patriot at heart, in spite of his dips into Socialism.

In America we have our labor-union troubles; we have enough and to spare of the same narrow, selfish element in labor-union circles that has brought England to her knees in the hour of her trial. But should this country ever be put to a similar test American labor will not be weighed in the balance and found wanting. The small and unpatriotic minority of our working population will be buried under an avalanche of American loyalty.

But though we need never fear such a crisis as has overtaken the British Empire, there is one fact we cannot afford to overlook. The accredited head of federated union labor in the United States is the cockney anarchist, Samuel Gompers, a man of the same breed and kidney as the traitors who are now breaking Great Britain on the rock of class antagonism. And this worse than hyphenated pseudo-American, if he could, would also Anglicize American labor as his fellows have sucked the life blood out of English efficiency.

Lloyd George has told the British labor agitators that the whole country is assuming a hostile attitude toward their selfish pretensions and has threatened them with conscription in the near future, both industrial and military. We want some outspoken friend of American labor to do by Samuel Gompers as David Lloyd George is doing by his fellow-conspirators in England.

JULIAN JOHNSON'S SUCCESS.

Los Angeles and Southern California have given the East and its larger cities many wonderful men, capable of doing big things. In recent years and among younger men our city has sent forth none more valiant in service or conspicuous in achievement in his line than Julian Johnson, formerly dramatic critic of The Times. Mr. Johnson's fine work on this newspaper is still held in high appreciation by thousands of our readers who remember him as stylist and student. For the past few months he has been the editor of the Photoplay Magazine, published in Chicago, a periodical with more than half a million readers and one that is considered the last word on the subject of motion pictures both as an industry and an art. Mr. Johnson's excellent literary judgment is shown in his selection of material for each brilliant number, while his sound business ability has already placed this large enterprise upon a substantial footing. In the December number, which is already upon the market, such contributors as David Belasco and Channing Pollock have articles of keen relish to those who are interested—and who are not—in the colossal field of filmdom. Mr. Johnson's editorials are trenchant and clear, giving a swift insight into many aspects of motion-picture enterprise. There seems to be no phase of the subject which this clever magazine does not encompass. The Photoplay Magazine is an established success.

AGRARIAN LAWS AND SETTLERS.

In ancient Rome it was expected that every citizen should be a land-holder and that the territory of a state, so far as it was not left uninclosed or reserved for public purposes, should be divided in equal portions among the citizens. Rome was not the originator of agrarian laws. The Almighty gave instructions to the Hebrews. "And ye shall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families" (Numbers, xxxiii:54.) In the republic of ancient Greece the principle of the division of the public lands was recognized. Lycurgus redivided the territory of Laconia into 39,000 parcels, of which 9000 were assigned in equal lots to as many Spartan families, and 30,000, also in equal lots, to their free subjects.

It is a popular error that agrarian laws were framed to despoil rich landed proprietors of their acres and distribute the land among the poor. Mebuhr disposes of this assumption in a sentence. He says: "The agrarian laws of the Romans were in no case intended to interfere with or affect private property in land, but related exclusively to the public domain."

All titles to land in civilized countries originated either in conquest or discovery. The first possessions of England and other European nations in American territory were not claimed by right of conquest, but by right of discovery, the native Indian population being regarded as mere temporary occupants of the soil, and the absolute rights of property and dominion belonging to the nation by which any particular portion was first discovered.

Under the British constitution the title to ungranted English lands is in the crown. The public lands in the thirteen original States were granted by the crown to chartered governments. These governments, after the revolution, were succeeded by States which ceded their lands to the United States, and the United States subsequently acquired by treaty or by conquest all of the public lands outside of the original thirteen colonies except in Texas.

The Constitution of the United States vested in Congress the absolute right to dispose of public lands to such persons, at such times, in such modes and by such titles as it may deem most advantageous.

Congress, in its legislation with respect to the public lands, has always been governed by the agrarian principle, although not always following the agrarian method. The pre-emption, homestead and other settlement laws of the United States, as well as the laws making grants of land to aid in railroad construction, have all limited acquisitions to 160 acres to any one person and have required actual settlement as a prerequisite. The pre-emption law, now repealed, gave the settler a right of purchase at $1.25 per acre; the railroad land grant laws limited the price to the settler to $2.50 per acre, and the homestead law gave the land to the settler without cost other than a slight charge for fees.

Under the laws a pre-emptioner must have been the head of a family, or a widow, or a single person over 21 years old, and a citizen of the United States, or an alien who had filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen, and any person who owned 320 acres in any State or Territory or who quitted his residence on his own land to reside on public lands in the same State or Territory was disqualified.

The operation of our beneficent agrarian land laws have, more than any other single cause, contributed to the rapid growth in population and wealth of this nation. Of the men and women who were babes when the Constitution of the United States was formed the poet has said:—

"Their land was but a shelving strip,
Black with the strife that made it free.
They lived to see its banners dip
Their fringes in the western sea."

Pre-emption and homestead settlers in California did not enjoy the same advantages as those who had made homes east of the Rockies, for many of the most accessible lands were covered with Spanish grants. In one instance, that of the Suscol grant of 90,000 acres in Solano and Napa counties, the Supreme Court of the United States adjudged the alleged grant to be a forgery and the land was restored to the public domain, but, in the meantime, the settlers had been ejected from their homes.

If Mexico had adopted the same system as the United States in disposing of her public lands she would probably have escaped the loss and suffering of the last three years, for her laborers, instead of being peons, might have been small landholders attached to the soil, and brigandage would have offered no attractions to them.

It is not yet too late for Mexico to enact a homestead law similar to that of the United States. There are many millions of acres of fertile valley and mountain land belonging to the government. Agrarian laws for its disposition would contribute greatly to the rehabilitation of our sister republic.

THE GOD OF EFFICIENCY.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The modern world has adopted a new god—efficiency. The happy-go-lucky, comfortable old hit-or-miss methods are no longer tolerated. Organization, scientific management, the highest percentage of results, the elimination of all needless waste of both time and material, labor and equipment—these are the modern ideas, not only in commerce, for they are rapidly spreading through every department of life, in sport, in pleasure, in social affairs, yea, even unto matrimony and the management of the home.

But the god of efficiency has not established his creed without a tussle. It is much easier, much more comfortable to be slipshod. The fatal old "Oh, let's-make-it-do" methods were so much less exacting. Efficiency means constant vigilance, thoroughness, no shirking, no frittering away of odd minutes, a proper and exact apportionment of one's time and talents. It takes character and persistent self-control to effect efficiency, a strict adherence to NOW, not the comfortable procrastination of tomorrow.

The increasing demand for efficiency, voiced at all business conventions, the uncomfortable penalties exacted for ignoring those demands, are proving highly disconcerting to a very large number of people. Indeed, this new and disturbing creed of efficiency is but slowly impressing itself upon the average mind. It has a very small literature as yet; its proponents are not so apt to send forth missionaries throughout the earth, since this precious efficiency gives its wielder so great an advantage over one's competitors. Those practicing it are wont to keep the precious knowledge to themselves, guarded like some valuable secret formula, to be exploited to the legitimate consternation of all rivals. These disciples of efficiency are known by their deeds, not their words. They practice rather than preach. If the rival clerk, the rival firm, the rival city, the rival country prefer their comfortable, old, dilatory methods, so much the better. "Am I my brother's keeper?"

America is the highest exponent of efficiency in the commercial world, but in all other departments we are the most easy-going, unexacting of nations. Our politics, our civil service, our army and navy, our municipalities are largely run on the hit-or-miss principles, an abiding faith in luck and public indifference.

Germany has astonished the world with her efficient military system; it has enabled her to hold nine nations at bay, nine happy-go-lucky, easy-going nations, who have shied at the bugbear of efficiency and postponed the uncomfortable day when they must adopt it or die.

And the British Empire is probably the most inefficient of organizations. It grew almost by itself when efficiency was unknown to the world. The Britisher is enterprising and painstaking enough, his national ideals are right, his capacity as good as the best, but under the specious cry for personal liberty, the demand for unrestraint, he lacks that invincible driving power of efficiency that looks to every leakage, to every precious minute, to every detail, and leaves no loophole for failure.

He is realizing his deficiency all too poignantly now; he perceives with painful observation that, unless he mends his ways, the British Empire cannot stand in a world of efficiency.

But the Britisher is not wholly inefficient. He has managed to create efficiency in some departments of his government. His postoffice is the admiration of the world. It is the one institution of its kind that pays an enormous profit combined with cheap service. He is proud of his postoffice, but his fatal go-easy ways have been content to let the postoffice efficiency cover a multitude of sins, its profits lulled him into comfortable security on the matter of free trade, for it paid so much revenue to the government that further tariffs "for revenue only" seemed unnecessary.

But now he is learning, to his bitter cost, that one item of efficiency does not make an efficient empire, that had he but profited by the experience of that branch of his government he would have immeasurably lessened his anxieties today.

But the creed of efficiency is a hard one. Constant vigilance makes wearying demands on the character. Time is the very essence of efficiency. It is said of a certain large employer that he refused some visitors permission to go through his factory at a certain time of day on this ground: "I have 600 girls at work just now and we are very busy. If you went through, every girl would look up at you and lose at least half a minute. Six hundred half-minutes means five hours. Very sorry, but we can't afford to lose five hours today."

This may be going too far. But supposing you work an eight-hour day. Whenever you waste five minutes you decrease your value 1 per cent. Your stock falls to 99 per cent. If you waste three-quarters of an hour in that time you reduce your stock to 90 per cent. How few of us put in a par day!

Financiers know the value of time. If they borrow $120,000 at 5 per cent. a day before they need it, they have wasted $20. A little inefficiency of that kind makes all the difference between profit and loss.

Men are more efficient than women; their traditions have demanded it of them. But women take to detail and efficiency like a duck to water with a little training. There is still a fearful preponderance of women who are incapable of being on time, incapable of even sewing a button on correctly opposite the buttonhole. But they are passing. Slowly but surely the creed of efficiency is taking hold of women.

Great Britain has been amazed at the efficiency of her women in this crisis. While the men have been muddling the government, the women have been bringing order out of chaos in the civil life of the country. Banks that have never admitted a woman to their service before are loud in their praise of the women they were compelled to employ with so much reluctance.

If the god of efficiency is to rule the world—and it looks that way, for good or ill—watch out for the women!

Convenient German Language.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] Diplomatic word mongers in Washington City who understand German say that the adjective "idiotic," used by Capt. Papen in his "idiotic Yankees" letter to his wife, is in German "bloedsinning," which could be more properly translated "dull-witted," "boneheaded," or "feeble-minded." If either of these three is what Capt. Papen really meant, and not "idiotic," his apology will of course be accepted.

The Poor Neglected.

[Baltimore American:] With the cost of war $2,000,000 an hour the belligerents might lessen the demands upon charitable America by stopping a few hours and giving the savings to their own poor.

BOHEMIAN SAN FRANCISCO

A Song of Joy from the City of the Big Fair.

BY J. R.

A LARGE part of the pictures[illegible] animation of San Francisco, [illegible] everyone knows who has [illegible] there, is the cafe life. You can [illegible] all the new places, clinging close [illegible] the skirts of the St. Francis, with[illegible] either assistance or warning, and [illegible] waring might be appreciated some[illegible] times when your bank account reads [illegible] something like $1.47. But you have [illegible] to stand in with the elect if they [illegible] you about Sanguinnetti's, Gianduja's, [illegible] Locetti's, the Flor D'Italia, Il Trovatore, Felix's, the Bologna, Duncan's, [illegible] Bank Exchange and the Manger. And [illegible] you may go to any of these with perfect safety on an above bank balance. The "trail of the tourist," the old timer will tell you, is over them all, but you will find nights when you'll believe you are the only tourist there, and soon you won't even know yourself as one.

At the Flor O'Italia you may eat downstairs with sons of Italy bibbling "dago red" and bubbling with song, or you may eat upstairs and dance, with anybody you like, to your heart's content, or you may have a private dining-room and see no one at all, but hear it all, and wherever you eat you will have a good dinner.

But just across the street, if you're not squeamish about walking by rows of glasses reflected in a mirror, you can get just as good a dinner at the Bologna for half the money; in fact, the spaghetti will be better, but the "pot juice" not so good. If you want to pay a little more than at either place you can get all the trimmings, including chicken livers in little pie-crust cradles, at Gianduja's. (You may call him "John Ducky" if you're not—well, not a highbrow, if you are, you will say "Zhan-du-zhah.") If you're fond of the banjo and old-time darkies, if you ever lived in the South back in the days of the old "East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia" railway (they call it the "Southern" now,) you'll think you're back there on your wedding trip, maybe, if you drop into Steve Sanguinetti's some Saturday night and hear that big, fat mulatto thumping the banjo, improvising a song and calling all the stations from "Nawhawk" to "Jacksongville." You are likely to hear and see many other things as well, from a perfectly good hair-pulling, bust-them-over-the-head-with-a-bottle fight between two women, to a lyric tenor singing a hymn.

But if you are a woman and respectable (I take it that you are, reading this journal,) you will never be inside of Duncan's Bank Exchange unless a newspaper reporter or the president of the Bohemian Club takes you; the conservatism of the male members of your family would not stand for it, for there they neither dance nor sing, neither do they eat or cash drafts. But go, punch [illegible] times and tell your middle name. [illegible]'s a taxi stand near the corner. The manger sounds biblical. Surely there would be no objections to your going there. And it has all the scenic effects, too, with a trough and a hitching post outside, where you can [illegible] puritanical principles, if you so desire. A cow bell rings as you open the door and you see before you a ladder-like stair up, which you must climb to reach the loft above where the first thing that greets you is a hayrick. You do not have to eat the hay, however, nor the fodder stacked in the corner, nor the strings of red pepper hanging from the overhead beams, nor do you have to wait for the setting hen on the nest to provide you with the chicken that you will surely get. But you may play with the live pigeons strutting about and may stroke with perfect safety animals sticking their heads out of stalls. They are stuffed. So will [illegible] be also by the time you leave. They will serve you with asparagus [illegible] It will be stewed. But it is not [illegible] to carry similes, or anything too [illegible] At the manger you may scrape [illegible] feet in the sawdust under the [illegible] you may scrape someboy else's [illegible] too, but they won't mind. You can eat your dinner in twenty or thirty minutes if you like and get out, or you may sit for six hours between [illegible] artichoke salad and your apples [illegible] cheese, blowing your breath at the candle, it's used to it, and, if it should happen to go out, there's a tinny, tin lantern up overhead hanging by a harness strap. But you should [illegible] the candle, it is the chief [illegible] of the place.

There is an upright, unhewn beam [illegible] a stand it burns—a crimson [illegible] There a thousand other candles for a thousand and one nights [illegible] burned, leaving their waxen [illegible] in rose-colored stalactites that [illegible] the candle stick. There you [illegible] sit and watch the dripping wax, thinking of all the other nights with [illegible] lights and loves and laughter [illegible] flowed and flared and flickered [illegible] the flame. And, if you have, as [illegible] such celebrities in your party [illegible] Edwin Markham, and Herman [illegible] Bonnini, the proprietor [illegible] bring you the guest book and [illegible] all the big, important names [illegible] been signed, maybe you yourself [illegible] in some lines like these:

thousand nights the crimson [illegible]
candle burned; thousand perfumed nights, and [illegible]
from its breast
black-red drops that wrote in [illegible]
hieroglyph
the hopes that longing eyes to eyes [illegible] confessed.

[illegible] when a thousand nights and one [illegible] were come
we, too, beneath the candle's magic [illegible] spell
[illegible] life and love and passion pass and [illegible]
smile
With rosy greetings and a dim farewell.

[illegible] when for me life's candle shall [illegible]
wax old
And joy's mad flame no more shall [illegible]
burn for me
[illegible] on my heart let tracery be [illegible] found
Of this one care-free night, spent [illegible] merrily.

[illegible] you who'll watch this flame in [illegible] nights to come
And drink, as I drink now, life's [illegible] richest wine
[illegible] back spirit hand-clasp 'cross [illegible]
the board.
And wish you here the joy that [illegible]
now is mine!

No small part of the joy of the [illegible] came from Markham's reading [illegible] bones of John Sherman turn [illegible] the grave at Mansfield. Who would have thought that Democratic [illegible] would go to such an extent?

And then while a Los Angeles writer [illegible] a yarn, just to let them know [illegible] their sister city, like the woman [illegible] story could say: "I, too, have been idle." Markham and a min- [illegible] man became embroiled in a heated [illegible] over the merits of a publica- [illegible] and the morals of its publisher.

But you should have the candle, it is the chief ornament of the place.

There is an upright, unhewn beam that will stand it, burns—a crimson candle. There a thousand other candles for a thousand and one nights have burned, leaving their waxen tears in rose-colored stalactites that hang from the candle stick. There you may sit and watch the dripping wax, and of all the other nights with their lights and loves and laughter when flowed and flared and flickered and died the flame. And, if you have, as have, such celebrities in your party as Irwin Markham, and Herman Scheer, Bonnini, the proprietor will bring you the guest book and show you all the big, important names that have been signed, maybe you yourself will see in some lines like these:

"A thousand nights the crimson candle burned;
A thousand perfumed nights, and then its breast
Took-red drops that wrote in hieroglyph
The hopes that longing eyes to eyes confessed.

"But when a thousand nights and one have come
And gone, beneath the candle's magic dome
Of love and love and passion pass and pain
And rosy greetings and a dim farewell,

"Then for me life's candle shall burn old
And joy's mad flame no more shall burn for me
But in my heart let tracery be found
Of this one care-free night, spent merrily.

"You who'll watch this flame in days to come
Will drink, as I drink now, life's purest wine
And black spirit hand-clasp 'cross the board.
And wish you here the joy that now is mine!"

A small part of the joy of the evening came from Markham's reading of "Virgilia" and other poems, for when he had finished, so close to Parnassus did we feel, it seemed an easy thing to make fair ways for the feet of men.

Then while a Los Angeles writer wrote a yarn, just to let them know in their sister city, like the woman in the story could say: "I, too, have lived life," Markham and a minority became embroiled in a heated argument over the merits of a publication and the morals of its publisher.

The increasing warmth of this discussion was much more amusing to a little party of tourists at a side table than to our own crowd, a party of ten occupying the big table down the center of the barn.

It is hard to say just what might have happened had not the Los Angeles man hailed across the stormy sea to the tourists and taken them on board as ballast. How could we go on arguing then over "White Hyacynths"? Our stranger friends might have told us it was not planting season!

Sometime in the course of the evening (or morning, it doesn't matter) after an affair of this kind, every one starts for home. No one requires a taxi. An owl jitney does just as well, for the "D" cars do stop running sometimes. (No, gentle proof-reader, that is not swearing. When you have learned that a "D" car with a blue sign will take you to the Zone entrance but one with a red sign will switch you off at Union and bring you up at the Scott-street gate, where the gateman will look very suspiciously at your press-pass; when you learn that a "C" car will let you in on Golden Gate Park, and that the Lord only knows where the "H" cars go, you will have acquired more alphabetical information than even you thought it possible to possess.)

And then there is breakfast. People in San Francisco do eat breakfast! Sometimes at 2 a.m., but more frequently at 1 p.m., and at either hour Coffee Dan's bacon and eggs will be equally good eaten right out of the skillet in which they were cooked.

But let no one imagine that eating is the chief aim and end of life in San Francisco; eating is just a little side issue, the real object of it all is to—but go and find out for yourself.

IN THE FOG.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

Early on election morn there was an immense fog out our way. It blew in from the ocean during the night and for a time was all-pervading and impressive. It lifted early in the day, but it still clung to the election booths and in some cases had to be shoveled out. I have never seen so much fog at an election. Everybody seemed to be in it.

When I sang out my number and asked for my ballot the courteous judge of election handed me what looked very much like a piece of fog. Pointing toward the election booth he remarked: "Take it in there and mark and return it."

It was as opaque as a midnight scene in the Mammoth Cave. I thought there were a couple of fat men in the place already so I said: "But that one seems to be occupied."

"Not so," explained the judge. "Only fog. Get on the other side and push it out."

So I crowded into the booth and leaned against the fog to examine my ballot. As I was studying it the fog pushed its way between me and the sheet and I could hardly tell which was which. Then I had to bite a hole in the fog to enable me to reach through and get the deadly rubber stamp. When I got possession of it I made several vigorous jabs at where I supposed the "No" column to be and finally fought my way through the fog and met the election officials once more.

The judge looked dubiously at my offering and exclaimed: "I guess you have made a mistake. You have gone and stamped the fog instead of your ballot. I don't blame you," he added, "and I think we have stuffed two or three pieces of fog in the ballot box already."

"What can you do about it?" inquired I.

"Well," explained the judge, "if we can tell the intention of the voter by studying the fog we will have to count it."

"But supposing the fog melts before the ballots are counted," persisted I.

"Let us pray that it does," said the judge, piously.

"Don't blame me for my part," said I. "I haven't voted for two weeks and I suppose I am getting somewhat rusty."

"Oh, that's all right," answered the judge. "We discovered it in time. You just take hold of the other side of this fog and we'll set it out in front while we try and find your ballot."

The lady clerk of the board lifted her skirt and stepped to one side as we pushed the fog through the door. "There," exclaimed the judge with relief. "The voters can sit on that and clear their minds while they await their turn."

The citizens were, in fact, very much befogged. In the first place the administration tried to fuddle them as much as possible concerning its plans and intents. Then the Legislature played the role of the cuttlefish and kicked up a cloud so that the voters could not see to get at them with a rubber stamp. Furthermore, the explanatory literature which was fed by mail to the citizenry was about as clear and coherent as one of the Chaldean tablets. I will give two million pesos in Mexican money to the Little Rollo who can recite the contents of that marvelous pamphlet to voters or to the full-fledged citizen who has digestfully perused it all. They even had to have four different proofreaders on it as no one man would stick to the full score.

It was fog, fog, fog, all along the line.

Just before going to the polls I had received my tax notices and they seemed to conform to the general programme of fog. They showed me how the persistent officials had increased the assessed valuation of my property without my being aware of it and how there was otherwise a boost of about 40 per cent. in the State and county budget.

"The tax gatherers are like cascarets," remarked I to a fellow-sufferer. "They work while we sleep. The poor devils must need the money." "They do that," he admitted.

I found that there were possibly four propositions on the ballot that might mean much more money for the administration, the Legislature, or their creatures. Maybe there were more. I couldn't tell for the fog.

"How did you vote?" inquired a neighbor as I finally emerged from the gloom of the booth into the glory of the day.

"Simplest thing you ever knew," replied I. "I voted for the free and unlimited coinage of fog and also for a high protective fog that will equal the difference between the independent fog of America and the cheap pauper fog of London."

"Since he fell out of that eucalyptus tree he has never been right," I heard my friend whisper to another neighbor.

"Yes," said the other, "It's hell what kola will do with some people."

But it was the fog.

nia and aid greatly in keeping business steady and holding up the value of investments. The Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company will be glad to aid in this matter to the extent of $1000."

In addition to this subscription the Automobile Club of Southern California reported $40 in its free-will offering from motorists. These subscriptions were the first fruits of President Fred L. Baker's plan to have every one of Southern California's 80,000 automobile owners subscribe at least $1.

The contributors to the Automobile Club's funds were: J. B. Alexander, $25; C. H. Plummer, $5; Charles Forman, $5; S. M. Cooper, $3; R. B. Campbell, $1, and an anonymous subscriber, $1.

With these subscriptions the total of all subscriptions, both to the cash and guarantee funds, is now $36,195.

"We assume that all our public-spirited citizens," said letters sent to committeemen yesterday by Chairman Goodwin and Secretary Hutson, "will work to the end that we show our sister city that when our support is needed it is quickly and cheerfully given."

The committee also issued notices yesterday that subscription checks should be made payable to "The San Diego Exposition Committee," and that the headquarters' telephone numbers are Main 218 and A5884.

PULLS WILSON OUT OF HOLE?

OPENING IMPERIAL LANDS MAY SOLVE VEXING PROBLEM.

Authority on Settlers' Difficulties Believes Squatters Who Have Made Their Homes and Improvements in Reopened District will Have Rights Confirmed.

To one not accustomed to sitting at the feet of Gamaliel, the law-giver, it appears that some Solomon in the Interior Department had relieved the Wilson administration of a very embarrassing situation, in the opening of the Yuma irrigation lands in Imperial county to public settlement and entry.

Ever since the first "sooner" squatted on the withdrawn land, the question as to what was to be the status of that class of settlers when the area was restored to entry has been uppermost. It was acknowledged that under the law they were not entitled to make settlement within the prescribed district, but it was argued from what was twisted into an excathedra statement of land officials, aided and abetted by persons who were interested financially in inducing settlers to go there, that some way would be found to protect the rights of the people who in defiance of the law had made homes on this land.

Delegations have been sent to Washington to present the side of the settlers; attorneys have journeyed at the expense of the ranchers to the national capital to offer a solution of the problem that involved their clients remaining on the land, and in the last Congressional campaign, Congressman Kettner made a hit by traveling through the Imperial Valley and proclaiming that if he was re-elected he would see to it that the alleged intruders were protected in their fancied rights.

It is believed that, during the recent visit of Clay Tallman, Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied by Congressman Kettner, to the Imperial Valley, the plan appearing in the official circular containing the signature of the land officials at Washington was agreed to. If so, it must be admitted that a solution has been arrived at that will relieve the land department of a great deal of trouble and assist Kettner in making good his promise to the settlers.

One of the best known public land authorities yesterday indicated that the settlers who up to this time have been considered interlopers and intruders on the Yuma irrigation lands will be confirmed in their rights without any litigation. The point is made that the squatters already being in possession, and no notice having been given to the general public of the restoration of these lands to public entry, their rights, although initiated on a trespass, become valid on the instant of the restoration of the land to settlement.

The equities of these settlers, it is argued, are protected by the fact that at the hour the land was open to public settlement they were already on the ground, and had made improvements that place the value of the land all the way from $25 to $75 an acre.

There can be no question of the squatters' priority of settlement, the only point being whether they could be penalized for going on the land in defiance of law after it had been withdrawn from all forms of settlement by President Taft in April, 1909.

In any event it will be interesting to note whether the administration has been pulled out of a very deep hole by some clever thinker in the General Land Office at Washington.

Keeping up with Demand.

[World's Work:] The fastest machine devised for making pies is operated by a foreman and six assistants, and will turn out 1800 pies an hour. The machine is provided with eighteen revolving pie holders, which move around an oblong table, or platform; two crust rollers, one for the lower and the other for the upper crust; a set of four automatic moistening brushes and a pie-trimming wheel. The six operators of the machine place the crusts, fill the pies and remove them from the table when the operation of moistening and trimming has been automatically completed.

FACTS ABOUT TWINS.

They are Not so Common in Warm as in Cold Countries, and the Tendency Runs in Families.

[London Tit-Bits:] Take 900 average babies. There will be ten pairs of twins among them.

This remark applies to England and the United States. In Italy or Brazil the proportion of twins would be much less. For some reason that nobody knows, infants in duplicate are not nearly so common in warm latitudes as in cold countries. Relatively to population, twins come into the world in Russia three times as often as in Spain.

The tendency to produce more than one child at a birth runs in families. It is handed down from mother to daughter. If the former has given birth to one or more sets of twins, the latter is rather likely to do the same thing.

Triplets in the United States occur once in every 7910 births. One in every 371,125 births the proud—or perhaps indignant father—is informed that his family has been suddenly augmented by four simultaneous offspring. There are in medical history authentic records of twenty-nine instances in which quintriplets have been born.

Where mere pairs of babies are concerned, they are of the same sex in two out of three cases. "Identical twins," however, are always of the same sex, whether boys or girls.

Physiologists differ as to the reason why of identical twins. They are undeniably different from ordinary ones, being in effect one person in duplicate, and sharing, as it were, a single identity. The same mental, moral and physical attributes are common to both. It is as if they were halves of one and the same individual.

Ordinary twins usually resemble each other markedly. It is the identical twins (among the rarest of human phenomena) who can hardly be "told apart." But the most remarkable thing about them is the close moral sympathy that usually exists between them—a sympathy so intense that (unless a vast amount of seemingly reliable testimony on the subject be deemed unworthy of belief) one of them may even receive a subconscious impression of an untoward happening to the other, though a great distance separate them at the time.

This curious and unexplained fact in human psychology furnishes the motif for the elder Dumas's fascinating story of the "Corsican Brothers"—themselves identical twins—one of whom, at the moment of his brother's death in a duel, is made aware of the occurrence by a vision, being thereby inspired to avenge the killing.

It is claimed by some medical authorities that "coalesced twins"—as doctors call them—such as Chang and Eng, the famous Siamese Twins, are examples of identical twins that have failed to achieve complete separation from each other. Nature at the start meant them to be one individual. Through some freak of physiologic accident, they failed to be quite two.

In their day, the Siamese Twins were enormously advertised, and, through publicity, earned a fortune. But the phenomenon which they represented is by no means so rare as is popularly supposed. "Coalesced twins" are, it is true, happily infrequent; but to medical men they are by no means unfamiliar, the best consolation in regard to them being that in nearly all instances they die in early infancy.

California Oil Displaces Coal.

[Geological Survey Press Bulletin:] Owing to the great output of petroleum in California and its use as a manufacturing, railroad and steamer fuel, the production of coal in Washington has been considerably reduced during recent years. It is estimated that the consumption of California oil for fuel on the Pacific Coast is equivalent to about 21,000,000 tons of coal, or between six and seven times the output of coal in Washington, or for that matter, in all the Pacific Coast States combined, in 1914.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo. — "I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

MOVEMENTS IN SOCIETY.

MRS. CLARK ROSS MAHAN formally announces the engagement of her daughter, Marcella Margaret, to Pascal Henry Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar D. Bennett, of No. 15 Chester place.

That this charming member of the younger smart set is to become a bride will cause a flutter of excitement among her legions of friends, the prominence of both the bride-elect's and groom's families making the approaching wedding one of paramount interest in society. The date for the event is not yet entrusted outside the confines of the home, though the nuptials will undoubtedly be one of the largest weddings of the coming winter.

Charming Hostess.

Mrs. Frank H. Moon has recently been entertaining her son, Leslie, and his charming bride at her Los Angeles residence, No. 2255 West Adams, the happy newly-weds having returned to their Coronado home on Monday evening. Just now the young couple are blissfully occupied in completing the furnishings in their pretty new nest of a home down on the peninsula preparatory to entering upon a social season of gayety, especially during the height of the polo season.

Mrs. Moon's daughter, Mrs. Claus Spreckels, and Mr. Spreckels are coming up later in the week for a visit, the happy arrangement having been made a frequent possibility since Mrs. Moon's wise decision to have a home so convenient to her children and midway to her former home, San Jose. Mrs. Moon, quite as pretty as her daughter and quite as vivacious as her grand babies, is proving a valuable addition to our city's social smart set.

Mrs. Moon will share honors with Mrs. William D. Stephens, wife of our Congressman, at a bridge breakfast which Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth is giving on November 6. Mrs. Hollingsworth is contemplating a series of affairs for the early autumn, but it is most fitting she should compliment at her initial function two very near friends, one of whom leaves 'ere long for Washington and the other a recent charming acquisition whom all society welcomes to the City of the Angels.

Tonight, it will be recalled, is the date of the de luxe social event at the club—the Mayor of Rowansburg, Franklin M. Houser, and his "cabinet" holding the annual dinner-dance.

Therefore, society will find the handsome club home the mecca for many brilliant affairs. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Washington Kohler are having one of the largest parties, having planned it in compliment to Capt. and Mrs. Harmon Ryus, who are leaving shortly to spend at least the winter in San Francisco. Bidden are Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lippincott, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Burdick, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin B. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. John Gilman Blythstone, Dr. Alter, Ralph Gage, Mr. and Mrs. Brothers. Halloween decorations will dominate the pretty board, pumpkins, witches and yellow chrysanthemums featuring into the motif.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth have a niece visiting them just now, Miss Ethelyn McGhee, of St. Joseph, Miss., in whose honor they will give a merry dinner party at the Los Angeles Athletic Club to night. Mrs. Moon is also to be a special guest, others at table numbering Miss Florence Somers, Messrs. Robert Somers, Scott Charles Nichols of San Francisco and the hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Ranger, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Elmer Weatherholt, Mr. and Mrs. N. James Cordary, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Levee, Mr. and Mrs. A. Witzel, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Richards are to form another attractive company of diners.

Still others who have invited guests number in their personnel Dr. and Mrs. Edward Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Seeley who will be hosts to Mr. and Mrs. A. Lester Best; Thomas R. Lamb, who will entertain eight; Hollis M. Wade and party of eight; J. Harry Pieper and six; Mr. and Mrs. Dana C. King and four; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Leo P. Bergin, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Arnott and four; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Heath and Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow; Alfred J. and Mrs. Bayer, who have invited six friends; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitman, Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Justice and six; Mr. and Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Howard and four; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wheat will also preside over a table, having bidden four.

Nuptials.

A pretty romance was culminated in the rose room of the Hotel Alexandria Sunday evening when Miss Edith Stein, daughter of Mrs. Anna Stein, of No. 737 South Westlake street, became the bride of William Klatscher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klatscher, of West Pico, an assemblage of some twenty immediate relatives being privileged to witness the nuptial ceremony. Rabbi Sigmund Hecht was officiant.

The bride was attractively gowned in white satin with filmy bouffant draperies of white tulle, an heirloom of handsome lace which had been handed down in her mother's family, being draped in the coiffure with a coronet of rosebuds and lilies of the valley and falling to the hem of her skirt in rich folds. Her shower bouquet was also of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fronds. The principals were unattended, standing during the reading of the service under a canopy of ferns and palms—an effective improvised altar of greenery.

An elaborate dinner was served the party, Mr. Klatscher and his wife leaving later in the groom's motor car for their honeymoon trip, the destination of which was not told. They are to be at home at the Weymouth after the fifteenth of November.

The courtship was pronouncedly short, the happy couple having met but a few weeks before the bethrothal was announced, just as Miss Stein was leaving for San Francisco to visit friends. Mr. Klatscher followed her to the Jewel City and they became affianced in the Bay City, returning to have the bride-elect's mother make formal announcement of the news. Then there was an at home, attended by over 200 guests, who caller to extend felicitations, the marriage following soon after.

Enjoys Outing.

Mrs. W. F. Kennedy, the popular singer, is spending a few weeks at San Jacinto Springs.

Mrs. Lena de Groff, Miss A. B. Vanderbilt and Mr. Oliver J. Vanderbilt, of Sitka, Alaska, have arrived at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where they expect to remain for the winter months.

Sight-seeing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Patterson, of Portland, have taken an apartment at the Ivins while in Los Angeles, and are touring about our Southland enjoying the many scenic points of beauty, incidental to viewing the expositions.

Renew Former Voyage.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Osborne entertained at a dinner of exquisite appointments last Saturday evening, having for guests a number of people who traveled around the world in company less than two years ago. A miniature model of the boat of which they embarked—the Nordeutscher Lloyd Bremen—made of Enchantress carnations, and lighted with twinkling electric bulbs, furnished the unique motif for the central decoration, the double decks being manned by tiny dolls, who were apparently making a landing in a placid harbor (a mirrored body of water.) The place cards were hand-done views of the same boat which took them first to the Orient and later home by New York, and even to the confections and ices done in ship molds was the former happy voyage suggestively recalled. Privileged to attend were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hills and son, Gerald, of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs J. Walter Scott of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Rector, Miss Wilhelmina Rector, Mr. and Mrs. George Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Bullfinch, Miss Mildred Bullfinch, Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn, Miss Griergson and Miss Lillian Griergson of Chicago.

For Friday.

Mrs. L. E. Ford has bidden guests for a luncheon, the pleasurably anticipated event to be given Friday.

Mrs. Crandall to Entertain.

At her home at No. 423 South Manhattan place, Mrs. Jaspar E. Crandall will be a luncheon hostess Saturday.

Complimenting Mrs. Clark.

The Misses Dent of Wilshire boulevard entertained yesterday with Mrs. Joseph Wilbur Clark of San Francisco a special guest of honor. Mrs. Clark is a sister of Mrs. William Cline of Howell Terrace, the latter having issued invitations for a bridge party in compliment to her house guest for tomorrow at the Hotel Alexandria.

Mrs. Witzel Hostess.

A recent pretty social event was given by Mrs. A. Witzel in the form of a luncheon last Friday, covers being laid for Mrs. Turner Elmer Weatherholt, Mrs. Mike Levee, Mrs. N. James Cordary, Mrs. Rea Cowan, Mrs. Walter V. Pomeroy, Mrs. Donald Keeler, Mrs. Harry Williams, Mrs. Roy Loomis, Mrs. Frank B. Ranger, Mrs. Frank Richards, Mrs. W. J. Pierson and the hostess. The table was exquisite in pale yellows, having a floral center of stately "mums," accentuated with tapers burning 'neath shades of the same soft shade, and tulle streamers.

For the Near Future.

Mrs. Frank B. Ranger has in the planning a dance which she will contribute to the social calendar about the middle of November. It will be given at her home on Oxford avenue.

In Honor of Mrs. Clark.

The George H. Rectors are giving a yachting party next Sunday in compliment to Mrs. William Cline's house guest and sister, Mrs. Joseph Wilbur Clark, of San Francisco.

YOUTHS ROB CARMEN.

Two Excited Bandits Operate at End of Laurel Canyon Line — Get Nine Dollars.

Armed with revolvers, but unmasked, two men early last night held up and robbed Conductor A. F. Hagerman and Motorman T. A. Day, in charge of Pacific Electric Laurel Canyon car No. 486, as they stood beside the coach at the end of the line. The bandits took $9 in small change.

According to Conductor Hagerman, the robbers stepped from some brush and ordered the car men to throw up their hands. While one of the bandits kept them covered the other searched them.

Both robbers were very young and appeared excited. They were well dressed and wore heavy overcoats.

AT THE THEATERS.

Pantages.

The Pantages bill would be a triumph of professional mediocrity, if it were not for the young violinist who runs away with all the real "class" of the show. He is Morris Stoloff, already a wizard with his bow, although he is hardly out of high school. In the "Scherzo" number particularly he shows a brilliancy of execution that promises him a fine future.

While the programme implies that "Little Miss U.S.A." has a book and lyrics and even music, outward indications hardly support the hope. The saving light is Robert Millikin as Nally Nutty, who emerges in majestic absurdness from the foggy mist of the sketch.

Kipling says something about "the sin that they do by two and two." Well, the rest of the programme is mostly by two and two. The music hall dancers from the land of chili peppers and crocodiles give South American dances, with the doubtful aid of many scenic effects, and two husky little acrobatic balancers thrill with an opening appetizer; two other comedians patter in black and white. A brother-and-sister patter act, Lady Betty with the usual chimpanzee tricks, and "Neal of the Navy" with the usual melodramatic thrills, fill out the bill.

Hippodrome.

The Halloween bill at the Hip is proving very attractive this week.

"The Toymaker," with Queenie Williams as the prize doll, is making a hit. The piece is a musical comedy tabloid, with good settings, pretty music and effective comedy.

"A Venetian Serenade," with three male singers and instrumentalists, is another feature of the bill, which is getting a good share of applause.

Betty Stokes, the girl with the smile, is another charming musical contributor who uses a pleasing personality and a chic wardrobe to enhance a really delightful voice.

Others who please are the Bounding Eattersons in their "trampoline" act, and Belding and Snyder, the two clever Los Angeles boys who were here about six months ago, besides Stansfield, Hall and Lorraine in a farce entitled "A Quiet Woman."

Cline's Broadway.

"The Ivory Snuff Box," a detective story with thrills, is the offering at Cline's Broadway this week.

Holbrook Blinn, the noted acter, plays the role of "Duval," the American detective, who is given the assignment of recovering an ivory snuff box stolen from the French ambassador. Of course, the snuff box carries an important international political message.

The Pathe pictures are unusually interesting.

Cline's Auditorium.

Sarah Bernhardt in films, showing her in her beautiful home in France, is the feature of the bill at Cline's Auditorium this week. The picture opens with the arrival of Mme. Bernhardt at her home one month after the recent operation, when her limb was amputated. She is seen entertaining, making the rounds of her estate and ministering to the peasants. Mme. Bernhardt, in spite of the fact that she is past 70, makes a wonderful impression of youth in the picturers.

Carter de Haven and Flora Carter de Haven are making a big hit in "The College Orphan," an amusing film farce, in which the hero gets into all sorts of comical mixups. Mr. de Haven proves himself a clever film actor.

TOGETHER LET US GO

Downtown to Inspect Olive Gray and Other Exquisite Tints; also Things Chic and Charming.

Now is the time to buy:

Parsnips which have just come into the market. They are delicious when boiled until tender and sauted in fat or its substitute. These vegetables are always associated with cold weather and in our climate we like to pretend that winter is approaching.

New apple cider which has just arrived in the market. Either as a beverage or to use in making the first mince pies, this liquid is excellent.

Practical Suggestion.

The Good Housekeeper has done away with corners in an original way. She filled the floor corners next to the mopboard with putty which she moulded into concave shape and then stained it to match the floors. Thus has she circumvented dust which, as every good housekeeper knows, has a way of hiding in floor corners.

Dee-lightful.

Is it not jolly to have some place to stop when downtown and wishing to loaf for an hour? I mean, of course, the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show. I wish it were perpetual, don't you? How we have needed such a place! And really, one may spend hours and hours and visit it again and again and always find new delight. Then it is such a charming place to visit with one's friends.

Motory.

Just a few doors from—or rather I should say just a few windows from—the Automobile Show, there is a wondrous exhibition of motoring togs. Have you noticed it? It is in that big store farther up Broadway. The tasteful arrangement of the window adds effectiveness to the motoring accessories for cars, such as hampers, motor kits, robes and wearing apparel —coats, hats, veils, gloves for both men and women. One feels like selecting one's apparel to match the car which one has chosen from the exhibition of cars. In fact the upper end of Broadway has gone motory to a degree this week. Motor cars on exhibition and the streets crowded with private cars of those seeking admission to the great show, and, in fact, the mote in every eye is motor, just at present.

Enamelled Sets.

Pretty giftie sets consisting of tatting shuttle, crochet hook and one or two other useful implements for feminine fingers, come in dainty enamel of the favorite color, all neatly boxed for giving.

More Flowery.

I would be willing to wager that next season flower growing would be multiplied many times, owing to the Broadway Flower Show. It is inspiring to see success and it is bound to stimulate competition. I wish the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show could become an institution—something for people to look forward to each year. Why not make it such?

For the Corner.

Have you seen that new reedcrafty chair for the corner? It is one of the snuggeriest, comfiest chairs possible to imagine. It is of graceful design, too, as are all of the articles manufactured by the establishment which has so wide a reputation for craftiness in reed. Even if one could not afford a whole room of this artistic furniture, just a single piece would add both distinction and comfort. Not a nail is used in making this wondrously fine furniture; and yet it is made to everlast.

For Magazines.

Well made, solid oak magazine racks for so little that you could not afford to "take a box" and make them yourself, even if you had the tools, will surely tempt those who like to keep their magazines and books in orderly rows. Yes, right now, when everyone is preparing for the long, reading evenings. That big store on lower Broadway.

Those Awful Faces!

One of the girls is adding every day now to the collection of masks from which she is forming a frieze around her room. This season there are such odd and funny ones—for Halloween—and some so awful that they are really interesting, that she says she finds mask hunting more fascinating than ever. There are those black, black cat faces, with glowing eyes, and those deathly skulls, and the bats and owls, and a number of new human faces which will add to the allure of that wondrous frieze. Some of the masks in the collection are those which have been worn upon jolly occasions, the memory of which it is pleasant to revive, and others are just deliberate purchases for the frieze. I think it an interesting fad, don't you?

Perfume Bottles Plus.

Have you noticed those cases of popular perfumes—a row of six little bottles in a neat covered box? The perfumes are good and the bottles in their case are just the thing to use as traveling cases to hold the small amount of peroxide, camphor, witch-hazel, and other useful liquids which one needs upon almost any trip and which are cumbersome if carried in the usual larger bottles. These small perfume cases are safe and convenient and the bottles hold enough for emergency use.

Unique!

In that exclusive apparel shop which is noted for the so-differentness of its motoring coats, there is an especial display of these garments, in deference to the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show.

It is the rule of this interesting shop to bring in but a single example of a mode, which thus insures that the woman who secures the garment will never see a duplicate of herself alighting from a motor car or upon the promenade. This exclusiveness is worth more than the price of the garment.

Velvet Gyps.

It was bound to come, with the season's vogue for velvet suits and cloaks, hats and even hand-bags — I mean velvet boots and of course they had to be in the Gypsy cut. The newest ones of this sort are charming to complete the velvet costume. Thus far I have seen them only in black, brown and blue. By the way, the Gypsy boot is becoming to the long, narrow foot.

Card Table Concealers?

It may not be with evil intent, but it really does look as though it might be for the purpose of pretending that they were not card tables at all! This might be necessary, if the game under way were one outside the pale of law, but for the harmless game of bridge, would it be worth while to thus dissimulate? I am driving at those card table covers of heavy linen all elaborately embroidered at the corners. Perhaps they are for mere prettiness, and if so, well and good. Anyhow, a set of them would make a welcome Christmas gift for the woman who gives card parties.

"Signature" Handkerchiefs.

If you are anxious to give to someone a really fine Christmas present and one which has the unmistakable touch of individuality, order early some of those "signature" handkerchiefs. Of course you will be obliged to steal her full name—or her pet name—in her own chirography, but if you are clever, you can easily manage this. And if you are not clever you will not appreciate the "signature" handkerchiefs.

The Boot Watch.

Now you will watch your step, I guess! At least if you are so fortunate as to possess one of those boot watches. This charming little timepiece is worn around the top of your boot—wrist-wise. How do you see the time? Well you practice this at home and evolve a way of your very own.

Feminine Fancies.

To the winter dances wear gilt slippers and stockings.

The faille type of silk is very fashionable this season.

Checked woolens are used a good deal with plain velvets.

The most becoming of all the new hats is the sailor shape.

Little folks are wearing clothes fashioned on Russian lines.

Jumper dresses are being received with a good deal of favor.

Velvet handbags are having a little vogue all by themselves.

Sleeves are a most important point of fashion this season.

Big flopping shapes are among the nicest hats for young girls.

Velvet and velveteen will be worn a great deal for evening.

The quiet colors are as much liked in plaids as the gay ones.

A novel waist is of a heavy blue or black net over white chiffon.

Tight little jackets with astrakhan fur are now new-fashioned.

Spanish lace is in high favor — for scarfs as well as trimmings.

OLIVE GRAY.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION.

J. Hamilton Thurston, a dentist of this city, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday. His debts are scheduled as $9470.05, of which $5000 is secured. His assets are valued at $150, all claimed to be exempt.

[Chicago Record:] The act of bathing has usually been looked upon as merely prosaic and necessary, but a few baths have attained fame either because of some incident that took place while the bather was engaged in the act of ablution or for some other circumstance connected with it; while there have been famous baths in fiction, such as the one which Alfred Jingle took after his match with Sir Thomas Tyrrell, after which he "had a bath and went to dinner." Then there was the bath taken by Arthur Pendennis, of whom he treated himself after he had been "men of a low set," and which he scented in order to make its efficacious.

Bathing has been the custom among primitive peoples from the earliest times, and indeed the animal instinct to recognize the necessity of keeping the skins healthy by cleansing them constantly in some way. More Expressions From Men You Know

Regarding the Eight Cylinder Cadillac

OTTO L. ERDT.

Last June I purchased from you a seven-passenger Cadillac "8," and beg to say that I regard this car as one of the finest automobiles made in America. I have driven it about 4000 miles without the slightest trouble of any kind, and I feel when holding the wheel as if I was drawing the reins over a pair of spirited trotters capable of unreeling over all kinds of roads and grades at top speed for an indefinite time. The car seems to be alive as it responds to the lightest touch at a speed of from two miles an hour up to as fast as a man would care to travel. The elimination of gear shifting, its ability to climb hills, and its lack of vibration, are qualities that must be experienced to be appreciated.

I consider myself fortunate to be the owner of a Cadillac "8," the car in a class by itself.

W. J. MARTIN.

Having used my eight-cylinder Cadillac in the taxi business, which a great many would consider the most strenuous test on an automobile, I wish to give you some statistics on the first 10,000 miles of operation:

Purchased car June 7th, 1915.
Gas consumption.....769 gallons
Oil ..... 12 gallons

The original tires being good for many miles yet.

Outside of carburetor adjustment, cleaning spark plugs, and adjustment of brakes, my car has cost me absolutely nothing for repairs, as your records will undoubtedly show.

Having used this car on the worst as well as the best roads that California affords, it is my honest opinion that the eight-cylinder Cadillac has surely reached the height of perfection in the automobile industry.

I think the eight-cylinder Cadillac wonderful in its durability, low and small cost of operation, putting it in a class by itself, in all respects. It has given perfect satisfaction to my customers, making them the greatest of boosters for the eight-cylinder Cadillac.

CHARLES CORBY.

Eleven thousand five hundred miles for business and pleasure over all kinds and conditions of roads in California with one of the original tires still on the front wheel and running well, with the machine itself in perfect condition, is "going some" for the Cadillac that I purchased from you in April last.

There are no doubt higher priced cars on the market, but when ... the Cadillac has responded to every call upon it and has been ... entirely satisfactory from the start, I think automobile users and ... prospective buyers will appreciate what I mean.

Let me congratulate you upon the men you are surrounded with ... your service department which is one of the most efficient and ... courteous I have ever been brought into contact with. With best ... wishes for your continued success.

There are over five hundred owners of eight-cylinder Cadillac cars in Southern California. We will gladly refer any prospective buyer to any or all of our owners, with the perfect confidence that they will all express the sentiment contained in the above. We will furnish names and addresses of any number of owners at any time.

MOVIE QUEENS TO SHINE AT AUTO SHOW TONIGHT

Tonight.

MOVIE STARS CAPTURE SALON.

Broadway Auto and Flower Show Novelty.

Queens of Filmdom Reigning Over Exhibits.

Photoplay Industry Returns Millions.

BY AD G. WADDELL.

Motion Picture Stars' Night is to be celebrated tonight at the great Broadway Automobile and Flower Show. Film queens representing every studio in Southern California are to be present as guests of the exhibitors. The Motion Picture Stars' Night is a distinct novelty, a feature never before heard of in connection with an automobile show any place in the United States.

The motion picture industry turns $30,000,000 annually into the coffers of Southern California. There are more than 5000 persons in Los Angeles and Hollywood supported by the motion picture industry, and the permanent investment in automobiles of the motion picture companies and the players is $2,000,000. In addition $6000 is paid monthly for rental of cars. With the motion picture people buying cars in this territory as they do, it is quite fitting that they should have a night set aside for them at the great automobile salon which has eclipsed the great shows of the large eastern motoring centers.

UNIVERSAL STARS.

There will be a large delegation in from Universal City. Miss Edna Maison is to be Chandler queen tonight. Miss Maison is one of the most talented young women on the screen in America today and her beauty is undisputed.

Miss Myrtle Gonzales of the Universal is to be White queen. Miss Gonzales is a native daughter and one of the most popular Universal stars, as well as one of the daintiest queens of filmdom. Some of the feature productions in which the White queen has starred are "Chalice of Courage," "Troubled Waters," "Captain Alvaros," "Riches" and "Pinnacle of Success," which have not yet been released.

MANY MORE.

Other stars of the Universal who are to appear at the great show are Marie Wallcamp, Dorothy Vernon, Grace Cunard, Ella Hall, the popular queen of Universal City, and many others.

The men of Universal City will be present in great numbers also. Every star on the lot owns an automobile. Many of the directors and players own several cars and a large percentage of the 150 machines owned by the Universal players will be parked on Broadway and Hill streets tonight, while their owners are viewing the attractive exhibits of the greatest automobile show ever staged west of Chicago.

POPULAR PAIR.

The Selig Company will have two prominent stars on hand to grace the show and meet their many friends. Miss Kathelyn Williams, the star of the "Adventures of Kathlyn" and many other wonderful Selig productions, is to be the Packard queen. The "Twin-Six" and Miss Williams will have little difficulty in proving one of the greatest attractions of the evening. Miss Bessie Eyton, also of the Selig Company, is to be the Cadillac queen.

Cleo Ridgley of the Lasky studios is to reign as the Auburn queen and Camile Aster, also a Lasky star, is to be the Stutz queen.

The Balboa Feature Film Company of Long Beach is to be represented by Miss Jackie Saunders, one of the most popular of the younger movie set, who is to be the Reo queen. Miss Ruth Roland of the Balboa was chosen Oldsmobile queen.

PROMINENTLY PRESENT.

Miss Anna Little of the American Film Company of Santa Barbara is to be on hand as the Paige queen.

The Cole queen is to be Miss Bessie Barriscale of the Thos. H. Ince players. Miss Louis Glaum of the Inceville film colony is to be Chevrolet queen. The Mitchell queen is to be Miss Enid Markey of Inceville and Miss Margaret Thompson is to reign over the All Year KisselKars.

As all the motion-picture queens are beautiful dancers, the exhibition dancing will be a great feature of the evening.

Tonight will be moving picture night at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show. Queens of filmdom will be present to grace the show and to greet their various admirers at the various exhibits. They will be surrounded by flowers, special musical numbers will be rendered and additional features will be added.

Movie queens,

Who will be present to receive their many admirers at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show tonight.

Regular Fight.

DUNDEE FORCES RITCHIE TO LIMIT TO GET DRAW.

Italian's Fast Work Early in Bout Puzzles Champion and He Misses Repeatedly—In the Last Few Rounds Willie Gets Going and Gives Johnny a Bad Enough Beating for Even Honors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Willie Ritchie, American lightweight champion, had to extend himself to the limit to get a draw in a speedy, slashing ten-round bout with Johnny Dundee at Madison Square Garden tonight. The bounding Italian's fast work early in the bout puzzled the champion and he missed repeatedly. It was not until the last few rounds that Ritchie got Dundee's measure and then he gave him a severe lacing.

The eighth round was a whirlwind and, while Dundee was dancing rapidly about, his opponent, Ritchie clipped him with a right on the jaw which took the Italian off his feet and shot him against the ropes. Ritchie drove Dundee around the ring under his fierce attack and when on the other side of the arena he again rocked him on the jaw and partly knocked him off his feet.

Both boxers had a big following and when the bout was over there was such a variety of opinions about the fight that the arguments were flying thick and fast. Although, in the last three rounds, Ritchie was decidedly more like the champion boxer that he is, he was plainly at sea against Dundee's freakish boxing early in the bout. In the first five rounds Johnny jabbed him repeatedly on the face and got away, and hammered his body in the clinches.

ABOUT EVEN.

Ritchie easily boxed Dundee's advantage away in the last few rounds and left the honors about even.

The main bout was delayed nearly half an hour because of a wrangle over the $6500 guarantee offered to Ritchie. The crowd was disappointingly small to the management. It was stated that the gate money amounted to less than $7000. After the 7½ per cent. State tax had been deducted and $3500 of the 60 per cent. was taken out for the champion, there was less than $200 left for Dundee.

His manager wanted Ritchie to take $3000 as his share. But Ritchie refused and was about to leave the garden when the full amount was offered him. Dundee's manager had the Boxing Commission weigh the men, as he maintained that Ritchie was more than ten pounds heavier than his opponent, a condition which would prevent the bout.

The boxers were weighed and Ritchie was 141¼ and Dundee 132½, a difference of 8 3-4 pounds.

Dundee began to jab Ritchie at the start and the champion was unable to stave off the Italian's aggressive attack. Dundee ducked and feinted, while Ritchie's only means of landing seemed to be a straight left jab. For the first five rounds Ritchie was unable to land his right on the Italian. Ritchie made a better showing in the second round and his defense was much improved. Dundee, however, landed more frequently.

DUNDEE QUICK.

Ritchie did not wake up until the fifth round, and then the boxers began to slug each other merrily. Both slipped and fell to the ropes, but no damage was done. Dundee was so quick at times that he ran right under Ritchie's extended arms and got out of the way. There was repeated clinching and the referee frequently had to pry the boxers apart.

MANDOT TAKES HARD BEATING.

TED LEWIS FLOORS HIM, THREE TIMES IN TWELVE ROUNDS.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Ted Lewis, the English lightweight, was given the decision over Joe Mandot of New Orleans by a wide margin in twelve rounds in a bout here tonight. Mandot fought gamely, but was knocked down for the count of nine in the first round and was floored again in the tenth and twelfth rounds.

LINDSAY HITTLE GETS AERO PRIZE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Lindsay Hittle of the Illinois Model Aero Club tonight was awarded first prize of $50 in the Aero Club of America's duration from-the-water model hydroaeroplane contest.

The machine remained in the air 116 seconds, breaking the previous record of sixty seconds.

SANTA MONICA ASKS TOO LATE FOR TENNIS MATCH.

SIMPSON SINSABAUGH yesterday put at rest all rumors that the Thanksgiving Day tennis match between Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Molla Bjurstedt might be shifted from the Hotel Virginia courts at Long Beach to the city of Santa Monica.

The Bundy's are residents of Santa Monica and the beach city's Chamber of Commerce suddenly awoke to the fact that the Bundy-Bjurstedt match would be a nice little event for their own dooryard. But too late.

Perhaps Santa Monica will be favored with some sort of an exhibition match, but the play proper will be at Long Beach.

Mrs. Bundy is already at hard practice. She is working out with her sisters, Miss Florence Sutton and Mrs. Bruce and also with Tom Bundy, her husband.

TONER STRONG SHOW BOOSTER.

Too Large to be Local, Says Maxwell Man.

Thinks Factories Ought to Pay Costs.

Only Two Rivals to Great Auto Exhibit.

Mr. T. J. Toner, the writer of this article, is probably THE "big" man of the western automobile world. His dominance of the Maxwell Motor Sales corporation in the territory bounded on the south by Mexico, on the north by Canada, on the east by a line running through Denver, Colo., and on the west by the Orient, gives him a wider scope than any other single individual. He handles 1000 Maxwell automobiles each month. Here are his views on the great automobile salon.

By T. J. Toner, zone supervisor Maxwell Motor Sales Corporation:

The Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is too great, too wide in its scope for the local motor car dealers to handle as a purely local proposition.

By that I do not mean a "slam" at the Los Angeles distributors and dealers.

Far from it. What I mean is that the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is fully as great—in every detail—as any of the national shows.

The Los Angeles show should also be made a national show. It should have the support of the automobile factories behind it. It should be sanctioned along with the country other wonderful annual motor car displays.

TWO EQUALS.

In fact, I would qualify this even more strongly. The Broadway Automobile and Flower Show (or whatever name it is perpetuated by) is equaled by but two other annual shows in the United States. These are the New York and Chicago exhibits.

Last night I was truly amazed. First, the great array of automobiles was surprising. It was more attractive than anything I have seen at shows in Detroit, or Minneapolis, or Atlanta, or Kansas City. The larger shows at Boston and Philadelphia had "nothing on" Los Angeles.

THE CROWDS.

Then, as the evening progressed, came the crowds. It seemed that the line of spectators, every one of them a potential motor car owner, would never end. There was interest everywhere. There was enthusiasm enough to gladden the heart of the most pessimistic automobile dealer who ever swung open the doors of a salesroom for business.

Four days ago I had scarcely heard of the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show. Tomorrow I will be speeding toward Detroit, to the Maxwell factory.

There I will tell the Maxwell organization heads just what I saw. I will open their eyes to the magnitude of what the Los Angeles automobile dealers have accomplished. I will tell them that there is nothing to it—that the Broadway Automobile and Flower show MUST be listed among the great national salons which are of such importance annually.

TOO BIG.

And by saying that the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is too big for the local motor car dealers to confine to Los Angeles, I do not mean that they are not capable of its management. I do not mean that any one but the progressive dealers of Los Angeles should have a single word to say about the management of the show. Perish such a thought. What I DO mean is that the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show is too great to be confined to the local dealers—too magnificent for them to spend their own money on.

The automobile factories should pay every cent of the cost of exhibiting their cars. Let their representatives in Los Angeles control absolutely the way in which this money shall be spent—but it is only right and fair that a show of such magnitude should be national in its scope. It would be truly selfish of the Los Angeles dealers not to permit it to take on the country-wide importance which is its meed.

HOPE TO TROUNCE FOOTHILL MEN BY BIG SCORE NEXT FRIDAY.

Los Angeles Junior College and Hollywood High School have arranged a gridiron contest for Friday afternoon at the foothill ball field. The sole ambition of the Junior College is to lick Hollywood by a worse score than did L. A. High last Friday. It seems that this will be some little job. Several new men are working out with the Junior College and the line-up will suffer quite a shifting before the Hollywood game. Fletcher is now playing center in place of Carpenter, who broke his leg in last week's game with Normal.

TEARS, SIGHS ARE IN ORDER.

The caves of the Cliffdwellers are decorated in black and mournful murmurs proceed from within them. Demon Wood, the star Hilltop halfback, is out of Saturday's game with Pasadena. His place will have to be filled by Capt. Dean Pentz, who has been playing at end.

It seems that Wood has been having trouble with one of his feet and that blood poisoning resulted. Hence the confidence that the Hilltoppers have left would be lost in a thimble. From the talk current around L. A. it seems that all Pasadena has to do to win is to kick the ball off. Wood has not been at school this week, nor has word been received from him, and it is not known how seriously off he is.

AUTO SHOW FEATURES.

Wednesday evening is to be Motion Picture Stars' Night. The leading players of the film industry in Southern California are to be present as guests of the show management.

Thursday is to be celebrated as Organization Day. The exhibitors and their attendants are to stage many special features.

Thursday night is to be Van Nuys night. A large delegation is to attend from Van Nuys.

Friday night is to be College Night. There will be special college features and musical numbers.

Saturday night the show is to be open until midnight. From 10 to 12 p.m. the guests and exhibitors will celebrate the Los Angeles Halloween party.

There is to be free dancing on the fourth floor, adjoining the accessory displays, every night this week, including Saturday night.

Dundee Forces Ritchie.

In the seventh Ritchie became aggressive and his right arm became effective. He had solved Dundee's jumping-jack tactics and hammered him repeatedly on the face and body. In the eighth Ritchie punished the Italian so severely that he cut his mouth and left ear. Dundee, however, refused to be suppressed, and poked Ritchie with his left and hammered his ribs in the clinches.

RITCHIE IMPROVES.

In the ninth and tenth Ritchie showed the style of boxing which made him champion. He struck out straight from the shoulder with his right and left, and his boxing looked superior and finished compared with Dundee's novel style. Both boys were slapping each other hard at the finish.

SHOW CHATTER.

It was reported at the Earle C. Anthony exhibit yesterday on good authority that a Spring-street thirst emporium has christened a new cocktail "The Packard Twin-Six," because, according to the mixer, "it is unequalled for power, smoothness and range of activity."

A dealer from Whittier attended the auto show yesterday, bringing with him three prospects. Before leaving he had closed two deals and the third is still a strong probability.

F. B. Keip, Pacific Coast manager for the Chandler Motor Car Company of Cleveland, was a prominent attendant at the Chandler exhibit at the show yesterday. Mr. Keip is leaving for San Francisco on the Lark tonight after two days at the show which he declares beats anything of the kind he has ever seen. "The floral features are wonderful," said Keip, "and the automobile exhibits are the most attractive at any show I have ever attended."

The booklets describing the wonderful non-stop run of the Chandler Six from Mexico to Canada, which are being distributed at the Chandler exhibit, are in great demand. The writer, Jack Griffin, gives the log of the run from the start until the end of the strenuous run after the car had crossed onto Canadian soil.

R. C. Durant deserted the Chevrolet exhibit yesterday afternoon to make a flying trip to San Diego on business. "Cliff" will return this morning and be on hand in his moonlights when the movie queens begin to cross the lines tonight.

H. J. Connick of Greenville, S. C., arrived at the show yesterday and is making his headquarters at the Chevrolet exhibit. Mr. Connick was formerly Chevrolet district manager in South Carolina and is to become Southern California district manager of agencies.

PRINCETON TITLE WON BY HERRON.

GETS PRESIDENT'S CUP BY DEFEATING W. A. LOWRIE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) Oct. 26.—S. Davidson Herron today won the Princeton golf championship and the President's cup by defeating W. A. Lowrie, 6 up and 5 to play, in the final round. Herron tied the low score in the qualifying round of the recent championship tournament at Detroit.

PAIGE MAN GIVES PRAISE.

"By all means make the Los Angeles show national in its scope. Give the manufacturers a chance to show their appreciation," says John H. A. Campbell, special representative of the Paige Motor Company of Detroit.

"I have been making the show circuit for three years. Los Angeles has an exhibit which surpassed all but New York and Chicago. In interest, attendance and appointments generally it is without a superior.

"The eastern manufacturers have never realized what a great field for an automobile show of national fame this territory is. The Los Angeles dealers deserve great credit, and their reward will come next year in the shape of hearty factory co-operation.

"It is a certainty that the Paige factory will exhibit at the Los Angeles national show next year."

RITCHIE REFUSES TO MAKE WEIGHT.

SERVES NOTICE THAT HE WILL NOT KEEP AGREEMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Oct. 26.—Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, who recently signed an agreement to meet Charlie White of Chicago at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the bout before a local club some time in November, now refuses to make the weight, according to a notice served today by the promoters on the State Athletic Commission.

The terms had been agreed to by White's manager. Ritchie, it is alleged, prefers to box at catchweights, which is not satisfactory to White.

Queen OF THE AUTO SHOW

CHEVROLET

OUR models on display have been inspected by thousands. Many sales have been made—many more will be made. Friends by the legion have expressed their approval of, and told us of their belief in, the superiority of the Chevrolet four cylinder valve-in-the-head motor. This sentiment and this growing demand is the result of a well founded and widely circulated belief that for an all round car—for looks or for work—the Chevrolet is in a field by itself.

The car has won this enviable reputation on merit alone. Of course we may be prejudiced, probably are, but see this car in space 10 of the show on the main floor, ride in it, meet a few of the owners who are always about and you will understand why the car is so widely talked about.

DODGE BROTHERS ROADSTER

The beauty of this roadster will grow on you the longer you look at it.

At any angle from which you study it, you will search in vain for a single harsh line or curve.

Your first impression is one of substantial proportions, great staunchness and strength.

It has all of these qualities in a high degree.

But it weighs only 2150 pounds, and this lightness of weight adds wings to the powerful motor.

The body is all-steel—not steel on a wood frame, but steel throughout.

You discover one of the advantages of this elimination of useless wooden framework when you come to examine the storage space at the rear.

There is room there for an extraordinary equipment for two—luggage space for a continental tour, if you like.

As you can see, the finish is lustrous, fast and beautiful.

The seats are unusually wide and deep, and everything is at your fingers' tips—a half an arm's length away.

A roadster in all that the word implies—designed to carry two people with all the comfort their hearts can desire.

SOUTHERN RUGBY FIFTEEN TO GO NORTH TOMORROW.

THE Southern California fifteen leaves tomorrow for a ten-day stay in the north, during which interval Rugby will be very much in evidence around the exposition. The Rugby men play three teams while in the north, Stanford, Santa Clara and the All-Star aggregation. In other words, they are going up against the first best in Rugby in this country.

In preparation for the trip, the members of the team have been practicing two nights a week and slipping out to Manual Arts of a Sunday for a regular genuine scrimmage. "Pat" Higgins has always been with them giving them every advantage of his knowledge of the game. If he had the time, he could make a great team out of Arden. He has them filled with the fighting spirit now and they will show much better than their limited number of practices warrant.

"Pat" Higgins has drawn largely from the college men and the old prep stars for his material and has the pick of the south. It happens that many of those on the team are now attending the U.S.C. law school, so the Trojans will be well represented on this trip north against Stanford. Among the lawyers out for the team are Phil Sterry, Sleeper Brown and Dutch Blair. These three are sure of going north.

Two very valuable additions have been made to the fifteen during the last week. E. B. Hall and Deke Gard. These men were wonders for Stanford. Hall is a remarkable front-rank man and Gard the greatest breakaway ever produced here. The New Zealanders when they were here, said that they did not make teams that Gard could not play on.

Other men who played the game for years are Jimmy Law and Al Walton.

SQUELCHED.

"Unquestionably," said Berger, "I have played behind you often enough to realize that. I think that you would have made a very successful pirate."

"Judging from his build, I think he would make a greater success impersonating Nemo in the movies," suggested White.

A thick calm of dignified silence settled down and surrounded Hitt. Shading his eyes with his hands after the manner of mariners, he looked out over the water. It was not at all necessary for him to shade his eyes with his hand, as the fog was so thick that it could be sliced with a cutlass, but he had seen pictures of sailors like that, and he wanted to be technically correct.

WHY?

"What in thunder are you looking at?" inquired White. "There aren't any floating mines around here,are there?"

"Nope," responded Rhino, condescending to converse. "I'm looking for a certain landmark. When I locate the landmark I can find the fishing grounds."

"I never heard of a landmark on the water, and I never knew that fish lived on the ground, but I reckon that you know what you are talking about," ventured Purtell, who hated to show his ignorance about marine matters.

"Just as I expected when I asked you guys to come along," snapped Rhino. "A lot of foolish questions, and a lot of seasick stiffs on my hands, I suppose. I will be so busy taking care of you fellows that I won't get to do any fishing."

WOBBLY.

Just then. Hitt began to weave suspiciously on his sea legs.

"Getting a trifle rough; think that I will sit down a bit," he said, with just the suspicion of a sigh.

The sigh was repeated.

"Ate ham and eggs for breakfast; ain't used to them," in a weak voice. No response from the others.

The sigh was succeeded by a groan, which seemed to come straight from the heart, or near that region. Rhino's face was rapidly taking on a deep sea green, intermingled with a strange pallor.

Doc leaped across the deck, and seizing Hitt by the wrist, felt of his pulse.

"No, no, it isn't there," gasped Rhino. "It's further down, inside; it's terrible."

HELP, HELP.

"I believe that the man is dying," said Doc with a startled look.

"I believe that you are right Doc," said Rhino. "In fact, I don't think there is any doubt about it. Something terrible is about to happen."

And something terrible did happen. It was so terrible that it beggars description. And to think of all the millions in Europe who are starving to death for the want of a square meal. After Rhino had coughed up his ham and eggs, Doc said he believed that the danger point had been passed. It may have been for Rhino, but not for those near him.

This strange, unbelievable malady gradually spread to other parts of the ship. Purtell and Berger began to be stricken with that peculiar green hue in the face, and it wasn't due to the reflection of the water.

THOUGHTFUL.

"I may have cussed the umpire when he called a bad one on me, but I have never done a deliberate wrong in my life," said Purtell, looking serious.

"Say, boys, do you believe in heaven and hell?" inquired Berger anxiously.

"Yes, I do, and especially hell," groaned Rhino, hanging his head over the edge of the boat. "Some teach that there is such a thing as hell on earth. If this isn't hell on the water, then I am no judge."

It being plain that Hitt, Purtell and Berger were of no further use, they were laid out alongside the other excess baggage. There probably is no sadder sight in the world than that of three powerful athletes cut right down in the prime of a fishing trip and laid out on the hurricane deck awaiting the end.

THE SURVIVORS.

Thus did the unpleasant duty of catching most of the fish devolve on Doc and the fifth party, Purtell and Berger came to life for a few minutes, and hauled in one or two, but Hitt did not get his hook wet.

This was unfortunate, as all the fishing was done on what Hitt terms his own property. This anglers paradise consists of a large body of kelp, estimated to cover a quarter section, or 160 acres, and thickly inhabitated by rock bass. Hitt stacked out this quarleave, Rhino will retain the 160 acres steaders stake out 160 acres of government land. He holds his title to the water by fishing on it three months out of each year. Should the ocean recede and force the fishing to leave, Rhino wil iretain the 160 acres and engage in dry farming.

All told, the expedition captured 300 pounds of rock bass. However, Hitt says that with the right kind of bait other varieties of fish can be caught there, including dried herring, salted mackerel, kippered albicore, sardines in mustard, canned salmon and albicore baked Spanish style.

To quote Rhino, it is a veritable piscatorial paradise.

GOT NO BETTER DEAL THAN JUNIOR COLLEGE TEAM.

Normal School is peeved as well as the Junior College concerning the football fracas between the two institutions last week. The Normal men figure that they were handed as bad a deal by the referee as were the Junior Collegers and that if the college is sore they will be sore also.

The class captains, who will be the leaders today, are Moyer, ninth grade; Abraham, tenth grade; Prichard, eleventh grade; Harpster, twelfth grade.

Seventy-five men have also turned out for the big handball tournament which is playing this week.

But the "movies" are stanch supporters of the auto club and the great work it is doing for Southern California, and the club departments are glad to help the moving picture directors. 1916 OLDSMOBILE

The Quality Light Car

There is no change in the running of your Oldsmobile going up the steepest grades. Gasoline is supplied to the carburetor unfailingly at all times.

The Stewart Vacuum gasoline system in Oldsmobile 43 insures even running under all conditions. It draws gasoline from the rear tank to a small tank under the hood, where the gasoline falls in an even, positive flow to the carburetor. No gasoline is forced wastefully through the carburetor to cause an overrich mixture, sluggishness and carbonization.

Some Facts.

"CALIFORNIA AND AUTOS SYNONYMOUS"--CONWELL.

Some Startling Figures Concerning the Amount of Money Spent Daily in this Part of the State on Motor Cars and Their Accessories — Where the Money Goes and Why Thus Distributed.

BY COUNCILMAN J. S. CONWELL,
Manager Broadway Auto mobile and Flower Show.

IF ALL the motor cars in Southern California were assembled in a single file procession with only five feet between them, the first one would be entering Fresno when the last one left the City Hall. Or if they had started south, No. 1 would be away down in Lower California on the shore of Magdalena Bay before the tail-ender had crossed Slauson avenue.

There are more than 72,280 motor cars south of the Tehachepi. In our own county there are 46,447 and in the city fully 38,000. A motor car here for every sixteen units of our population. There is no other district of similar area and population that can even approach these figures. Why is it? There are three reasons. First, an incomparable, all-year-round climate; second, superb highways leading to all kinds of close-by places; mountains, canyons, valleys, mesas, fresh water lakes and salt air beaches; and third, a community possessed of high purchasing power.

There are no reliable records at hand as to gasoline consumption, but I venture to say that car owners in our county buy fully 500,000 gallons of gasoline every day, at a cost of $65,000. So you see, an advance of one cent per gallon means $500 per day to motorists. Tires are the next big item. Did you ever think that for every mile a car travels it "does" four "tire miles"? A conservative estimate of fifteen miles per day for every car in the county gives the enormous total of 4,336,800 tire miles every day, or 173 times around the earth at the equator. Sometimes I wonder what they cost. At one cent per mile per tire the bill would be almost $2900 per day.

In dollars as related to the motor tax, the figures are quite as impressive. The net income of the State Motor Vehicle Tax (gross receipts less cost of department) for the six months ending June 30, was almost a million and a quarter dollars, one-half of which is returned to counties in proportion to their tax for road upkeep. This rebate for road upkeep is based upon the amount paid by the various counties. Los Angeles, of course, leads all with a return payment of more than $600,000. The other half of the net balance is applied by the State to the upkeep of State highways.

But in spite of big figures, a car is the best sort of an investment. It has been demonstrated that once a car owner, you are always one. Because your time and therefore your efficiency are almost doubled. Your health preserved, your "radius of action" practically unlimited, and your opportunities to go places and see things are constant.

No wonder, then, that the present interest in the great Broadway Automobile and Flower Show, which opened Saturday, is intense. The motor show alone is worth four times the twenty-five cents admission price; but in addition to automobiles there is the most gorgeous display of flowers ever assembled in one place.

Just as at the San Francisco Exposition, you wore out the word "beautiful" almost before you started sigstseeing. It seems to me we ought to add to our old title of "Land of Sunshine" the items fruit, flowers and motor cars—all such good, beautiful and useful things.

BOWLING NOTES.

Miss L. Hellway, one of Bloomington's (Iowa) most expert women bowlers, is visiting Mrs. L. D. Meador, who is the champion woman bowler of Southern California.

Ernest Shay defeated C. Goyette in their special match on the Majestic alleys by the score of 1050 to 1000. The match was hard fought and a splendid exhibition.

Fred P. Simpson, manager of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, is in Chicago on bowling business.

The Commercial Bowling League is scheduled to commence play November 2. The opening game will be played on the Majestic and Broadway alleys.

Ernest Shay and Alfred Mackenzie have hooked up for the season as bowling partners.

President Andrew Mullen of the Pacific Coast Bowling Association is expected home from the East about November 1.

"Dad" Meek and Elmer Darrow have doubled up for the winter and, it is said, are prepared to take on all comers.

The Majestic team defeated the Submarine H-2 O on the Majestic alleys in the opening game of the Southern California Bowling Association.

President Earl Fay of the Sportsman Club announces a class A doubles tenpin tournament for the championship of Southern California and a handsome trophy donated by the club. The tournament is open to all bowlers who desire to compete, and will be played on all alleys represented. The entrance fee is $25 per team. Entries can be made with Secretary A. D. Scott or Treasurer Harry Colf. Shay and Mackenzie are the first to enter. Ballard and Taylor second. Other bowlers who are likely to compete are Meek and Darrow and teams made up from the following crack pin smashers: C. Goyette, T. Shafer, A. Jenkins, S. P. Dysinger, Andy Wuner, V. Hayes, Sandy Durkin, J. Weber, R. Barr, G. Steele, L. D. Meador and J. Brown.

The proposed tournament is the best event suggested for some time, as there are quite a number of doubles teams in Southern California that are about equally matched, but think they are so far ahead of the other fellow that they are champions. This tourney will give them a chance to demonstrate and find out which team is entitled to be called champions.

MOLLA BJURSTEDT TRAINS IN NORTH FOR BIG MATCH

Famous Norwegian Girl Tennis Player is in San Francisco Getting Ready for Fight for Title with Mrs. Thomas Bundy—Rise has been Met eor-like — Unique Among All Who Have Held National Title.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24. — Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the noted tennis star, has arrived here and is getting ready for a series of games with the foremost feminine racquet wielders of the Pacific Coast. She is a unique figure among tennis players, and her playing has been one of the surprises launched in the tennis world during the 1915 season:

The following appeared in the Literary Digest:

A lady who can stay up most of the night, smoke cigarettes ad libitum, takes apparently not the slightest care of her health, and yet tirelessly win her way into fame as the apparent world's champion woman tennis player, is the strange phenomenon that is bewildering American tennis lovers.

One newspaper editor has already gone so far as to administer a sermon to his readers on this subject, accusing Miss Molla Bjurstedt of accomplishing all this on the vitality and energy handed down to her by scores of ancestors as remote from the cigarette and late hours as from the tennis court, and adjuring those of his readers who did not boast such ancestry not to attempt to win championships by similar methods.

However that may be—and doubtless the lady's foibles have been much exaggerated — the fact remains that Miss Bjurstedt's comet-like sweep into fame from practical obscurity only six months ago is hardly equaled in the annals of any sport in this country.

The story of her career since coming to this country is told by the Boston Transcript:

Last March a slender Norwegian girl rather diffidently asked the managers of the national indoor tournament at the Seventh Regiment Armory in New York if she might enter the women's singles. They took her name and her entry fee and forget about her. Her name is Molla Bjurstedt; few in American tennis circles had even noticed it before.

Miss Bjurstedt went through that tournament without losing a single set and annexed the indoor championship by defeating Miss Marie Wagner, the three-time indoor champion, who was supposed to be invincible on the wooden courts.

DEFEATS THE BEST.

The tennis sharps said that the win was a fluke. But then Miss Bjurstedt entered other tournaments and she always won. She played a tournament a week, met all the best women players in the country and defeated them with ease. She took the metropolitan championship, defeating such players as Mrs. Marshall McLean and Mrs. Barger-Wallach, both former national champions; then she picked up the Middle States championship and went on to Philadelphia and took the national title, defeating Mrs. Wightman, the title holder and held to be the best player in the country. She met Mrs. Wightman again at Pittsburgh, and again she signally defeated the former Miss Hazel Hotchkiss and won the national clay-court cup.

MAKES A LITTLE HISTORY.

And then the experts awoke to the fact that Miss Bjurstedt was the most remarkable player that the United States had even seen since May Sutton. She was the holder of more titles than any tennis player who ever stepped on a court. No woman has ever before held all of national titles in tennis.

Thus in a few months Miss Bjurstedt from an unknown tennis player has come to be a national tennis champion; there has appeared no player or woman who has been able to give her a game. Miss Bjurstedt, world's champion of a few years, and who is now the wife of [illegible] C. Bundy, McLoughlin's partner in doubles, is returning to the metropolis expressly to see if she can win more honors from the newspaper.

FINISHES STRONG.

Miss Bjurstedt is no novice at the game, and she wins because of her hard, scientific beats, and because of marvelous strength and quickness. She can, and does, hit the ball harder than most men. She has played as many as twenty sets in an afternoon and does not tire at all of the evening. She is apparently stronger and faster at the end of a championship match than she was when she started.

WORKS FOR A LIVING.

Miss Bjurstedt differs from most tennis champions in that she does not play for her living. She is by profession a masseuse, and tennis is merely a recreation.

She has played with women of the first class woman and girl in the world, with the exception of Miss Wightman, her comment on her game is rather severe:

"I find that the girls do not hit the ball as hard as they should. I believe in driving the ball with all my power. It seems to be a disposition to 'play it over' in many girls who have played. I do not call this the game an easy ball permits the player to do whatever she likes when her turn. Hard hitting is a matter of strength as well as the ball at the proper angle, putting one's body into the stroke. The strongest woman will not get speed on the ball without the strength of her arm."

HAS THREE AIMS.

As to her own style of play, she told that Miss Bjurstedt has three tennis rules which are so simple that they are very simple in practice, quite so simple in practice. They are: First, hit the ball hard; secondly, hit the ball so that it will fall in the court where it is hardest for your opponent to reach; thirdly, keep your temper.

NO FANCY STUFF.

She plays no fancy game, she says that every attempt to place the ball or otherwise produces only results in loss of control, direction, and speed are the main points of the game.

The strongest asset in Miss Bjurstedt's repertoire is her service, but the forehand drive is also terrific.

Perhaps one reason for the qualities in her recognition of the limitations of women players is the trait that urges her to rely on dependence on a fast service or never attempt a passing or terrific drives.

At Leighton.

TENNIS MATCH IS PLAYED.

MISS GRACE MUNGEN AND ED M'CORMICK WIN.

Miss Beatrix Burnham and Harvey Snodgrass go Down, 6-0, 6-4. Victory is Rather Easy for Opponents—To Meet Jessie Grieve and Eugene Warren in Finals.

Miss Grace Mungen and Edward McCormick found things easy yesterday afternoon when they met Miss Beatrix Burnham and Harvey Snodgrass in their postponed match in the semifinals of the Hotel Leighton tennis tournament.

McCormick and his partner took the lead from the start, running away with the first set before their opponents could get a game. Grace Mungen played a stellar game at the net, as did McCormick, who covered the court well.

However, in the second set Miss Burnham and Snodgrass played together better and were not beaten until they had forced the score to 4 all. At that point McCormick and his partner again started in their winning streak and ended the match, 6-0, 6-4.

This gives McCormick and Miss Mungen the right to fight it out with Jessie Grieve and E. A. Warren in the final round on the same courts Saturday. This match is expected to be a corker and go the limit before the championship is finally decided, as both teams are out to win the championship and are about equal as far as playing ability goes.

HUNTER CLAIMS LAW VIOLATED.

W. H. COWLES SAYS MOTORBOATS ARE USED TO HUNT THE DUCKS.

W. H. Cowles of the Metropolitan Building, is registering a strong kick against the duck shooting from motorboats, which he claims is taking place at Balboa. Cowles says that there are a bunch of hunters there who shoot at everything in sight and take the birds by the gunnysack. He says that their shooting is so reckless that a friend of his, J. R. Sherman, was peppered on the face and chest by shot.

MASSIVE BASS IS HAULED IN.

CAUGHT ON QUARTER-INCH LINE FROM PIER AT SANTA MONICA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 26.—F. M. Stites caught a 350-pound sea bass from the end of the municipal pier this afternoon. The big fish was caught on a quarter-inch line with mackerel as bait. It was loaded on an electric freight car and shipped to the Los Angeles market. This is the first time for some time that a fish of such kind was caught from the pier.

VERNON PLAYERS SOME FISHERMEN.

CATCH SEASON'S RECORD HAUL; DOC WHITE'S STRING IS LARGEST.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 26.—Manned by a lusty quartette of Vernon ball tossers, composed of Joe Berger, Doc White, Billy Purtell and Roy Hitt, the good ship Mouse, Capt. Daigle in charge, returned to port yesterday with 400 pounds of rock bass, the largest catch of the season.

Doc claimed the fishing honors with 175 pounds to his credit, but Roy Hitt maintains that he and not the ex-Tiger leader coaxed the majority of the finny denizens of the deep into the boat.

Both are agreed, however, that the wolf will have a hard time getting within the pearly gates of home this winter if the rock bass are in the same frame of mind during the rest of the season as they were yesterday.

"RAH-RAH" NIGHT AT AUTO SHOW.

Friday night at the Broadway Automobile and Flower Show will be "rah-rah" night. Students of the University of Southern California, Occidental College, Pomona College and Whittier College are to be present. The high schools will also be represented.

TENNIS MATCHES ARE POSTPONED.

Play in the Polytechnic High tennis tournament has been postponed until the latter part of the week. Although the first matches were scheduled for yesterday afternoon several new entries came in and it seems wise to put things off a few days.

PAT MORAN WOULDN'T PERMIT HIS MEN TO TALK PENNANT.

PAT MORAN made it an ironclad rule throughout the 1915 season that his men must refrain from pennant talk — and world series thoughts.

But on several occasions he caught some of his men breaking the rules. He rebuked them. The second time he caught two of his men talking in undertones as to "what we'll do when we get a crack at those Red Sox." Moran cut in with:

"The next time I catch you—or any one else on this club—saying one word about pennant or world series, it'll cost you $50."

"In my experience as a ball player I found that dreaming pennant dreams detracted from the playing skill of the men," said Moran. "A team that is in a hard fight must concentrate its whole physical and mental energy on each individual game. That's the only way in which games are won. Play the game of the present—let the future take care of itself."

Moran, usually quiet and even tempered, and in no way superstitious, lost control of his temper the day before the Phillies started on their last western swing.

Just before the game began on the Phillies' diamond, Moran and the players noticed a man moving around among the stands and the open spaces, doing a lot of measuring. The man was Jim Foster, who had built the stands and who was doing the measuring, so he could decide upon how many extra seats it would be possible to build for the world series crowd.

"That fellow ought to get out of this field—and get out quick," snapped Moran. "His influence here is bad. It will get the players into believing they have the pennant cinched when they haven't. That fellow could just as well have postponed his measuring job for a few days and then we'd have been away and he could have had the field to himself."

Along about September 1, when the dopesters began announcing that "the Phillies, barring accidents, ought to win," Moran began to be bombarded with letters from fans all over the country, who offered to sell jinx chasers and lucky pieces of all kinds.

"The prize letter," remarked Pat, "came from a fellow up in Hamilton, Ont. He said he had a penny that had won fortunes for its owners, had saved people from railway and steamship wrecks and had accomplished many other wonderful things. That fellow offered me the penny for $500 upon the condition that I was to give him another $500 if we won the world series."

Another writer offered to Moran "for the moderate sum of $100," a rabbit's foot that had "unusual charms." The owner of the foot said it was a left hind foot, that it had belonged to a rabbit that was shot in a graveyard at night while sleeping on the freshly-made grave of a negro voodoo doctor.

"A charm with such a history cannot fail to bring a pennant and a world series to you," wrote the writer.

But Moran denied the charm on the pennant and world series without seeing the charms.

BASKETBALL AT JUNIOR COLLEGE

U.S.C. LAW TO PLAY NORTHERN

Pat Milliken has been notified by the U.S.C. football management that the Trojan football team will play the University of California and Stanford teams next season. The Bears will come south for the game with U.S.C. and Stanford will come north.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

California.

BEARS PRAISE TROJAN ELEVEN

U.S.C. was Simply Too Good, is Campus Verdict.

Teamwork Given Credit for Southern Win.

Craig and Moseley Given Pats on Back.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Oct. 25.—Now that U.S.C. has come and conquered the campus is settling down to figure out how it all happened. After contemplating all manner of excuses and might-have-beens, the senior bench authorities who gather daily by old North Hall have arrived at a very simple conclusion. U.S.C. was too good.

OUTPLAYED.

Though forward passes have been discussed and diagramed with much energy, it is apparent that this was only an incidental part of the U.S.C. victory, arising out of a more fundamental cause—that was team work. After finding their bearings in the first quarter the southern squad played with a confidence that only complete assurance that machine was in order could bring. Perhaps it was heightened by the fact that the team knew nearly all of California's plays by the end of the first half, but any way it was there in a no uncertain way.

MEETS MASTER.

If California could have unearthed enough new plays at the few times when she was close to the U.S.C. goal she might have scored, but her repertoire was limited. Against a team new at the game she exhibited all the appearance of a past master. She had enough plays to keep California guessing, though the shift was not as effective as the forward passing. Toward the end of the game, when forward passes were tried continually, California began to understand the maneuver better, and many were broken up.

All of these things have had orators and writers of more or less ability dilate upon them, but the fact remains that U.S.C. won by a clean, hard fight. She knew more football, both individually and as a team. She earned her victory and California fans congratulate her.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP.

An evidence of the good feeling existing between U.S.C. and California was given when Mosley trapped the [illegible] forward pass in the last quarter and gained thirty yards for a touchdown. The California bleachers applauded enthusiastically, and the play was cheered.

Will Stanford and U.S.C. get together for a track meet next spring? Manager Bovard dropped a gentle hint while in the north that such a meet was not an impossibility. However, U.S.C. is tied up with an agreement with California which prevents any meets in this vicinity without the consent of California. California has expressed no opinion either way on the proposed track meet.

CRAIG THERE.

Craig, the 190-pound U.S.C. halfback, is a host unto himself. His speed and weight made him the most formidable of the back-field men. Shadow Sharp had little chance to perform against the Trojans. He got by for several gains but the interference was not at par and he soon was downed. U.S.C. men who tackled at times were many and all can vouch for their speed and ability to find holes. With good interference to help him Sharp would have starred.

THE ONLY APPARENT EVIDENCE.

A Southern Lawyer Relates His Experience with a Judge Who Saw Through the Strategy.

[Chicago News:] The following experience of a Mississippi lawyer was related by himself years ago. He said: "I was defending a prisoner for horse stealing, and seeing no other means of defending him, under the circumstances, I set up the plea of insanity; I argued it at length, read many extracts from works of medical jurisprudence, and had the patient at bottom of the court. The prosecuting attorney did not attempt to reply to my argument or controvert my authorities. I seemed to have things my own way, and whispered to the prisoner that he needn't be uneasy. Then came the judge's charge, in which he recommended the jury that there was no distinction between counsel as to the facts of the case. Indeed, there could not have been, for several witnesses had sworn positively that they saw my client steal the horse. "But," concluded the court, "the plea of insanity has been set up, and I charge you, gentlemen of the jury, that it should receive your very grave and serious deliberation; but I must be allowed to say, gentlemen, that for myself, upon a review of the whole case, I can discover no evidence of insanity on the part of the prisoner, except, perhaps, in the selection of his counsel."

California.

BEARS PRAISE TROJAN ELEVEN.

U.S.C. was Simply Too Good, is Campus Verdict.

Teamwork Given Credit for Southern Win.

Craig and Moseley Given Pats on Back.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERKELEY, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Oct. 26.—Now that U.S.C. has come and conquered the campus is settling down to figure out how it all happened. After contemplating all manner of excuses and might-have-beens, the senior bench authorities who officiate daily by old North Hall have arrived at a very simple conclusion. U.S.C. was too good.

OUTPLAYED.

Though forward passes have been practiced and diagramed with much fervency, it is apparent that this was only an incidental part of the U.S.C. victory, arising out of a more fundamental cause—that was team work. After finding their bearings in the first quarter the southern squad played with a confidence that only complete assurance that machine was in order could bring. Perhaps, it was heightened by the fact that the team knew nearly all of California's plays by the end of the first half, but any way it was there in a no uncertain way.

MEETS MASTER.

If California could have unearthed much new plays at the few times when she was close to the U.S.C. goal she might have scored, but her repertoire was limited. Against a team at the game she exhibited all the appearance of a past master. She had enough plays to keep California guessing, though the shift was not as effective as the forward passing. Toward the end of the game, when forward passes were tried continually, California began to understand the shift better, and many were broken up.

All of these things have had writers and writers of more or less ability dilate upon them, but the fact remains that U.S.C. won by a clean, hard fight. She knew more football, both individually and as a team. She earned her victory and California fans congratulate her.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP.

Evidence of the good feeling existing between U.S.C. and California was given when Mosley trapped the U.S.C. forward pass in the last quarter and gained thirty yards for a touchdown. The California bleachers applauded enthusiastically, and the play was cheered.

Will Stanford and U.S.C. get together for a track meet next spring? Coach Bovard dropped a gentle hint while in the north that such a meet was not an impossibility. However, U.S.C. is tied up with an agreement with California which prevents any meets in this vicinity without the consent of California. California has expressed no opinion either way on the proposed track meet.

CRAIG THERE.

Craig, the 190-pound U.S.C. halfback is a host unto himself. His speed and weight made him the most valuable of the back-field men. Quarterback Sharp had little chance to perform against the Trojans. He got loose for several gains but the interference was not at par and he soon was downed. U.S.C. men who tackled at times were many and all can vouch for the speed and ability to find holes. With better interference to help him Sharp would have starred.

HISTORIC TENEDOS.

An Island Whose Name is Familiar to Every Schoolboy Who Knows His "Iliad."

[Manchester Guardian:] Tenedos, so frequently mentioned in news from the Dardanelles, is an island whose name every schoolboy knows because it is mentioned at he beginning of Homer's "Iliad" and Virgil's "Aeneid," instead of at the end. Nestor's handmaid, fair-tressed Hakemede, who mixed a posset of Pramnian wine for wounded Machaon and her war-worn master, and served it from the old man's dove cup, was a native of Tenedos, which thus produced the first trained hospital nurse in history. In ancient times the civil constitution and laws of Tenedos were celebrated for their wisdom. Unluckily, we no longer know what they were, though they semed to have been discussed with approval in a lost treatise by Aristotle. This fertile islet at the entrance of the Dardanelles has been considered of great strategic importance ever since the Greeks hid their fleet there during the Trojan war. And opposite Tenedos is Besika Bay, to which the British fleet used to be dramatically dispatched whenever a fresh crisis arose in the troublesome "eastern question," that now awaits final solution."

With a population of 625,000, North Dakota, with its 22,175 motor-cars, has one car to every twenty-six persons. The registrations up to July 31, this year, were 6433 in excess of the entire number registered in 1914.

HUNTERS BACK LIMIT STORIES.

Claim Crossman did Them a Mighty Wrong.

Offer to Show Pictures to Prove Yarns.

Say Quail More Plentiful than Ever.

In Tuesday's Times Mr. Crossman depicted the average modern hunter as one who eased his greasy elbows on the counters of the sporting goods houses and spun out enormous statements concerning the bagging of limits.

"All this talk is mere bunk," says P. E. Peterson. "A good shot hasn't the least difficulty in getting the limit. I have shot the limit and have the pictures right here to prove it. Sportsmen have at least the desire to be honorable and will not purposely misrepresent the size of their bags."

"I could take Crossman to a place where he would see so many quail that he would have to shut his eyes," vociferated R. L. Hall. "Perhaps he has been out shooting several times with poor luck and jumped to the conclusion that his luck was the same as that of everyone else."

Pop Hall did not specify where his famous quail ground is, but he probably has reference to Fallbrook in San Diego county.

"I guess I can count," said Owen Council, who is just back from the Big Bear. "If you don't believe I got the limit ask Mr. and Mrs. Fickson, who were with me, or else wait until I have my pictures developed."

Jack Kelsey says that all the good shots are certainly getting the limit and producing the birds as evidence.

Doc Fitzgerald is also peeved and says that he will produce all the evidence that anyone could ask for concerning his recent trip to Perris. Doc will even go so far as to hunt up the people who consumed the birds.

Mr. Harvard says that the ducks are flying low near the Palisades Tavern and are easy to get at because of fog banks. He swears that he has seen many limits shot in that neighborhood.

"I have never seen so many quail in my life as there are around this season." This from Ed Tufts. "People do get the limit and I will vouch for it."

Don Rader and Bill Piercy of the Vernon ball club left for Elsinore yesterday, their faith in the season unshaken. They will fish and hunt for a week.

POSTAL SAVINGS.

Deposits Have Given the Government the Immediate Use of Sixty-eight Millions of Dollars.

[Chicago Tribune:] The postal savings act is one piece of legislation that has accomplished what its friends predicted it would. Our foreign born people who have been stuffing their surplus earnings away in old stockings, mattresses and secret burying places, or sending them back to the old country for safe keeping or industrial use have taken hold of the bait that we threw out in the shape of a government bank. The United States is getting the use of some $65,000,000 which under other circumstances would be totally lost to us. The immigrant is getting a 2 per cent. income, where he got nothing before. They are new customers, who have shown that they have no faith in our banking methods, even if they could understand them, so there is no hardship on our own bankers. Seventy-two per cent. of the deposits are owned by foreign born. The postal savings act has been wholly constructive, according to Postmaster Burleson, writing in Harper's Weekly.

Fast Football.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 26.—In a fast, clean game of football the Long Beach High School second team humbled the Lincoln High seconds on the local gridiron this afternoon by the score of 14 to 6.

Punctuated throughout by forward passes and end runs, the contest savored of the spectacular in every quarter.

Coach Elliott sent the first team into the game against Lincoln the last five minutes of play. Hawks, at half, scored a touchdown on a fake buck. As it was primarily a second-team contest the score was not counted.

Long Beach's third team also got in some good licks in the third quarter, taking the place of the second-string men. It was during the third quarter, against the third team, that Lincoln scored its single touchdown. Cuyler, the Lincoln quarter-back, who starred throughout the conflict for the visitors, grabbed the ball on an end run and scored his team's only touchdown. Goal was not kicked. Cuyler is a Long Beach boy, having graduated from the Atlantic-avenue grammar school.

Tommy Davis, coach of the Lincoln eleven, is also a graduate of the Long Beach High School and former football star of this city.

Pillsbury, Long Beach left end, scored the first touchdown for Long Beach on an end shift play in the first quarter. Gerner kicked goal.

After a series of runs and off-tackle bucks Long Beach again advanced the oval to Lincoln's 5-yard line in the second quarter. Here Lightle, Long Beach right half, went over for the second touchdown. Gerner kicked goal again, this time from a difficult angle.

Wood, Lincoln right guard, starred for the visitors on the line, mussing up plays and tackling with great gusto. A first team anywhere in the south could use Wood handily. Bell, Lincoln left end, also showed up well. Taken as a whole, for a team that is playing its first game of American football, Lincoln did exceptionally well. They lined up fast and pulled some good plays from a punt formation. The line-up:

SANTA ANA GAME WAS AN EYE-OPENER FOR MECHANICS.

"WE LEARNED a million things in last Saturday's game with Santa Ana," said Coach Roy Haslett of Polytechnic, passing his hand across his brow and sighing wearily as he watched his Mechanics in practice last night.

And perhaps the Poly boys did discover a few things, since they were beaten 25 to 3, and most of the play took place in their half of the field.

Haslett's biggest concern, however, is with the Manual game Friday at Washington Park. He is working his men as hard as any team could be worked and putting them through the stiffest of scrimmages. This afternoon he expects Compton High to journey in and scrimmage with his warriors. It is also rumored that Haslett has a bunch of new and brilliant plays up his sleeve which he wants to try out before the fight with Manual.

There are mysterious rumors abroad concerning a shift in the Mechanics' line-up. Some predict that Haslett has discovered good back-field material in the line and will shoot Bland or Forer to a guard position. Haslett admits that he is considering some sort of a big change.

Polytechnic will meet Lincoln High a week from Friday on Y.M.C.A. field. From indications thus far the teams are pretty evenly matched.

U.S.C. PREPS ARE GOING IN STRONG FOR BASKETBALL.

BASKETBALL is in full swing out at the U.S.C. prep school. Harry Sodwen has been made head coach and Cliff Henderson manager. These two are out to put the preps on the map in basketball, and bid fair to do so, as they have from twenty to thirty men practicing every night.

The preps will stage their first game of the season Friday night, when they meet the Manual Arts squad at U.S.C. Although they have not as many men to pick their team from as Manual, they have some fast huskies, and will show their opponents that they are out to win.

Last Friday night saw the finals of the interclass basketball games, when the freshmen and juniors combined and licked the sophomores and seniors, thus giving them the shield offered the winners by Prof. Willet.

The next stunt to be put on by Manager Henderson is a basketball pentathalon. In this contest the players will be put through all different kinds of stunts that a player is expected to know in a game. These will include throwing baskets, accurate passing, throwing fouls and other plays to be worked out by the coach. This contest is to take place within a week, and a watch fob will be given the winner.

AUBURN-HAIRED BEAUTY TO BE CADILLAC QUEEN.

BESSIE EYTON will reign in all her auburn-haired glory in the Cadillac booth. The Selig leading woman will greet her friends and the thousands of visitors from the tonneau of the seven-passenger touring car.

The Cadillac booth is in the center of the first floor. Special floral decorations will be provided for tonight. Few of the many who have seen Bessie Eyton in pictures know that instead of the brunette she appears to be on the screen that she is a real auburn-haired damsel.

It is of a hue seldom seen and is certain to be muchly admired tonight. Miss Eyton is a native daughter, having been born in Santa Barbara. Although known around the world she has never been out of California.

Picture lovers who have seen Miss Eyton dive from the deck of an ocean-going liner, drive a mile a minute motor car, make wild dashes down mountainsides on racing horses and perform other daring stunts will have this opportunity of seeing her in a dainty evening gown amid a setting of beautiful blooms.

Within the next two years approximately 1200 miles of brick highway, now under construction in Florida, will have been completed. About twenty counties in Florida have banded themselves together and will expend from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 for good roads. This will give tourists the advantage of excellent motor trips in the winter.

Saxon High Speed Motor
—this year's favored type

Saxon engineers know that a small sized gasoline motor running at high speed gives as much power as a larger motor of the slow speed type. At the same time it consumes far less gasoline, and greatly reduces the weight of the car.

Those are facts which Saxon engineers have developed and which all engineers now recognize. So today the high speed motor is the ideal of most designers.

Saxon "Sixes" are built with the wonderful Saxon high speed motor. Experts marvel at its power.

GAME PARADISE ON THE COAST.

Fifty Trout an Hour Quite Usual Occurrence.

Grizzlies, Deer and Goats All are There.

And Yet but Few Hunters See the Place.

The Pacific Coast has a sporting paradise second to none in the world and yet few people know of it.

The paradise referred to is in British Columbia, along the coast north of Vancouver, and in V. M. Scribner of this city it has a real booster. Mr. Scribner, before taking up his residence in this city, was a forest ranger, customs inspector and held several other official positions, so that he knows what he is talking about.

It seems that the hunters take the steamers to Alaska and pass right by these game-loaded shores and rivers without realizing the wonderful possibilities for sport.

The inside passage on the West Coast of British Columbia has the natural beauties of the Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence. The thousands who travel to Alaska pass by with no knowledge of the beautiful nooks loaded with trout, the bays where seal and sealion play undisturbed, the forest choked with deer and grizzlies.

One of the animals which provides the best hunting is the Rocky Mountain goat, a huge fellow who clambers up and down in almost inaccessible places and yet who often feeds within rifle shot of the tidewater.

Every year the salmon run up each stream that is large enough for them. Thousands of them swarm the streams and as regularly as the salmon climb, the grizzlies and the black bears come down to meet them, patrolling the banks by the hundreds and leaving trails of half-devoured fish behind them.

Every stream is a trout stream and the depressions hold lakes clear as crystal and swarming with trout of every variety. The cut-throat, rainbow and Dolly Varden are all represented as well as the more common varieties. A hundred trout in two hours for one rod is by no means a record catch, according to Mr. Scribner.

The little Columbian or black-tail deer is exceedingly plentiful along the coast and on the outer islands while the big mule deer and timber caribou come to the heads of the valleys that break through the range.

In the fall and all through the winter there are ducks and geese everywhere among which the big blackhead, or Canadian goose, and the Mallard predominate. Practically every flat beach is a clam bed.

Mr. Scribner tells yarns that make the Southern California hunter turn green with envy. And then, just when you go to give him the laugh and tell him that it can't be done, he turns around and flashes the photographs on you.

FLYING SPARKS OF MOTORDOM.

The New York State Automobile Association, through its information bureau, is offering reliable information concerning hunting laws and places where game is plentiful.

A careful compilation of the licenses issued to motor car owners in Michigan between January 1 and June 30 of this year shows that 96,368 registration numbers were sold, which is 20,046 more than the number issued for all of 1914.

The first gap in the National Old Trails highway across Missouri will be plugged if a road and bridge bond issue carries this fall, and everyone interested in the construction of a rock road from Kansas City to St. Louis believes the issue will carry overwhelmingly.

Figuring the population of Oregon at 800,000, it is found that there is a motor car for every 26.8 persons living in that State.

The fifteenth annual Cleveland automobile show will be held January 8 to 15 in the Wigmore Coliseum.

A project for the establishment of a national thoroughfare from Chicago and Buffalo to New Orleans as a memorial to Andrew Jackson, soldier, statesman and President, has been launched at Nashville, Tenn.

Adverse legislation has curtailed the number of jitneys in Louisville, Ky. Only thirty-three now are being operated on five streets. Back in April, when the movement was at its zenith, 300 jitneys were competing with the street cars.

The Minneapolis show will be held in the week of January 29 and the Kansas City show in the week of February 7, while the Omaha show follows the Des Moines exhibition during the week of February 21. In former years the local date always conflicted with the Boston show, and as a result many factory exhibits could not be shown.

When touring becomes normal in France, there will be thousands who will want to learn by personal inspection how Paris was saved from the fate of Louvain and Rheims. Meanwhile the Touring Club of France is doing much to convince foreign and particularly English motorists and other travelers that touring conditions are now normal. The club's welcome to France has not met with much success, and is not likely to do so.

All efforts to establish jitney bus transportation in Denver have been fought so bitterly that the enterprise has been practically abandoned.

Postmaster-General Burleson has awarded contracts for furnishing a number of motor trucks for use in the postal service in Detroit, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago. The new service in Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis will go into effect November 15 and will supplant, in part, screen wagon, electric car, mail messenger and city delivery services.

Commercial vehicles are to be built in Atlanta. A leading lumber company is preparing to enter the industry upon a large scale, discontinuing its lumber interests in order to devote its attention to trucks.

The Ohio highway department has served notice on contractors working on State contracts for the improvement of roads that proper barricades must be erected where roads are closed and proper detour signs placed. Commissioner Clinton Cowen says that discourtesy to the public and failure to place the proper sign and warnings will not be countenanced.

In Canada sales of automobiles have been about 50 per cent. greater thus far this year than in 1914, and that in the province of Ontario, where most of the Canadian automobile manufacturing plants are located, 7000 more cars have been sold thus far this year than up to that time in 1914.

FOSTER MAY PLAY AT END.

Tigers may Use ex-Captain Against Whittier.

Ralph Deems may be Moved Out from Tackle.

Two Players Would Shine in New Roles.

The possibility is that Sid Foster will play in the Whittier game. Rumor has it that Ralph Deems, last year's tackle, and he will play the ends. It is said that Coach Pixel is grooming them up at those positions, realizing what defensive strength he must have to meet the Quaker around end and forward pass attack. The rumors are so conflicting that nothing can be stated as a fact.

The two would make a strong pair of ends, both offensively and [illegible] sive. Many have claimed that Sid Foster would make a better end than halfback and that a good tackle that he is moved out.

There would not be many gains around them or off-tackle. They are noted for their tackling. THINGS THA WOMEN AT

Hundreds of Refinement Put There Merely to Ca Story Goes to Prove that Quite Well.

BY ALM

MOLLY announced her intenti of inspecting automobiles wi a view to purchase. Being ordinary venture, it demanded santed attendance of her girl frien at the automobile show. Molly c sined to specify price, so we gav them all our respectful judgme from the $5000 royal limousine dow to the $400 roadster.

How they cater for the wome these motor cars. Every little la detail for our comfort has bee thought out. We stood entranced be fore the sumptuous Pierce-Arrow ex hibit. There is the great thirty-eight horse-power touring car, the forty-eight-horse-power limousine, or th three-seated roadster, any of whic can be driven as easily by a woma as a sewing machine or a typewriter. And incidentally, be it mentioned, some of the finest drivers of cars on this Coast are women, notwithstand ing New York is trying to pass a law to forbid women to drive a car.

COMFORT.

The Pierce-Arrow has the wide doors, holding no terrors of tortuous contorming to avoid pitfalls. One can slide through as gracefully as a slim princess, mounting easily on the low, wide step, which calls for a minimum of leg display. The front seats are divided, forming a roomy corner for changing seats, and leaving the driver free from jostling. Wide seats in the rear, no poky crowding and crushing of frocks. A tricky little light to show the step in the dark and a thoughtful handle placed in just the right position on the door to assist ascent. The robe rack is [illegible] extended to make it the simplest matter to secure the rugs.

A solid, magnificent car, svelte, broad lines bespeaking stature and affluence in every curve, rich black with [illegible] lines of green, and upholstery worthy a princeling's dining-room. Another, a bridal affair in canary yellow, obviously designed for an elopement, three-seated, for, of course, one would have to take the maid along. Or, of course, that third seat might do for the chaperone before the elopement. Or for the baby [illegible] Nothing cheap about the Pierce-Arrow, obviously an aristocrat among cars.

HATH CHARMS.

We almost bought one of these [illegible] the Packard caught our eye, but the Packard hath charms in every [illegible] And women don't drive a Packard; your Packard usually flaunts a chauffeur just as he can. There is seduction in the idea of being the one woman [illegible] a Packard. And there is [illegible] written all over it, class, comfort, luxury, a symposium of millions [illegible] another car stands for nickels. The divan type of seat, the seductive lighting arrangement, the numerous clever devices for stowing away impedimenta, the absence of name plate [illegible] for the Packard is a Packard [illegible] known to all by its radiator and its hub cap; it needs no label. And the most [illegible] exclusive of Packards can be had for a paltry $3300, a fitting setting for one's $8000 sable coat. And the fact that it has the first "Twin Six," twelve cylinders, to arrive in [illegible] there is pure joy in being the first to own a "Twin Six." Exclusiveness is dear to the feminine [illegible]

But the White car is in this class. We felt that Molly demanded [illegible] and the White oozes style in every line. A great powerful car, [illegible] which gives an impression of a sort of immensity that could [illegible] an army. There is something [illegible] about a slim little woman [illegible] at the helm in a huge, massive [illegible] especially when the steering apparatus comes well within the [illegible] of short feminine legs.

COMPACT.

The driving facilities looked the acme of compactness. Molly found [illegible] she could reach every adjustment with scarce a move. And the little cupboard beneath the robe rack, with shelves all complete, was [illegible] fully furnished it with toilet necessaries, motor veils, pasty shoes—possibly something in the nature of a reviving spirit for emergencies. The long, graceful lines of what [illegible] call the concealed finish, so beautifully constructed that doors melt into the lines without breaking them. There was much to charm the eye [illegible] the White car.

The Cadillac limousine demands a chauffeur, because he is ensconced [illegible] with a seat for the maid behind him. But the touring car could be driven by a woman. It has a fascinating exterior, the long slender lines of the race horse, the entirely appropriate and desirable snout effect, a touch of patrician proboscis that betokens breeding and lofty intelligence.

OUT OF SIGHT.

And its folding seats vanish from sight altogether when not in use and [illegible] an appearance of really comfortable seats when in position. Not [illegible] cushions, but real seats, and still [illegible] plenty of room for everything [illegible] everybody with never a suggestion of [illegible] crowding. A folding steering wheel, which enables the driver to [illegible] herself comfortably. And naught [illegible] a crest for name plate.

The Oldsmobile car found Molly [illegible] Here was a car that was really sold for $5000 but which can [illegible] be had for $1335. Its social [illegible] among cars is unquestioned, [illegible] the reduction in price has only been attained by reducing the size [illegible] the weight, while retaining all the distinctive features for which the original car was famous. Obviously a [illegible] grade car, with those comfortable doors, aluminum foot board, [illegible] sturdily constructed drawers for stowing away odd articles and the tools, [illegible] heavy solid fenders, a niched grip on the steering wheel to enable feminine [illegible] to grasp it easily, an automatic [illegible] bumper, which calls for nothing more arduous than turning a screw, a [illegible] unobtrusive name plate—so [illegible] highly desirable features in [illegible] to catch them, especially the [illegible] that [illegible] right over the line with a [illegible] jumping for the ball.

The moving of Deems [illegible] would not weaken the [illegible] ren would be still of course [illegible] and Hollinger could play [illegible] and Holmes and Shields [illegible]

The Chalmers 40-horsepower, 1916 [illegible] has a charm all its own, however, in that it can be converted into a limousine for the winter and a touring car for the summer, the whole [illegible] complete for $1850. This is the car that Blanche Ring swears by. She [illegible] her first in 1908 and has [illegible] it in for a new model each [illegible]

sive. Many have claimed all along that Sid Foster would make a better end than halfback and that if he had good tackle that he is, ought to be moved out.

There would not be many holes gains around them or off-tackle. Deems are noted for their tackling. Deems claws his way through the interference and plunges at the man. Foster dashes into the inference, sidesteps and usually bringing down the man with the ball. He has a peculiar knack that makes him adept at this.

These men would aid materially the interference, both in assisting backs through the line and in making open. Even from tackle, Deems usually manages to get through the line and dump somebody in the backfield for a secondary offense. Sid could do the same. Both are fast enough for this.

Then they are clever at handling the forward pass. Foster has been a football like he does a basketball. His remarkable speed and natural shiftiness would help in that department. Deems would not be nearly as clever as Foster and would not get away with such long forward passes, but he has been known to catch them, especially the short ones, right over the line with a beautiful jumping for the ball.

The moving of Deems out to end would not weaken the Tiger line, for Warren would be still at center. Wagner and Hollinger could play the guards and Holmes and Shipke the tackles.

It is lawful to travel to and from grounds in a motor car, but unlawful to shoot game birds or animals from a car, according to the ruling of the Attorney-General of Wisconsin.

THINGS THAT APPEAL TO WOMEN AT THE AUTO SHOW

Hundreds of Refinements in the Cars on Exhibition are Put There Merely to Catch the Feminine Eye, and this Story Goes to Prove that They Serve Their Purpose Quite Well.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

MOLLY announced her intention of inspecting automobiles with a view to purchase. Being no ordinary venture, it demanded the grand attendance of her girl friends at the automobile show. Molly declined to specify price, so we gave her all our respectful judgment from the $5000 royal limousine down to the $400 roadster.

For they cater for the women, these motor cars. Every little last need for our comfort has been thought out. We stood entranced before the sumptuous Pierce-Arrow exhibit. There is the great thirty-eight-horse-power touring car, the forty-six-horse-power limousine, or the three-seated roadster, any of which may be driven as easily by a woman as a sewing machine or a typewriter. Incidentally, be it mentioned, one of the finest drivers of cars on the Coast are women, notwithstanding New York is trying to pass a law to forbid women to drive a car.

COMFORT.

The Pierce-Arrow has the wide door holding no terrors of tortuous scrambling to avoirdupois. One can step through as gracefully as a slim maiden, mounting easily on the low, wide step, which calls for a minimum of leg display. The front seats are divided, forming a roomy corridor for changing seats, and leaving the driver free from jostling. Wide room in the rear, no poky crowding or crushing of frocks. A tricky little light is show the step in the dark and a thoughtful handle placed in the right position on the door for assistance. The robe rack is cleverly extended to make it the simplest matter to secure the rugs.

The cold, magnificent car, svelte, with lines bespeaking status and affluence in every curve, rich black with silver lines of green, and upholstery fit for a princeling's dining-room, would be a bridal affair in canary yellow, obviously designed for an elopement, three-seated, for, of course, she would have to take the chaperone. Or, of course, that third might do for the chaperone because of the elopement. Or for the baby sister. Nothing cheap about the Pierce-Arrow, obviously an aristocrat to the last atom.

HATH CHARMS.

We almost bought one of those cars. The Packard caught our eye, for the Packard hath charms in its very name. And women don't drive a Packard; your Packard usually flaunts a chauffeur just as he can. There is seduction in the idea of being the one woman in a Packard. And there is distinction all over it, class, completeness, a symposium of millions that the taxicab car stands for nickels. The luxurious type of seat, the seductive leg arrangement, the numerous conveniences for stowing away impedimenta, the absence of name plate on the car. A Packard is a Packard all by its radiator and its hood, it needs no label. And the representative of Packards can be had for a paltry $2360, a fitting setting for one's $5000 sable coat. And not that it has the first "Twin Six" twelve cylinders, to arrive in Los Angeles is pure joy in being the first to own a "Twin Six." Exclusiveness is dear to the feminine heart.

The White car is in this class. We felt that Molly demanded that the White cozes style in every line. A great powerful car, the hood which gives an impression of length of immensity that could carry an army. There is something fetching about a slim little woman at the helm in a huge, massive car, especially when the steering apparatus comes well within the capacity of short feminine legs.

COMPACT.

The driving facilities looked the acme of compactness. Molly found that she could reach every adjustment with scarce a move. And the roomy cupboard beneath the robe rack, with shelves all complete, one could furnished it with toilet accessories, motor veils, party shoes—anything something in the nature of a changing spirit for emergencies. And the graceful lines of what looked like concealed finish, so cleverly constructed that doors melt into the lines without breaking them. There was much to charm the eye in the White car.

The Cadillac limousine demands a chauffeur, because he is ensconced behind with a seat for the maid behind. But the touring car could be run by a woman. It has a fascinating interior, the long slender lines suggest race horse, the entirely appropriate and desirable smout effect, a touch of patrician proboscis that betokens breeding and lofty intelligence.

OUT OF SIGHT.

The folding seats vanish from sight altogether when not in use and give an appearance of really commodious seats when in position. Not mere perches, but real seats, and still there is plenty of room for everything and everybody with never a suggestion of undue crowding. A folding steering wheel, which enables the driver to sit most comfortably. And naught but a neat for name plate.

The Oldsmobile car found Molly cold. Here was a car that was sold for $5000 but which can be had for $1238. Its social standing cars is unquestioned. But production in price has only been effected by reducing the size and weight, while retaining all the luxurious features for which the original car was famous. Obviously a roadster car, with those comfortable cushions, aluminum foot board, cleverly constructed drawers for stowing away articles and the tools, wind folders, a niched grip on the steering wheel to enable feminine fingers to grasp it easily, an automatic self-starter, which calls for nothing more arduous than turning a screw, a distinctive name plate—so many desirable features in so small even. And there is a highly special wind guard for the windshield that offers attraction.

CONVERTIBLE.

The Chalmers 40-horsepower, 1916 model has a charm all its own, however, in that it can be converted into a coupe for the winter and a roadster for the summer, the whole change for $1850. This is the car her self swears by. She has had her first in 1908 and has changed it to suit a new model each season since. She says it is so easy for a woman to operate, the dash is adapted to every possible convenience, and even the gasoline tank can be filled from the inside of the car without disturbing a passenger. And the automatic control makes it so safe, the car can run as slowly as two miles an hour or as quickly as fifty-five miles an hour without shifting the gear.

In appearance it has the highly favored boat line effect. They call this two-cars-in-one model the Chalmers Palanquin, and it certainly impresses one as cambining all the charms of both types of car for a very modest figure.

But whist, here is a fascinating little sporting speedster, obviously designed for the Eleonora Sears type of maiden. Molly saw herself dashing down to the country club with her golf clubs tucked in behind, in her most becoming sweater and sport skirt, her small but athletic foot on the clutch for the alluring price of $625. This is one of the Chevrolet models, a name that seems to stand for small prices and vast efficiency. There was a little roadster, distinctly cutey, for $865, and a Baby Grand, which comprised all the family requirements, light, compact, stable, for $865, and another light, springy, fleet looking model for $650. The chief charm about this was that the tires are the easiest things to change, and Molly recognized the occasional necessity for changing tires.

Things that appeal to women.

At the top is the tonneau light in the Pierce, which shines across the doorway and illumines the helpful handle on the door. Number 2 is the neat elbow rest in the midget tonneau of the Premier Cloverleaf roadster. Number 3 is the step light on the Locomobile, which illumines the step and keeps the unwary from falling. Number 4 is the nifty new method of mounting Apperson headlights. Number 5 is the Cantilever springs on the Saxon Six, which adds so much to the comfort.

The Reo found us still undecided, for here was a totally new design, boasting a double dash board, and the whole car giving a strictly tailored impression, a cleared-for-action atmosphere, absolutely devoid of frillies. Its very masculinity appealed to the feminine eye. Nothing on the dash but the speedometer and the pressure gauge, and the gear clutch in the middle so that it did not impede entrance from either side. Divided seats, making for comfort and room, and with a new style of radiator that gave the car a unique appearance. Only a thousand dollars, and it could seat seven passengers in comfort. Seats were high, eminently desirable for seeing the country and showing off one's charms. The driver's seat particularly comfortable and easy to get into.

The Haynes light six at $1600 had so many features of the high-priced cars that we faltered again. The divided seats, the comfortable folding tonneau seats, the easy operating gear, the wide doors and the clever device by which the seats could be adjusted for comfort for long or short legs, or turning them into couches for sleeping. A light car, yet capable of hard service.

SLEEK.

The Grant six has the appearance of a very stylish car, a foreign appearance on the order of the Rolls-Royce, sleek and patrician, yet it costs but $895 and the mechanism is simplicity itself.

We stood before the stripped chassis of the Haynes three-seated roadster and tried to look motorwise, but it was the finished car and its cosy devices that we really understood. It has a very low step, and its seats are curved and snug, no slithering about after the jolts. And it is equipped with multitudinous pockets and cubby holes. The third seat is ingeniously arranged for sociability, the front seats being divided, or it can all be covered in with a few simple buttons if suitcases and impediments are to occupy it.

ROYAL ASPECT.

The Hudson limousine in royal blue had a royal aspect; the lining is gray and silver, giving it a highly-artistic appearance. One would feel called upon to live up to that car, and dress up to it. They specialize on la ligne in the Hudson, long, gentle, patrician curves, that given an impression of unusual grace.

The Dodge is an essentially sturdy car, a versatile roadster which, like the Chalmers, can be converted into a winter limousine or a summer touring car, all for the one price of $850, and will stand much hard usage. One felt that he would be getting a lot of style very economically, to say nothing of comfort.

But the Cole promptly dispersed any ideas of economy we might be entertaining—$2100 worth of luxury, a fine, big, impressive car, highly artistic, in deep blue or bronze green, with sympathetic yellow wheels. The Cole blue is a unique color, at once rich and rare, a worthy frame to a Paquin gown.

SHARP TURNS.

The Apperson car prides itself on being the lightest weight for its size of any car on the market, and it has the desirable low step, wide like a palatial staircase, doors that open from the front, which is an approved innovation, a rounded seat at the back which makes for the greater comfort of passengers. A good looking car, with odd, unusual lights and a stylish radiator. A feature of its charm is its ability to turn in its own length. On a downtown street it can turn between two cars and the narrowest road holds no difficulties for this responsive little machine. At $1675 it offered many allurements, and its four-passenger capacity makes it a sociable sort of possession.

STABILITY.

But the Locomobile was disturbing, hunger-creating. It seems to be the very king of cars, $5000, $6800, those are prices that mean the ultimate perfection. There is the stability of the Bank of England about the Locomobile, every last small detail is carried out with impressive efficiency and costliness. No chance for a drip of rain to ooze through any crack, windguards, a maze of adjust screws, several various light controls and indicators, yale locks on the hood, the finest and minutest adjustments for every conceivable eventuality. Multitudinous indicators for light, oil, mileage, speed, voltage, yea, even to double catches on the doors so that the slightest push or the hardest bang finds the door properly closed. Great solid fenders, extra seats like unto those millionaire offices should boast, and yet with it all, such easy steering and operating that Molly could have mastered it in an afternoon, could have controlled the throttle in her thinnest dancing shoe with scarce a move.

The upholstery is such that not a crevice goes bare, and remote, unseen cracks will be found rigidly, smoothly carpeted. The quintessential essence of the sort of car a great financier who sways the fate of nations would find seemly—wealth, place, authority, power in every last detail.

FASCINATING.

As a sharp contrast we turned to the positively devilishly fascinating Premier Clover Leaf roadster, a glittering, daring dash of vivid scarlet inside and out. A small 4-passenger car, thoroughly chic and impudent, dash and dare-devil wickedness, concentrated smartness, twenty-three hundred dollars worth of it, with even the gasoline tank dashingly picturesque. Vivacity, sparkle, glorious insouciance radiated from the clover leaf. Only the most modest, reserved looking of maidens dare drive it, and then she would have to be prepared to be the sensation of the road.

Reluctantly, very reluctantly, Molly turned away. Contemplation of the Paige roadster was becalming. Beautiful chaste lines, deep, wide seats, and French haute monde atmosphere and inclusive dash equipment, brought one back to modest propriety, and one could get that sense of refinement for $1445.

WITH THE SEASON.

Or the KisselKar, with its all-year feature, another of those that change their personality according to the season, appearing as a decorous coupe or a dashing roadster as required. A very fashionable looking car at its low price of $895.

The sturdy bulldog Stutz was another of the dashing variety of car, piquant, speedy, indeed, they call it the champion of the speedway. The sort of car a sporting girl would adore. Mrs. Billy Hook of tennis fame drives one all the time and finds it soul-satisfying. One of its chief charms is that its bright red and green leather linings can be washed with soap and water, and the grease spot can be at once seen and removed. They do them in red and silver, and in battleship grey and moss green, highly attractive and artistic combinations. It costs $2750, has the divided seats, spot light, and carries four passengers.

ALLURING.

The Maxwell is a car that has many allurements, one of the cheapest and most efficient cars on the market.

The Kane-Derrick trade probably means that the latter will be the regular first sacker for the Tigers, that being the only position in which he is a star. With Manager Patterson amply able to fill in at that position the club has a superabundance of first basemen, and it is likely that Gleichmann will be traded or sold. McCredie is known to have a high regard for the former Oriole's ability around the initial sack.

CLOCK PLAYS NINE TUNES

A Century Old Timekeeper that ... Built When Labor was Little Considered.

[Indianapolis News:] A ... clock which is probably 100 years ... is owned by Mrs. Fred Garb ... Brownstown. The clock, which ... about five feet high and four ... square, was brought to this ... in December, 1849, by Henry ... man. His brother-in-law, Wil... Schwein, had written for him ... bring the clock over with him ... Germany. After the death of ... Schwein, Adam Heller, father of ... Garb, bought the clock at a ... sale. A short time ago Frank Heller, a jeweler at Alexandria, visited relatives here and on his return home took the works of the clock to Alexandria as the clock had been out of commission for a number of years. He repaired the works, brought them here and set the clock up.

The clock plays nine different tunes. Pipes like those of a pipe organ are concealed in the back of the clock and a roll of music is used similar to the music in a grind organ. While the pieces are being played four little men dressed in uniform appear in front of the clock, with different instruments, and holding them to their mouths, turn from right to left as if they were playing before a large audience. The clock is regarded as a valuable relic.

SLEEPS SITTING UP TO SAVE BIRD.

REFUSES TO PART WITH CANARY SO RIDES IN DAY CAR ALL NIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LANCASTER, Oct. 26.—By her devotion to a pet bird which she carried in a cage, and which she refused to surrender to the baggageman on train No. 49 tonight, Mrs. Mary A. Quibell of No. 210 South Fremont street, Los Angeles, started on a four-day trip to Seattle and will ride in a day coach instead of a Pullman car sleeper, as previously provided for her.

She left Seattle seven months ago in search of health for her husband. She brought to California, besides her sick husband, a bird, the only survivor of her daughter's household in the San Francisco earthquake.

When informed by the conductor she had to store the bird in the baggage car Mrs. Quibell stoutly refused and insisted wherever the bird rode she would accompany it, even if she had to ride astride the engine, but to sleep in a Pullman and leave her pet to the mercy of a baggageman—never!

Mrs. Quibell, who had secured Pullman accommodations, as a compromise was permitted to place the cage under a seat in the day coach, where it will remain until she reaches her destination, where she goes to defend a suit brought by sons of a former wife against the large estate of her husband, who died a short time ago.

PLANS FOR HOME LITTLE UNUSUAL.

HOUSE TO LOOK LIKE LAST LETTER OF ALPHABET.

Pasadena's Millionaire Row to Receive Peculiar Addition—Man Who Shot Himself Taken to County Hospital for Examination as to Sanity—Flower Show to Open.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Oct. 27.—Residents of "Pasadena's millionaire row" are looking forward with great delight to the completion of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Coppell of New York on South Orange Grove avenue. This mansion, the building permit for which was taken out yesterday, is to cost $70,000, and will in many respects be the most unusual house in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Coppell recently decided to make their home in the Crown City and are determined to waste no time in constructing the building. Plans have been drawn by B. C. Goodhue, a New York architect.

The building is to be a type of the Spanish renaissance in architecture. The ground plan is in the form of the letter Z and is 115 feet from end to end. The front main entrance is approached over heavy flagging, such as was used in the missions. Several steps lead to a stairway room, the vista across this apartment disclosing a magnificent grand stairway. This stairway divides at the landing and branches to right and left.

There is a broad and deep entrance from the other side for those arriving in automobiles. This automobile foyer has a flagged platform that will be without a roof. The building will be two stories high and finished in stucco and red tile. Splendid gardens, accommodated to the architectural features of the building, will form a fitting setting.

TO BE EXAMINED.

James Causley of No. 2053 North Los Robles avenue, who shot himself Monday night, was taken to the County Hospital, where he will be examined as to his sanity. The complaint was sworn to by George Vierick, a nurse, who was called in after Causley had tried to kill himself.

Causley shot at himself just after telephoning his wife, from whom he was separated and a divorce pending, to listen to something he wanted her to hear, he then pressing a revolver to his breast and firing a shot.

Mrs. Causley heard the shot, summoned aid and rushed to her husband's aid. Any action in regard to divorce proceedings that might be taken will be held in abeyance pending the result of the examination as to Causley's sanity.

Well-known society leaders of Pasadena and Los Angeles are to be patronesses at the eighth annual fall flower show, which opens tomorrow. The show will be held for the first time in Central Park, under big tents which have been stretched for the occasion. Among the judges of this floral display of beauty are Mmes. Walter Raymond, H. C. Barrol and Thomas Early.

Superfluous Hair Removers Are Dangerous

Don't Use Poisonous So-Called Superfluous Hair Removers.

You may escape permanent injury if you use so-called hair removers, but you cannot escape an increased growth because after each removal the hair is bound to grow out more bristly and in time it will become so coarse that nothing will remove it but a razor.

The only safe way to remove hair is to devitalize it. It is useless to use pastes or rub-on preparations because they only remove hair from the surface of the skin. DeMiracle, the original liquid depilatory, devitalizes hair by attacking it under the skin as well as on the skin.

Imitations of DeMiracle are as worthless as pastes and rub-on preparations because they lack certain ingredients that DeMiracle alone contains which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. Remember DeMiracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package which entitles you to your money if it fails. Insist on the genuine DeMiracle and you will get the original liquid hair remover. Others are worthless imitations—refuse them.

DeMiracle is sold in $1.00 and $2.00 bottles. If your dealer will not supply you, order direct from us. The truth about the treatment of superfluous hair mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. DeMiracle Chemical Company, Dept. 3, Park Ave. and 129th St., New York.

Ontario.

SHALL SHE BE WIFE OR MOTHER, HER PROBLEM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 26.—"No one but God and myself know what I am suffering. I must choose between my children and my husband, and I love both of them better than my life."

This was the statement sobbed out by Mrs. Samuel L. Wilson to Ontario officers when, in response to a call, they found the old lady confined to her bed and in a state of collapse at her home, No. 145 Monterey avenue, today.

Wilson's grown children have turned against him and have given out the ultimatum to their mother that she must choose between her husband, who is their own father, and themselves. Mrs. Wilson is prostrated with grief over the trouble.

On September 1, last, Wilson was arrested on complaint of a son, R. H. Wilson, and charged with striking his grown daughter, Jeanie, over the head with a chair. The old man's defense, when taken before Judge Holbrook, was that he had been shamefully abused by the girl, who, he said, had come at him with a bread knife when he had raised the chair in self-defense.

Wilson, who is 65 years of age, was allowed his freedom after promising to make no further disturbance and since that time has been living apart from his wife and children.

Last evening Mrs. Wilson attended a meeting at the First Nazarene Church. There she met her husband and invited him and the minister, Rev. Edward Hutchens, to come and dine with her.

Mrs. Wilson declared to the officers today that her children had no sooner learned that their father was in her home than they hurried to the house and the old man was made the subject of bitter reproaches at the hands of a married daughter, Mrs. Effie Carr. The officers were notified today by the children that their father was abusing their mother. This Mrs. Wilson denied emphatically.

"Mr. Wilson has never spoken one unkind word to me," she declared, "since he left home two months ago. He tells me that he can never be happy living apart from me and I love him, too, and want him back, but my children say that if I take him back they will turn from me and never come to see me again.

"It's hard, hard," sobbed Mrs. Wilson. "We have been married and living together for thirty-six years and have always been happy together until this. It's hard to make a change now. I wish we could all be happy together again. It won't be for long. Life is so short."

When the officers went to the Wilson home today, Miss Jeanie Wilson explained the attitude of the children thus:

"We know our father and we know that he won't be back here a week until he will be abusing our mother and we are not going to stand for it."

The Wilsons were informed by the officers that the father has a perfect right to visit his home whenever he wants so long as he behaves himself and it was suggested to the children that they were apparently abusing their mother more than their father was. The children are apparently unwilling to give their father a chance to make good.

Mrs. Wilson admits that there have been times in the past when Wilson has mistreated her, but declares that she has long ago forgiven him. Mrs. Wilson is a sister of Councilman Henry White of this city.

SOUTHERN CROP REPORTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WINCHESTER, Oct. 26.—Experiments made with Sudan grass in the country hereabout this year have brought results which indicate that it has high value as a "dry" farming feed for horses and cattle. E. F. Lindenberger grew a plat of it and gives an excellent report of what it did.

In the Murrietta display at the Riverside County Fair was baled Sudan grass hay which, with its pale green hue, attracted much attention. John Harvey, ten miles south of Winchester, grew some of it in his experiment station. Without irrigation he made several cuttings of which practically all of his dozen horses ate freely.

Sudan grass looks somewhat like "back east" timothy multiplied about three diameters. Long after other varieties of hay-yielding plants dry up this keeps green and fairly tender. When ripened it does not have a big tough root like the milo maize or Egyptian corn to interfere with the next years cultivation. There will undoubtedly be a considerable sowing of Sudan grass in this valley next year.

FULLERTON WALNUTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Oct. 26.—The moving of the Fullerton walnut crop is now well under way. The Fullerton association has handled several carloads and other firms have moved out from five to ten cars. Local nuts are 93 per cent. No. 1 size. Culls are more numerous than last year. Los Angeles companies are buying the culls and take them to that city for separation.

The American Fruit Distributors are making heavy walnut shipments from Capistrano and are also moving Fullerton nuts. The Benchley Fruit Company expects to handle about fifty cars and the Fullerton association will move out at least fifty-five or sixty cars. Knute Norswing is selling his entire crop to eastern people, shipping in small boxes by express and parcels post. Shipments are also being made from Placentia and La Habra. Nearly half of the walnut crop has been moved from some of the local districts.

Many tons of beans have been brought in to the local packing-houses the past few days, compelling the two cleaning plants to run day and night shifts.

OCEANSIDE PLANTING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OCEANSIDE, Oct. 26.—The most important planting of citrus fruit in the Oceanside country this season is that of the South Coast Land Company, owners of large tracts of land at Carlsbad, a few miles south of Oceanside. The enterprise consists of the setting out of 20,000 trees, or 200 acres. The trees were purchased from the Howell Heights Nursery at Escondido and are 2-year-old budded stock, all of them Eurekas. They are being planted in several tracts in different parts of the Carlsbad holdings.

The last of the sugar beets of this season's planting have been shipped, the books of the Santa Fe Railroad, which has handled the shipments, showing a business of 317 carloads; 151 from the San Luis Valley, east of Oceanside, and 166 from the Santa Margarita Ranch, north of Oceanside. Figured on the basis of $250 per car of forty-five tons, the growers received approximately $79,250. For the season of 1914 the shipments of sugar beets from the same territory was 443 carloads, bringing $119,690 to the growers. The curtailment this season was due to the increased acreage of bean planting.

M'KITTRICK GRAIN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, Oct. 26.—Ranchers predict that the Carissa plains section of San Louis Obispo county will yield double the amount of grain that is has this year, although the production of wheat and barley for this season surpasses any former season. This is the nearest shipping point and the warehouses here are rapidly being filled with the threshed grain of which there will be 25,000 sacks.

Inquiry for farming implements is larger than ever before. Ground is being prepared for the planting of wheat, which will begin the first of December, by which time the first winter rains will have fallen, if expectations do not fail. Most of the seed wheat sown in the Carissa plains is of the Sonora variety and harvesting begins in June. The average yield is ten bushels to the acre.

NEW PACKING-HOUSES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 26.—Three new packing-houses for orange shippers are in the course of construction in Packing-house Row, a complete new equipment for the Mid-California Citrus Association; a new house for the Mutual Orange Distributors and a new plant for the Randolph Packing Company. Material additions are also being made to the plants of the Stewart Fruit Company and the Porterville Citrus Association.

At the Mid-California house there is to be put in operation for the first time a new type of weighing apparatus which is the invention of W. L. Ross, of this city. By this device each individual lot of fruit is weighed and tallied as it goes through the graders without attention of any employee, not only making a material saving of time, but, it is claimed, being much more accurate than the method now in use.

VAN NUYS BEANS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VAN NUYS, Oct. 26.—The growing of bush lima beans promises to become an important industry in this section. A yield of twenty sacks per acre is reported from the experimental fields planted this season. Two carloads of these beans were shipped this week, netting the growers 4¼ cents per pound, f.o.b. cars. All the lima bean straw in the valley has found a ready market at $6 per ton, baled. The expenses of baling is $2 per ton, leaving the grower $4 for the straw.

Manager A. J. Boulanger of the Van Nuys Growers' and Canners' Association, states that canned limas are superior to any other canned bean and he predicts that this crop will become one of the most profitable in the valley. A strong point in favor of growing limas, is that the soil improves each year under this crop, the yield constantly increasing.

TULARE COUNTY FRUIT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Oct. 26.—Two interesting developments of the Tulare county fruit industry are noted in the annual report of C. F. Collins, county commissioner of horticulture, just transmitted to the State commission. The reports shows that the total output of peaches for the past season reached 37,500 tons, which is an increase of more than 20 per cent. over the largest previous annual production reported, and the total area devoted to citrus fruits is 41,500 acres, giving Tulare county the lead of the State by a wide margin.

WHITTIER WALNUTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Oct. 26.—About one-half of the season's walnut crop has been received at the Los Nietos packing house of the Whittier Walnut Association, according to Wallace Gregg, secretary. Nuts have been coming in fast since the opening of the house for their receipt, and one day a total of sixty tons were received and cared for. The house has normally a capacity of two and a half tons per hour and big days cause a run over time.

A new walnut sorter to separate the cull nuts from the good ones is being installed by the Whittier Walnut Association this week. The new affair does its work on the vacuum cleaner principle, by sucking up the light-weight nuts only and leaving those of sufficient weight to guarantee that they are well filled. The new machine is said to be able to do the work hitherto done by four men and to do it better, because the work is done unerringly.

ESCONDIDO VEGETABLES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ESCONDIDO, Oct. 26.—Shipping through the California Vegetable Union of Los Angeles, the Escondido Tomato Growers' Association has shipped fourteen carload of tomatoes in the first year's planting of the vegetable. Additional shipments will be made until the coming of the frost puts a stop to it. Manager William Glass of the vegetable union states that the results, all things considered, are satisfactory, and that double the acreage will be planted the coming season. He predicts that tomatoes, which are now selling at 65 cents per box, will go to $1 per box before the end of the shipping season.

BANNING ALMONDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BANNING, Oct. 26.—The Banning almond huller has shut down for the season, the work of handling the crop from the big Drake ranch having just been finished. The Almond Growers' Association reports that 100 tons of the nuts have been shipped from Banning and that there will be about seventy-five tons shipped later. It was thought that the crop would run close to 200 tons. The price for the nuts this year has been good. Some acreage is to be planted to almonds this winter and considerable acreage will come into bearing with the next crop.

HUNTERS' BOAT OVERTURNS ON LITTLE BEAR LAKE.

Occupants Spilled into Water and Rescued with Difficulty—San Bernardino Supervisors Select Site for County Hospital — Get-together Barbecue at Colton.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 26.—A rowboat carrying Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelley of this city capsized on Little Bear Lake today, throwing the quartette into the cold waters.

Mrs. Adams went under twice before her husband, kicking loose his boots, struggled to her side and kept her afloat until help arrived. They were brought to this city this afternoon and are now recovering.

The party was on the lake hunting ducks. As a flock of the fowl rose over the boat the men excitedly rose to their feet and overbalanced the craft. This is the first accident reported in Little Bear since the season opened. At the opening of the season Isadore Josseau was drowned in Big Bear Lake, when a rowboat turned over in the water.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Architect Lyman Farwell and members of the Board of Supervisors inspected the county hospital site at Base Line and Waterman avenues today and made the tentative selection of the spot where the new buildings will be placed, work on which is to be started within a few weeks, it is expected. Farwell announces that the plans and specifications will be ready for issuing a call for bids within a week. The county will do the excavation work direct.

It is announced here today that the funeral of Charles C. Clusker, aged 105, and the oldest Elk on earth, will be held probably in San Diego, under the auspices of the San Diego lodge, because "Uncle Charlie" has made San Diego his home for the past six years. Many of the local lodge, in which Clusker held membership card No. 1, will go to San Diego for the funeral, it is expected.

Two thousand persons are expected to attend the county get-together barbecue on November 11 at the California Portland Cement Company's plant at Colton, at which Manager T. J. Fleming will be the host. Six hundred invitations will be allotted to San Bernardino. The cement plant and rock crusher will be open to inspection from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on that day, and the barbecue, in charge of William Starke of this city, will be served at 1 o'clock.

Albert H. Morgan has purchased from G. R. Harbolt a twenty-acre orange grove in the Rialto district, located between Sycamore and Acacia avenues, north of Base Line, for $30,000, or $1500 per acre. The grove is in navels and Mediterranean sweets.

Standard Railroads and Many Heretofore Inactive Issues Show Strength and Generally Hold Their Gains—War Specialties are up and Down—Steel Leads in Steadiness.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Greater breadth and a generally higher price level attended today's very active market, although some of the most volatile specialties were vulnerable to pressure and yielded in a large part or whole before the close. Dealings in the forenoon averaged 300,000 shares per hour, but slackened perceptibly later, only to become feverishly active again toward the close at the expense of values.

The early high tendency embraced a number of standard rails and some of the low priced inactive shares of that group, for example, the Wabash, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Wisconsin Central and Lake Erie and Western issues. Transcontinentals were variably higher, Canadian Pacific gaining almost four months, but grangers were backward.

Brice once more led the railway division, the common stock being the most active feature of the morning session with a further gain of over a point, while the first, and second preferred shares were higher in sympathy.

Specialties were intermittently strong and weak, also the coppers, but it was noticed that larger offerings of the war shares occurred at recessions. Automobile issues were inclined to ease, except the Maxwell issues, all of which attained new records. The common rose 1¾ to 92, the first preferred, 3½ to 1.00 and the second preferred, 4½ to 68½. Later Maxwell common lost a great deal more than its gain, closing with a net loss of 4¼.

Bethlehem Steel was heaviest of the high priced specialties, at one time showing a loss of 20 points at 560, but making full recovery at the close. Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, General Electric and New York Air Brake were under the previous day's finals.

United States Steel resumed its leadership in the afternoon, rising almost 2 points to 87¼, but losing all but half a point on heavy offerings. Failure of the directors to act on the dividend was in line with general expectations, but the corporation's earnings of $38,710,644 was slightly under popular estimates. Total sales of stocks amounted to 1,165,000 shares.

Foreign exchange made some recovery from the weakness of the previous day, mainly as a result of light sales of bills.

Bonds were steady on a reduced volume of business. Total sales par value aggregated $5,155,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

PEACE TALK IS BEAR NEWS.

RIES ARE FRUITLESS AND THE CLOSE IS LOWER.

Fresh European Influences, Local Receipts are Light, Weather is Cold and Canada's Probable Action on the Border Duty Charges Tend to Depress Values.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Reports that Germany would soon offer terms of peace had a good deal to do today with the setback in the value of wheat. Prices failed to last, and the market was steady, ¾ to ⅞ off, with December at 1.00⅜ and May at 1.02⅝@1.02¾. Oats ruled ¼@⅜ to ⅝@½. Oats showed a shade to ¼@¼ and provisions ranged 10 to 22½ down.

The biggest breaks in wheat followed upon the receipt of news indicating the possibility of a sudden end to hostilities in Europe. Bearish tendencies in the market were quite evident, however, before there was any hint of a chance for peace. The unresponsive action of yesterday's sharp advance on the part of the Liverpool market in spite of yesterday's sharp advance on the part of the Liverpool market in the face of the Atlantic had formed a natural handicap to the bulls. Moreover, excellent weather was predicted for the northwest, and there were reports that the Canadian duty would be removed. Another depressing element lay in the fact that the usual falling off in receipts at the end of the spring crop centers could be explained as resulting from movement measures necessary to prevent congestion of railway terminal facilities.

Reactions from the break after the publication of news carried the wheat market higher for a time in lively fashion. Offerings were covered that buying was in for seaboard account by reports were not verified. On the contrary the latest advices appeared to show that the export movement had lagged to a noticeable degree, influenced more or less by the support of sterling exchange. Corn owed its strength largely to renewed demand from the seaboard. Pessimistic field reports counted against the bears. Oats proved fairly weak. Shipping inquiry was devoid of an urgent character.

Changes in the hog market were weak provisions. Lard led in the downward turn, but the break was checked by purchase of 10,000 tierces for export.

GREAT INCREASE SHOWN IN STEEL EARNINGS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the quarter ending September 30, last, which had been looked forward to with great interest in financial and other business circles, were announced today. They amounted to $38,710,644, an increase of $10,760,589 over the preceding quarter, the most favorable exhibit since the record quarter of 1913, when earnings aggregated $41,219,813. The net income of $30,045,791 shows a gain of $9,784,207 over the preceding quarter, while the surplus of $18,037,241 indicates a gain of $9,769,596.

The regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 per cent. was declared on the preferred stock, but no action was taken toward the resumption of common dividends, as expected in some quarters, although the surplus for the quarter was almost three times in excess of such requirements.

PORT NOTES.

Ramona de Flores, known as the Jeanne d' Arc of Mexico, is a passenger for San Francisco on the steamer San Ramon, which arrived here from Mexican ports today. She is on her way to Washington on a commission from the Carranza administration, the nature of which she declined to state. She has been in forty-seven battles and was wounded three times. She has been in the service since 1910 and was given the title of colonel after raising a regiment of men which lead in numerous campaigns.

The steamer Nann Smith, bound from South American ports for Tacoma, called for fuel today and proceeded.

The steamer Coaster called today to complete her cargo, bound from San Francisco to Mexican ports, under charter to the California South Sea Navigation Company.

WHITE BLAINS ALL OVER BODY

And Arms. Also Forehead. Itched and Burned Till Could Not Sleep at Night.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My trouble came in big white blains all over my body and arms, also my forehead. They itched and burned till I could get no sleep at night. I scratched until I made my arms and limbs one mass of eruptions.

"I used ——— salve, and several other kinds of salves, but they did not do good. At last I saw an advertisement about Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I thought I would try it. As soon as I got it I put it on and it seemed to take the irritation away. I kept it up, and in about six weeks the eruptions began to dry up and now I am entirely free from them." (Signed) Mrs. S. W. Baker, John Day, Ore., Jan. 1, 1915.

VARIETY IN EXPLOSIVES.

Hundreds of Kinds are Known, but the Most Unstable is Iodide of Nitrogen, Which a Fly Can Explode.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] Explosives are solids which, under certain conditions, suddenly change into heated gas occupying many times the original space of the solids. Ordinary gunpowder, when fired, turns into gas, of which the volume is 4000 times as great as that of the powder. No wonder the bullet in front of it leaves the muzzle of the rifle in a hurry.

Today there are scores, even hundreds, of different sorts of explosives known to science. Some, such as lyddite, require a very considerable shock to explode them. Others, such as nitro-glycerine, are fearfully dangerous to handle, for a few extra degrees of warmth or a very slight jar is sufficient to turn them instantly into gas.

Of the latter type there is nothing quite so unstable as iodide of nitrogen. It has to be made in alcohol. When allowed to dry it appears as a brown powder, and so unstable is this powder that a touch with a feather will set it off. The experiment has been tried of leaving a few grains upon a table mixed with a grain of sugar. The first bluebottle that flew on the table and began to crawl among the grains caused an explosion.

The mere jarring of the air by a loud shout or a heavy footstep is sufficient to detonate iodide of nitrogen, and it need hardly be added that no one in his senses would attempt to make this terrible stuff. To do so in any quantity would be equivalent to committing suicide.

Nitro-glycerine is not so dangerous as this iodide, but at a temperature of only 100 degrees—that is, very little more than the warmth of the human body—it begins to decompose.

Tons of nitro-glycerine are turned out every day, for it is the explosive from which guncotton is made. But all the mixing vats are artificially cooled by coils of cold water pipes.

Willow as Jute.

[Manchester Guardian:] The willow herb is a puzzling substitute for jute, unless the Germans can use the stalks—not the cotton fluff of the seeds—as a textile fiber writes a botanical correspondent. The common nettle suggests itself as more valuable for this purpose. It was used by the ancient Egyptians, and it still used in Piedmont and other countries. In Hans Andersen's tale of the Wild Swans, the King's daughter has to weave shirts of nettle-cloth for her brothers. In Denmark the name of nettle thread (naeldegarn) is still given to finely spun cotton thread. Nettle-cloth as a substitute for linen was formerly known in Scotland. One of Scotland's poets used to tell that in his mother's house he never slept between any sheets but nettle-sheets, or dined off any tablecloth but a nettle one. The plant, cut in the middle of the summer, is treated like hemp, and produces yarn and cloth of both coarse and fine quality.

CANNON FROM CHURCH BELLS.

The Noted "Bummerin" of St. Stephens, Vienna, is to Be Remade Into Artillery After Two Centuries.

[Newark Star:] From cannon to church bell, and from church bell back to cannon, is the strange vicissitude of certain historic metal, as one of the results of the war. It has been decreed that the "Bummerin," in the steeple of St. Stephen's, Vienna, is to go to the foundry to be melted and recast into artillery.

The bell, made from cannon taken from the Turks in the defense of Vienna 232 years ago, for two centuries announced all the great feasts of the church, but its vibrations shook the structure so perilously that it has not been rung for twenty-five years. Like our Liberty Bell, it is a voiceless, but cherished relic. Its fate now is to return from the functions of peace and love to those of destruction and hatred. In fact, every church bell in Austria disused in recent years is to be given up to the exigencies of war.

But this is not without precedent. In the war of the American revolution church bells were taken down to be cast into cannon. During the French revolution many of the churches were stripped of their bells for the same purpose. Holland, in her war for independence against Spain, turned many of her church bells into cannon. Probably when the present European war ends there will be thousands of churches bereft of their bells and the cannon used in the war will be utilized for metal to restore them.

I CURE PILES
Fistula and all Rectal Diseases
WITHOUT an OPERATION
By MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

I keep a trained lady nurse constantly on duty in my office for the convenience and comfort of lady patients.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 35 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has no appliances; the knowledge and the skill born of years of specialization is his fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all his claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.
WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Mr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat, without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling disease which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line, I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,
ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., LL.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

PRESIDENT OF WHITTIER COLLEGE CURED.

For more than ten years I was a sufferer from a painful affliction, which nearly ruined my usefulness as an organizer and teacher. Dr. C. H. White of Los Angeles has completely cured me by a process that was painless and rapid, and I desire to go on record as recommending the Doctor in diseases of his specialty.

MAYOR IS READY TO HUNT FUNDS.

WILL SUPPORT CAMPAIGN TO OPEN FIRE HOUSES.

Chairman of Finance Committee Says Question is not Before the Council and Former Action, Taken for Financial Reasons, was the Only Course.

Mayor Sebastian announced yesterday, in response to many letters and personal appeals that the ten firehouses closed for lack of funds be reopened, that he will do all in his power toward devising ways and means for putting the companies back in commission.

"The desirability of keeping fire protection in Los Angeles to the highest possible point of efficiency is one on which there seems to be no ground for argument," said the Mayor. "Fire insurance rates have been raised and the closing of fire houses is given as the reason. Frank admission of these facts, though, does not provide the money necessary to put these companies back in commission, but I hope that the funds can be discovered in some legal manner and I propose to do everything I can to help solve the problem."

Chairman Wheeler of the Finance Committee said that the question of reopening the fire houses is not now before the committee or the Council. "The Budget Committee made no provision for salaries in the ten fire companies that were closed simply because there was no money for that purpose," said Councilman Wheeler. "In this action, the committee's report, was approved by the Council. It has been suggested that we might take the alleged $1,195,000 reserve fund and use it for two-platoon salaries, but I learn that the reserve fund today is about $200,000 and this money will be paid out within a few days for purposes that are proper demands upon the fund."

AT SHERMAN DRIVE.

DEATH TRAP OR VIADUCT?

Consideration of appeals for opening Sherman drive and Western avenue across the Pacific Electric right-of-way at Vineyard Station are scheduled to come before the Council today. Residents of the neighborhood who want a grade crossing are supported by several members of the Council while others have expressed themselves as unalterably opposed to a crossing at grade at this point which is designated by the Public Utilities Board as one that will make the worst death trap within the city limits.

The Public Utilities Board has prepared plans for a viaduct at this point and the estimated cost is $40,000. This project, as proposed, calls for a distrubution of cost, $20,000 to be paid by the Pacific Electric; $10,000 by the city at large and $10,000 by a large assessment district lying on both sides of the crossing. There is no division of opinion in the Council regarding the urgent need of an opening over the railroad right-of-way at that point.

The Council will also receive today the report of Chairman Topham of the General Viaducts Committee, suggesting a plan for the elimination of grade crossings in the industrial district along the Los Angeles River. Inasmuch as this report is vastly different from the general plans for long viaducts as prepared by the Public Utilities Board and tentatively approved by the Council several months ago, it is likely that Mr. Topham's report will go to the Public Works Committee or another special committee.

To Open Warehouse Bids.

Bids for construction of the municipal warehouse on Dock No. 1 will be opened by the Harbor Commission this morning, and at the same time the commission will consider the request of Mayor Sebastian that the work be done by force account and that home labor be employed and home materials used, so far as quality and terms may be equal. This suggestion of the Mayor has also been indorsed by the Council through favorable action on a report of the Harbor Committee.

Meetings Postponed.

Offices in the City Hall were closed yesterday on account of election. The Police Commission meeting will be held this morning and the Public Utilities Board will meet tomorrow afternoon.

STOLEN GOODS RESTORED.

Jewelry and other goods valued at $500 were returned to rightful owners yesterday, from the loot assembled by Jack Burt and his comrades in their looting. Detectives Beaumont and Wynn segregated the property and identified the owners from a list of missing articles submitted by them to the police. Burt was one of the three men stopped by Motorcycle Policeman Krebs at Avenue Forty-five and Pasadena avenue. One of the three ran into the brush at the side of the street and escaped.

FURNISHES BAIL.

James L. Copeland, former District Attorney of San Diego, was released from the County Jail yesterday on bail of $1000. He is accused of issuing a worthless check and was arrested at Santa Monica on charges preferred by W. J. England.

THE WARLIKE TSARS.

The Title Has a Sacred Significance to the Russians and its Bearers Have Ben Renowned for Courage.

[London Chronicle:] The Tsar, who has assumed supreme command of the Russian forces, comes of a family renowned for courage. Alexander I was in the fighting line at Austerlitz, and exposed himself so recklessly that he escapted death only by a miracle, while in the battle before Dresden he was splashed by the blood of Gen. Moreau, who was killed at his side. His successor, Nicholas, was described, even by the enemy as "absolutely ignorant of fear," and Alexander II not only exposed himself as fearlessly as any of his soldiers in the Turkish campaign of 1877 but literally sacrificed his life to his unconcern for suffering, when he fell by the assassin's bomb in 1881.

The title "Tsar" bears a peculiarly sacred significance in Russia. It is seldom used in modern Russia except in the church prayers, the word ordinarily employed being "Gosudar." Similarly "Tsaritsa" and "Tsesarevitch" are church terms, and in ordinary life Russians commonly speak of the "Gosudarynia" and the "Naslednik." It has been maintained that "Tsar" is not derived from Caesar, but is a Slavenda word signifying Prince; but the generally accepted view is that "Tsar" has the same origin as "Kaiser." A parrallel case is the Lithuanian word for King—"Karalius," from Charlemagne, the great Karl or Carolus.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY DOROTHY JOHNSON.

The annual reception of the Friday Morning Club, when the president and board of directors were "at home" to the members and their friends to celebrate the completion of the original plans for the clubhouse, was held yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The Hospitality Committee, Mrs. H. H. Kerckhoff and Mrs. W. N. Goodwin, chose autumn colors for decoration, using yellow and copper-colored chrysanthemums. Mrs. W. C. H. Noble, Mrs. Frank Gibson, Mrs. Jules Kauffman, Mrs. J. Wells Smith, Mrs. Frederick West, Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Mrs. H. B. Wing, Mrs. S. O. Houghton, Sr., Mrs. L. J. Selby and Mrs. F. Bruce Wetherby assisted at the tea tables.

The guests of honor were Mrs. J. F. Sartori, who was president when the clubhouse was built, and the directors who served with her during the building, also the past-presidents.

They are Mrs. J. A. Osgood, Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, Mrs. Allan C. Balch, Mrs. W. C. Patterson, Mrs. F. A. Eastman, Mrs. J. F. Waterman, Mrs. Morris Cohn, Mrs. E. G. Smead, Mrs. F. W. Brown, Mrs. Charles Monroe, Mrs G. F. Conant, Mrs. Roy Jones and Miss J. E. Collier, and the past-presidents, Mrs. J. A. Osgood, Mrs. J. F. Sartori, Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. E. K. Foster, Mrs. Oliver P. Clark, Mrs. David Chambers McCan and Mrs. Russell Judson Waters.

Mrs. J. F. Sartori made a short address and Mrs. T. W. Brown read some verses of Margaret Collier Graham on the building of the club.

Music was furnished during the afternoon by the harpist of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra.

Luncheon.

At a meeting of the State Council of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the residence of the State Regent, Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, last Saturday, there was discussion of the work of the coming months, specially along the line of patriotic education, which is the chief interest of the D.A.R. in California. The State Board of Housing and Immigration has greatly stimulated this interest by enlisting the aid of the D.A.R. in its campaign for citizen education. Some chapters have already done good work in their localities and there was so much interest and enthusiasm at this council of all the local chapters that the work bids fair to be greatly extended during the coming months.

After the meeting Mrs. Thayer entertained at luncheon.

Schubert Meets Today.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Schubert Club will be held at the Alexandria Hotel today at 2:30 o'clock. There will be some departure from the programme announced in the year book.

Last week's session was largely attended, the programme being given by Mrs. Carl Johnson and Mrs. Herbert H. Smock. Both were enthusiastically received. Among those giving parties in the palm room later, were noticed Madame de Troost Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Mrs. Frances Close Potts, Mrs. William Duffield and others.

Coleman House.

The monthly meeting of the Coleman House Settlement Association board of directors will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at No. 402 Bauchet street, the executive board meeting immediately after. Luncheon at noon, to which all members of the association are invited. Since the opening of the day nursery, children's beds, small tables, chairs, toys and supplies to furnish and keep up the nursery are constantly needed.

A rummage sale will be held at the above address on the second Tuesday of each month. The neighborhood store is open every Tuesday.

Hollywood Woman's Club.

The Hollywood Woman's Club finds itself fortunate this year in having Mrs. Bessie Bartlett Frankel as curator of the music section. The Russian opera, to be considered this quarter, has proved of great interest thus far to a large number of members. Wednesday's programme was under Mrs. Frankel's direction and was unusually excellent, Mrs. Graham F. Putnam rendering a MacDowell programme prefaced by reminiscences of the life and work of the brilliant composer. Mrs. Putnam was assisted by her talented young son, John F. Tomorrow Mrs. Frankel will present Herr Adolph Tandler, who will speak to the club on "The Orchestra in America."

Van Nuys Woman's Club.

Mrs. Fred Kellogg provided the programme for the Woman's Club, which met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. B. Hubbel, at North Van Nuys. The subject was "Civics," and the principal speaker Mrs. C. N. Ritchie of Burbank, who is chairman of Civics for the Los Angeles district C.F.W.C.

Mrs. C. B. Barkla spoke very interestingly on the subject of a flyless town. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Ida S. Bailey, Mrs. R. L. Leitch and Mrs. H. J. Lindeman, who served delicious refreshments after the programme was given. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. H. C. Hubbard of San Fernando, Mrs. Reginald Harris of Los Angeles and Mrs. Rufus Price of Alhambra. Six new members were welcomed into the club. Mrs. R. R. Edwards, Mrs. E. W. Moore, Miss Gertrude Moore, Mrs. H. C. Hubbard, Mrs. C. M. Beecher and Mrs. Daniel W. Staley.

The music section of the Woman's Club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard S. Trotter. A delightful hour was spent with Mrs. O. B. Hubbel leading the rehearsal, and Mrs. S. O. Houghton, Jr., at the piano. During a pleasant social half hour Mrs. Lewis E. Bliss assisted the hostess in serving dainty refreshments.

Sentous P. T. A.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Sentous intermediate schools will meet at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow, when an address will be given by Prof. Arthur A. Macurda of the State Normal. A musical programme will be given by the students. All patrons and friends of the school are invited.

Echo Park Mother's Club.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones of Glendale will appear tomorrow before the Echo Park Mothers' Club to talk on civics and political science. Mrs. Beebe is the chairman, and a large and enthusiastic meeting is anticipated.

The club has had some very good sessions so far, the Philanthropy chairman, Mrs. J. G. Brenholt, having secured Mrs. A. G. Kuck, assistant Federation chairman of Philanthropy for the programme of the 14th inst., and Mrs. Harry J. Slater of Santa Monica having discussed the constitutional amendments before the legislative departments of which Mrs. Laura Ashe is director, on the 21st inst.

The Madrigal Musical Club.

Members of the Madrigal Musical Club have adopted a course in musical history for the winter. Mrs. H. L. Knight, president, recently entertained the club at her home on No. 1948 West Twentieth street, Mrs. William H. Jamison giving a helpful talk. Composers studied were Mary Turner Salter and Ernest R. Croeger. Contributing to the enjoyable programme were Mrs. Jay H. Pendleton, Mrs. H. U. Sherwood, Mrs. T. O. Osborne, Mrs. G. M. McKinnu, Miss Grace Hilger and Mrs. A. H. Benner. Refreshments were served.

EXPOSING CHILDREN TO DISEASE

Why is it Necessary that They Should Have the Numerous Diseases Believed to go with Childhood?

[Omaha Bee:] An Omaha doctor, at a Des Moines gathering of doctors, delivered an address advocating the exposing of children while young to contagious diseases, thus building up a race of immunes. This rather startling suggestion was met with an immediate opposition by another doctor equally ceratin of the point, who contended that youngsters have no special capacity for resisting disease, and as many of them die as do the elder. This point may be of intense interest to the "mind that's scientific," but it holds a little element of wonder for the layman. Why expose children, or anyone else, for that matter, to the menace of contagious diseases? Is it really necessary that we have the mumps, the measles, the whooping-cough or any other dangerous and avoidable ills that beset childhood? Doctors really ought to be busy educating people in how to escape from these trials. The bacteriologists for years have been multiplying our dangers by many times, while the medicine men are equally active in supplying us with avenues for escape. If science offensive and defensive persists, may we not hope for a return to that happy condition when death will be occasioned alone by loss of blood or lack of breath.

ELECTRIC LAMPS PLAY MUSIC.

LIGHT RAYS TRANSMITTED INTO SOUND RAYS.

Dr. De Forest Makes it Possible for the Musician to Sit in His Studio and Play by Wireless the Music of the Lamps in Remote Localities.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] Dr. Lee de Forestannounced recently that he had made electric lights play music far surpassing the best efforts of any orchestra. "The music of the lamps," he called it. Dr. De Forest is one of the pioneers in the development of wireless telegraphy.

It is only a detail of the possibilities of Dr. De Forest's invention that the master musician may sit in his studio in modern New York and play by wireless "the music of the lamps" in the ear of the Sphinx, recalling to it the tunes of the ages of long ago. For all that is necessary is the transmission of the electric current to the electric lamps which give out the music.

"Music from light—that, in a word, is the latest magic of the lamp," said Dr. De Forest. "We have at last reached the point of transmitting light rays directly into sound rays. In my laboratory there are a number of small spherical incandescent bulbs from which I am able to obtain a succession of musical notes, clear, sweet, of surpassing volume, the pitch and timbre of which can be varied almost at will to imitate any musical tone of any orchestra. The infinite variety of tones and the consequent infinite combination of notes will enable musicians to reach a height of music perfection never attainable with any instrument now used. Here, then, in my laboratory, we have for the first time the music of the lamps.

"While working on my experiments in developing the audion as a wireless telephone detector and, incidentally, as an amplifier to be used on long-distance telephone wire lines, I made the discovery that when the circuits of the audion were connected in a certain way a clear musical note was heard in a telephone receiver connected with one of these circuits. The quality of the tone was very beautiful and I found after a little experimenting that I could change this quality into a great variety of sounds, imitating, with one lamp, for example, the flute, oboe, cornet, stringed instruments and other sounds pleasing to the ear, yet quite unlike those from any musical instrument with which we are familiar.

"The pitch of the notes was very easily regulated by changing the capacity of the inductance in the circuits, which can be very easily effected by a sliding contact or simply by turning the knob of the condenser. In fact, the pitch of the notes can be changed by merely putting the finger on certain parts of the circuit or even holding the hand close to parts of the circuit. In this way very weird and beautiful effects can be easily obtained.

"At the earlier stage of these investigations I found that the pitch of the note could easily be varied by a simple arrangement, such as a graphite pencil mark on a piece of paper or slate connected across the parts of the circuit, and this afforded the most ready means of altering the pitch and quality of the notes.

"Acting on these discoveries, I found it was a comparatively simple matter to arrange a crude scale similar in function to that of an organ, with switches in place of the ordinary keys, so that by pressing certain switches I could cut out or in more or less inductance, thus changing the notes emitted from the telephone receiver at will.

"In order to bring the volume of sound out large and full in the room it was necessary to connect a number of loud-speaking horns connected with the telephone receivers, similar to those used in railroad stations by announcers. With these horns distributed in different parts of my laboratory, or grouped together in one place, the sound can be made to emanate from all quarters of the room or from one corner, as I choose.

"At the present time I am using one bulb for an octave on the musical scale with the arrangements of keys and switches, so that from this one bulb I can produce the notes of that octave by pressing the right keys. For the next octave another bulb is used, and so on. The output of all these bulbs is made common to one set of telephone receivers or loud speakers, so that the total energy in the form of sound is that of all the bulbs which are operating at any one time."

THE SPEED OF TRAINS.

Records Were Made About Ten Years Ago—Since Then Disposition Has Been Towards Safety.

[New York World:] If the fastest railroad train that ever ran the distance had set out upon its record trip just when the automobile race began at Sheepshead Bay, Saturday it would have been completing 254.6 miles as Anderson in his car finished 350 miles and the race.

It is in its boasted tirelessness that the "tireless iron horse" of the rails cedes its place. For distances of one to ten miles the locomotive is still ahead of the motor car, with records of 109 to 120 miles an hour. With special cars and track the Zossen experiments in Germany developed even greater speed.

As distance increases the automobile gains rapidly on the train. Just where it catches up would be hard to say, but well within fifteen miles. Beyond that it shows a clean pair of heels, though handicapped by such sharp and frequent turns as no train ever has to negotiate.

Railroad speed records were all made ten years ago and more. Of late there has been no increase in the schedule pace of famous fliers, but rather a tendency to allow more time. Passengers look on extreme speed as dangerous. Managers have decided that it costs more than it produces in fares or is worth in advertising.

Will automobile speed take a similar course? What possible benefit to everyday business or pleasure is there in proving that an exceptional man, if he is not killed or knocked out by noxious gases, can drive a car under terrific strain and constant danger three times as fast as it is safe to travel upon any public road?

Pomona.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Oct. 26.—A mysterious and anonymous letter, which came to the hands of Police Chief Lyter in a roundabout way, may shed light upon the killing of Edward Diaz at the home of his wife, Marie Diaz, in this city, the night of August 29. The letter is signed with the initials "J. B." It was written on a Chalmers Motor Sales Company letterhead with a typewriter, mailed to Fletcher & Clark, a firm of contractors in Anaheim, and directed to Chief Lyter. The text of it is as follows:

"In regard to the murder of Edward Diaz, I went to the home of Mrs. Diaz that night with one John Saunders, who was employed at the Pomona cafeteria as a cook's helper. At his invitation I went to the house to visit some women. At his suggestion I stood outside upon our arrival, and waited for him to go in and see if the girls would receive me. It was said that they were timid about strangers. While I waited outside I saw another man go in, and a few minutes later I heard shots fired. Then Saunders came out pounding and said that the man had attacked him with a gun, that the gun had been discharged, and that his assailant had been shot. Saunders asked me what he should do. I told him that I could not advise him, and I left that same night. I know nothing of his movements since then, nor a friend informed me that Mrs. Diaz has told nothing since then and that she is being held."

To the police today Saunders denies that he ever visited the home of Mrs. Diaz or that he knows any one whose initials are "J. B." or that knows anything concerning the tragedy.

The case is shrouded by deep mystery. Diaz, who was not living with his wife, was shot to death by two bullets on a Saturday night. He was found lying in the yard at the home of his wife. Beside him was a gun with three shells exploded. A few feet away was another gun, the owner of which had dented but failed to discharge a cartridge. Mrs. Diaz was locked up on a charge of murder and had since been in jail. She denies any knowledge of the tragedy.
